

3000 EMPLOYEES QUIT WORK AT PITTSBURGH

10,000 Persons at the Works of Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. This Morning, But No Disorder — Strikers March to Playgrounds

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 5.—Approximately 3000 men and women, employees of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., refused to go to work this morning when the whistles at the East Pittsburgh factory sounded at 7 o'clock. They formed in line and marched to the playgrounds at Turtle creek, a mile away, where the leaders said they would discuss their grievances.

Announcement of the strike was made late yesterday by representatives of the Westinghouse Employees' Industrial Union, who declared the company had been steadily discharging men for no other reason than that they had joined the organization which had been formed early in the year for the purpose of securing better working conditions. They also announced that companies of the Westinghouse Machine Co. and the Pittsburgh Meter Co., corporations whose plants are in that vicinity, would also be called upon to strike.

Soon after daylight employees of the electric company began to assemble at the works and when 7 o'clock came fully 10,000 persons were there. Leaders of the union passed through the crowd distributing hand bills which urged the men and women to refrain from going to work. A hundred or more persons were stationed along the streets leading to the plant and workers were personally solicited to join the strike. Many employees, however, entered the factory preparatory to beginning the day's work. A strike committee of 25 immediately gained entrance to the plant, determined they would bring out those who had gone to work. There was no disorder.

SUDDEN DEATH

Steve Laughton Found Dying in His Barber Shop This Morning

One of Lowell's oldest and best known barbers, Stephen A. Laughton, of 74 Chapel street, was found dying in his shop at 351 Central street, shortly before 6:30 o'clock this morning, and passed away in the ambulance on the way to St. John's hospital a few minutes later. At the time of going to press Medical Examiner Meigs had not viewed the body and the cause of the man's sudden death could not be learned.

It is said that Mr. Laughton had been ill for some time and it is believed by his intimate friends that the fire which wrecked his home on Chapel street late yesterday afternoon probably hastened his death as he was very nervous last evening.

Mr. Laughton together with his wife left their home shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, the former stopping at his barber shop while Mrs. Laughton continued on her way to one of the local factories where she is employed. The next seen of the deceased was about 6:30 o'clock when Patrolman Burke, who watches in upper Central street late nights, looked into the window and saw him sitting in a barber's chair with his head hanging down. The officer forced his way into the shop and upon finding him unconscious summoned the ambulance for treatment but death intervened. Undertaker McDermott was sent for to care for the body.

Mr. Laughton was about 53 years of age and had been a barber in Lowell for over thirty years, working in downtown shops for over 20 years and then opening the Opera House barber shop at 351 Central street, where he was in business up to the time of his death. His wife was grief stricken when informed of his death as she stated that although he was probably affected by the fire, he was in fairly good spirits when she left him at the shop about 6:30 o'clock.

COLORADO MINE STRIKE

SOCIALIST LEADER RECRUITING MEN TO PROTEST AGAINST ROCKEFELLER

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 5.—While Alexander Berkman, the socialist leader, was in Brooklyn and New York in search of recruits for an army which he declares will invade Tarrytown tomorrow to hold a demonstration in protest against the policy pursued by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., with regard to the Colorado mine strike, Sheriff Doyle of Westchester county, can today marshaling a force capable of handling a crowd of 2000 persons and if possible prevent a recurrence of last Saturday's clash when 13 industrial workers of the World members were arrested.

The Rev. J. B. Cates of the Methodist church, whose invitation to Berkman to debate with him the Rockefeller issue was withdrawn at the request of other ministers of the village, has announced that he has accepted Berkman's proposal to hold the debate in the near future in New York.

VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE

Streams of Boiling Lava and Storm of Stones and Ashes Fall Over Dutch Island of Sanguir

MANILA, June 5.—A violent eruption of several volcanoes occurred today on the Dutch island of Sanguir, only about 140 miles directly south of Mindanao in the Philippines.

Streams of boiling lava poured down the sides of the mountains, overwhelming woods and cocoa plantations. At the same time a heavy rain of stones and ashes from various craters fell over the whole island.

Official reports do not mention loss of life but register the destruction of one hundred houses.

Sanguir is the largest of the group known as the Talauste islands in the Celebes sea, about 500 miles to the east of British North Borneo. Destructive outbreaks of Gunong Abu, the principal volcano on the island, occurred in 1711, 1812, 1883 and 1892.

MEDIATORS OPTIMISTIC

Confident Carranza Will Decide to Take Part in Proceedings—Note in Four Days

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Carranza's omission that a favorable reply be sent to the mediators.

Officials of the state and navy departments were occupied with plans for meeting any situation that might arise at Tampico through efforts of Huerta to establish a blockade to halt shipments of arms for Carranza. American war vessels off Alvarado and Puerto Mexico reported that Huerta's ships had made no move to leave. They will continue under the surveillance of the American men-of-war.

Shipments of arms for Carranza that left Galveston and New York were likely to reach their destination unimpeded, it was believed here today. While orders had been issued to prevent the clearance of vessels carrying arms for any Mexican port, yet two steamers sailed with war cargoes through the failure of the state department's instructions to reach proper officials in time.

Whether the American government might stop those shipments at Tampico was a question upon which no definite official light had been thrown today.

"Affairs are bettering," he said, when asked as to the likelihood of Carranza's participation in the conference. He did not expect, however, to receive an answer from his chief before late Saturday or Sunday.

Meanwhile officials of the administration continued their conferences with Carranza's agents urging them to reings are magnificent structures and the public auditorium is simply beautiful. No expense was spared in its construction and I think it is as nearly perfect as possible. It is a mammoth building and it fairly glows with architectural beauty. I wish we had something like it in Lowell. We stopped at the Hotel Kimball and when the Lowell boys in Springfield heard that we were there they came over to see us. We had a very pleasant visit and enjoyed it immensely."

Asked if the party visited the Knox plant, Commissioner Carmichael said they did. As to the purchase of a Knox machine for the chief of the fire department, the colonel said: "I do not favor the purchase of a Knox car because it costs too much money, but Chief Saunders has his mind set on a Knox, because he believes it to be the car best suited for his business. The car may be bought outright or an old car may be traded in. I do not care anything about automobiles, but suppose when a man wants a certain kind of car, believing it to be the car that will best serve his purpose, he ought to have it, other things being equal."

Commissioner Brown and City Solicitor Hennessy were at city hall bright and early this morning and they spoke very highly of Springfield. They enjoyed the trip very much. It was stated, too, that Mayor Murphy had planned to make the trip but was unable to go because of a court case in which he was counsel.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDED BY KNIFE THRUSTS

John Moloney, the Barber, Was Attacked on His Way Home—Stabbed in Abdomen—Now in St. John's Hospital—Assailant Arrested Today

What came very near being a murder happened last night about 11:30 when John Moloney, the barber employed at the Richardson hotel, was accosted by an unknown man and stabbed in the abdomen, one of the incisions coming within a fraction of an inch of penetrating his bowels. As near as can be learned he was on his way home up Concord street with Joseph Sharkey, manager of the O. P. Davis stable when, without any warning an intoxicated man leaped out of an alley and grabbed Mr. Moloney. The men were separated by Mr. Sharkey who afterwards went in search of a policeman, never thinking that Mr. Moloney was seriously hurt. Mr. Moloney did not know he was seriously wounded until he noticed the blood streaming out upon the sidewalk. He was able to get to his home a short distance away, on Pleasant street, and on arriving there found himself in a very weak condition. A hack was quickly called and he was taken to St. John's hospital where it was thought that the wound might prove fatal, but after a thorough examination it was decided that he would recover. This morning he was resting comfortably, and providing blood poisoning does not set in he will be able to be out and around in a few weeks, but will be unable to do any work for some time after. While Mr. Sharkey was returning with a policeman the man escaped. The police were notified.

Early this morning Michael Spillane, aged 40, a weaver residing at 45 Prospect street, was arrested as the alleged assailant of Mr. Moloney, by Officer Simon Lane. Spillane denied the charge.

MILITANTS WRECK CHURCH

The Ancient Historic Church at Breadsall Was Destroyed by Explosions and Fire

DERBY, Eng., June 5.—The ancient and historic church at Breadsall, dating back to Norman times and containing many priceless relics, was destroyed by fire during the night. While no direct evidence was obtained that the fire was started by suffragettes they are suspected by the authorities, as explosions similar to those caused by the bombs usually employed by the "arson squad" were heard before the fire was discovered. It is also pointed out that some weeks ago a suffragette meeting in the village of Breadsall was broken up by boys and it is generally believed that the women burned the church for revenge.

Suffragette Organization Denies Responsibility for Buckingham Palace Incident

LONDON, June 5.—Officials of the women's social and political union, the militant suffragette organization, deny responsibility for the incident at Buckingham palace last night when a woman interrupted the presentations by throwing herself at the king's feet and shouting "Your majesty, for God's sake, do not use force."

The musical and dramatic entertainment by the Rho Beta Kappa of the Fifth Street Baptist church at the local Y. M. C. A. last night proved a fine attraction. MACHINE TURNED TURTLE ON
LAWRENCE ROAD—EX-COUNCIL-MAN LOST HIS LIFE

LAWRENCE, June 5.—Edward J. Ward, aged 37, of 24 Methuen street, an ex-councilman, was killed, and William H. Bell, owner of a local saloon, who employed Ward as a bartender, was injured last night at a crash when an automobile owned and driven by Carl J. Wurtzbacher, a master plumber, skidded and overturned half way between Lawrence and Haverhill, at a point known as Hawley's Brook.

The three men and James Mitchell, also of Lawrence, were en route to Haverhill to a restaurant. The road was very slippery from the rain, and when the car skidded Wurtzbacher was unable to keep it in the road, with the result that it overturned and crashed into a fence bordering the street car tracks.

Ward was pinned under the machine and his skull crushed. Bell had two ribs broken and his legs bruised. Wurtzbacher and Mitchell were shaken up. The injured men were rushed to the Lawrence General hospital in a passing car, but Ward was dead when taken in. He leaves a wife, Katie, Ward lived at 24 Methuen street and was a prominent member of several organizations.

50 YEARS OF TEACHING

HENRY B. MINER, MASTER OF ED-
WARD EVERETT SCHOOL, DIST.
OF DORCHESTER, TO RETIRE

BOSTON, June 5.—Henry B. Miner, master of the Edward Everett school, district of Dorchester, who this month completes 50 years of teaching, is of which were spent in Boston schools, will retire from active service at the end of the present school term.

Mr. Miner's career both as a teacher and a citizen has been a most brilliant one. Born in Dorchester on Sept. 17, 1845, he was graduated from Brown university, the valedictorian of his class, in 1864, with the degree of A. B. and A. M. He began his half century of teaching in Providence, R. I., in the fall of 1864. The next year he went to Canton, where he was principal of the high school until 1869. That year he obtained a position as master of the Tilton school, where he remained until 1875, when he was made master of the Edward Everett school.

Throughout his long career he has been actively associated with the various national and local educational organizations. For many years he served as trustee of the Hyde Park public library, and since the incorporation of that town with Boston he has been made a member of the larger Boston library board.

Although 70 years old, Mr. Miner retains still active and alert with his powers unimpaired, and he looks forward to having many years of happiness.

An Absolute Fact

I don't know how to express myself properly, to tell the people of Lowell how I feel over their magnificent vote of confidence on Friday of last week and Monday and Tuesday of this week.

The end of the month with rent bills due, with a double holiday, Saturday and Sunday, with the mills shut down from Friday night to Monday morning, with a broken week and a broken pay envelope, you flocked into my store last Friday and again Monday from all Lowell.

I knew I had the magnet in the form of phenomenal bargains---but what's that, a concern can have all the bargains in the land but if the people don't believe it, they won't come in to see the bargains. I never worry about selling a man, if he calls to investigate. I have the goods at the price, all the time to sell the average person---but when I take the notion to break prices, why I can sell the tightest pocketbook that the high cost of living ever produced.

Many of you need custom clothing---money must be an object with you if quality is convincingly present. You saw me advertise this special shipment of Worsteds in last week's Sun for $15.00, Suit to order. You see me advertising it today for $12.50 Suit to Order.

You broke all expectations last Friday and Monday, the way you came in and then bought. Break all records again this week. You deserve the bargains, the merchandise at the price deserves your trade and I deserve your business for daring to mark such quality within the reach of all.

HOUSE DAMAGED $500

DWELLING OF MRS. SPRAGUE ON CHAPEL STREET SCENE OF LATE BLAZE

Fire which threatened to destroy the two-story house at 74-76 Chapel street broke out in the rear part of the building shortly before 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon as reported in our late edition and before the blaze had been placed under control the dwelling and contents had been damaged to the extent of $500. Part of the building, which is owned by Mrs. Eliza E. Sprague, was badly gutted and the loss is estimated at over $500, while considerable damage was done to Mrs. Sprague's furniture and that of Stephen Laughton, the other occupant of the house.

The origin of the fire is not known, although it is believed that it started from a gas stove which was used at noon. Shortly after 4 o'clock neighbors heard a sort of an explosion in the rear of the Laughton tenement and a few seconds later smoke was seen pouring from the doors and windows of the house. In a few minutes the flames bursting forth from all the windows and it appeared hopeless to save the property. However, an alarm was rung in from box 225, at the corner of Central and Mill streets, and in a remarkably short time the fire apparatus was on the scene with District Chief Sullivan in charge, and faced a difficult task.

The fire made rapid headway for in the very short time after the alarm was sounded the flames had worked through the partitions into the second floor and threatened to enter a blind attic, but their progress was soon checked upon the arrival of the firemen and the damage was confined to two rooms in the rear of the Laughton tenement, although volumes of smoke had poured through other parts of the house and destroyed furniture.

No one was in the house at the time the fire started, but one of the occupants was home at noon and used the gas stove which was in the part of the house where the fire originated. The Laughton family returned from work shortly after 6 o'clock and stated that their furniture was not insured. Mrs. Sprague carried insurance through Fred C. Church.

40 YEARS A PRIEST

REV. JAMES N. SUPPLE, CHARLESTOWN PASTOR, PRESENTED $500 IN HONOR OF OCCASION

BOSTON, June 5.—Rev. James N. Supple, pastor of St. Francis de Sales church, Charlestown, was last night presented a check for $500 at the celebration held at the armory on Bunker Hill street in honor of the 40th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Rev. Supple was so overcome with emotion that it was some time before he could respond and as he arose to talk he was greeted with tremendous applause by the 3000 persons present. Governor Walsh was present and addressed the gathering.

HOW TO CARE FOR LAWN

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—Grass should be cut "long" so that the roots will be protected after the cutting. This means, says the department of agriculture's landscape gardener, that the lawn mower should be set just as high as it will go.

Lawns should be cut frequently and in ordinary cases where the cuttings are normal they should be left where they fall, notwithstanding the erroneous opinion of the energetic person who follows up his cuttings by raking with an iron rake. Lawns should never be raked with an iron rake, except to prepare them for the sowing of grass seed, for such raking harrows up the soil. Neither should they be swept.

If the diligent caretaker of a lawn must follow up the cutting by some other operation, only a wooden rake should be used, and this should be employed carefully so as not to disturb the grass, clippings, as have settled down around the roots. These grass clippings that settle around the roots afford them a very important protection and will do much to keep the lawn in fine condition when there is lack of rain later in the season, for they will hold the moisture and act as a shield from the sun. In fact, the grass clippings are generally needed about the roots, and should not be raked from the lawn, for they soon shrivel, dry up, and work their way down, so that they are no longer needed. Grasses are naturally cool-temperate plants and are liable to be harmed by the hot sun about the roots.

OLIVE OIL IMPORTATIONS

THREE MILLION GALS. VALUED AT $4,000,000 IN SIX MONTHS UNDER NEW TARIFF

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Imports of edible olive oil into the United States during the first six months under the new tariff aggregated 3,000,000 gallons valued at $4,000,000, or equal to the value of any year's imports down to and including 1908, during the decade 1904-1913, the aggregate imports of this article, as shown by the official figures of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, amounted to 25,000,000 gallons, valued at $42,000,000, an annual average of only slightly in excess of the record made by the last six months. These figures are exclusive of olive oil fit only for manufacturing or mechanical purposes, denatured by the addition of nitrobenzene or oil of rosin. Of this oil, obtained chiefly from Italy and Greece, the imports range from one million to nearly two million gallons annually. The high food value of olive oil is a subject to which attention has frequently been directed in consular reports and in bulletins of the department of agriculture, and the cultivation of the olive in California has already assumed important proportions. The domestic production of olive oil has not, however, been sufficient to meet the demand in this country, and a large proportion of the consumption is supplied by the imported article.

Italy is the chief source of supply, imports from that country ranging from two million gallons in 1908 to three and one-half millions in 1913. Of French olive oil the imports have risen slightly under one million gallons, compared with 550,000 gallons from Spain, 227,000 from Greece, and 125,000 from about 15 other countries, including Turkey, England, Scotland, Canada, Cuba, Austria-Hungary, Germany, The Netherlands, Portugal and Tripoli.

INVESTIGATE DISASTER

LORD MERSEY OF TONKETH TO AID IN INQUIRY OF EMPRESS OF IRELAND LOSS

LONDON, June 5.—At the invitation of the Canadian government the British board of trade appointed Lord Mersey of Tonketh a member of the court of inquiry into the disaster which caused the loss of the steamship Empress of Ireland and more than 1000 lives.

Lord Mersey was president of the British commission which investigated the Titanic tragedy. He will sail for Canada in a few days.

HOG CHOLERA CURES

GOVERNMENT HAS NOT APPROVED ANY TREATMENT EXCEPT THE PROTECTIVE SERUM

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Evidence of what appears to be a well organized campaign to dupe farmers throughout the country into buying an alleged cure for hog cholera, under the impression that this has been investigated and approved by the United States government, has reached the department of agriculture. Articles, praising this medicine, Benetol by name, are being sent out widespread to newspapers. These articles are so worded that it appears as if the department of agriculture had received reports from the state of Minnesota showing that the medicine had proved most beneficial. As a matter of fact the one report received by the department was an unmodified and unsolicited statement sent presumably from the promoters themselves. The department attaches no importance whatsoever to this statement. It has no reason to believe in the efficiency of any proprietary cure for hog cholera and does not recommend any. Under certain conditions it urges farmers to protect their stock with anti-hog cholera serum, but that is all.

In connection with this attempt it may be said that the medicine, which is now put forward as good for hogs, was advertised some time ago as a means of killing tuberculosis, typhoid and cancer germs, according to an article published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. At that time it was asserted that the army was interested in it. As a matter of fact the army was no more interested than the department of agriculture. In view of the evidence that the attempt to create this false impression is persistent and widespread, all hog owners are warned to communicate with the United States authorities before accepting as true any statement that the government recommends any treatment other than the serum already mentioned.

FISH REFUSE TO BITE

50,000 FISH IN CHARLES RIVER BASIN GONE ON HUNGER STRIKE

BOSTON, June 5.—Fifty thousand fish, supposed to be inhabiting the waters of the Charles River basin, have evidently gone on a hunger strike. Several hundred patient Bostonians have learned during the last few days that the fish in the basin are refusing food as persistently and as bravely as the most ardent British suffragettes, and not to be outdone by mere fish, the anglers are threatening to go on a "fishing strike."

The hunger strike theory is disputed, however, by many members of the metropolitan police force who are stationed at the Charles river dam. Notwithstanding the fact that the fish and game commission placed 50,000 fish in the waters of the basin, the policemen believe very few fish are there now.

If there is a hunger strike among the fish at least 50 have shown themselves to be weaklings, and have nibbled at the bait offered by the anglers. Since the fishing started Monday there has been a steady increase in the numbers caught. The first day there were only nine catches, and each day since then there has been an improvement.

The metropolitan police declare that an average of from 50 to 75 fishermen have tried their luck since the law gave them permission to do so last Monday. Many of them are apparently men who are in poor circumstances and who are trying to combat the high cost of living by finding their own food.

Dr. George W. Field, chairman of the state fish and game commission, is at a loss to understand why the fish do not bite. It is possible, he says, that they may be overtired, and are consequently not hungry. The fact that few bite he declares to be no indication that no fish are there.

It is hoped that many more thousands of fish will be placed in the dam within the next few months. At present, however, there is a lack of funds, the commission having at its disposal but $300 to supply fish for 55 lakes and streams throughout the state.

A survey is being made of streams at this time with a view to studying how the fish yield may be developed. An effort will be made, Dr. Field says, to make the waters of the commonwealth as productive as the land, and thus in some part reduce the present high living cost.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Get the cunning of "The Master Mind" at the R. F. Keith theatre today and tomorrow. It is interpreted by the greatest living exponent of mid-aged character, Edmund Breese, who was the original "John Burket Ryder" in "The Lion and the Mouse." Breese, in his conception of the man who was kidnapped by crooks when a boy and who developed into the street-fighting, coolest, most imperious villain of his time, has given something which will rank with Gillette's "Sherlock Holmes" and Helms's "Stables." The play is shown in its peak, with 212 separate scenes, and every scene carries the play on a step, and develops a stronger punch than the one delivered previously. The maze of story leaves an audience wholly unsatisfied, and asking for more, right to the very end.

Following the lead of other states, the legislative committee on election laws is considering the advisability of direct primaries. Why did he make it and presenting a corrupt practice? THE NEW TARGET

Richard Le Gallienne in a recent poem of great beauty and power, not only of his own but of the world, has pointed out the new target. The old target was the man who was the target of the world. The new target is the man who is the target of the world. The old target was the man who was the target of the world. The new target is the man who is the target of the world.

Anyone who has read the poem referred to must see a connection between it and the election of a new target at the present time. The old target was the man who was the target of the world. The new target is the man who is the target of the world. The old target was the man who was the target of the world. The new target is the man who is the target of the world.

THE TUBERCULOSIS CAMP

The tuberculosis camp of the Lowell General Hospital is one of those local institutions which is striving to make up for the absence of a contagious hospital such as the state has ordered to be built, and undoubtedly it is doing its work well and performing a great public service. Those who have the opportunity cannot do better than enter it or adopt the life prescribed on their own initiative for the open air treatment is now universally followed by advanced physicians in tubercular diseases. It is very fortunate that the generosity of Mr. Ayer and other donors has made its operation possible, and it is also fortunate for those who are admitted to the community of campers, being outside the city proper and away from a congested district, the Lowell General camp is in some features a model of what the city must eventually have on a large scale. The good of the city as a whole demands a hospital where tuberculosis and other contagious diseases may be treated scientifically. When the public good is the determining factor instead of political expediency we shall have such a hospital, but whether this will be in the near future is a matter for individual opinion.

WHICH REPRESENTATIVE?

On Wednesday a bill introduced by a member from Boston to Chelsea with an amendment stipulating that the Bay State railroad be given a fifteen percent franchise came up for consideration. The result of the franchise was given out by a member from Boston. In the course of the spirited debate Rep. Noland of East Boston is reported to have said on the floor of the house, "I have just been told by a representative from Lowell that if I voted against the bill, my bill would be the first to go to the bottom of the sea." I must have been mistaken, for I did not see any such statement. I must have been mistaken, for I did not see any such statement. I must have been mistaken, for I did not see any such statement.

HYGIENIC BARBER SHOPS

The matter for sanitation and hygiene which comes to be a product of the city has created a demand for absolute cleanliness in all departments of daily activity, and recent action by the municipal authorities brings the barber shops of the city into the limelight. It is well for us in all other matters of this nature, the manager of a properly equipped establishment has more reason to court publicity than to shun it. When one considers the thousands who enter barber shops in the course of a week, and the possibilities resulting from one shop where disease germs are spread with the talcum powder, municipal supervision seems very desirable. The common sense of the public which were condemned as most undesirable, and the requirement regarding the sterilization of razors after each shave should be enforced to the letter. Occasionally one sees a specimen of humanity who says that he is to keep next that makes sterilization seem an absolute necessity. The progressive barber, like the progressive merchant, does not wait for the city to lay down the law, but he is quick to make special efforts at sanitation and cleanliness.

As a result of their visit to Springfield, city officials may have a great deal of information relative to the matter, but they will have no official reason to show why the commission is not a part of the city charter. The commission is not a part of the city charter. The commission is not a part of the city charter.

SEEN AND HEARD

It takes a sensible woman to generate a sensible man. And even a very tall man may not be above criticism. A man may marry for money and a woman for money.

One way to dodge a breach of promise suit is to get a wedding ring. Sometimes the foundation for a divorce suit is laid during the honeymoon.

"ONLY A SONG" There was a simple ballad, There were none who knew the singer, And now we know the song.

The thousand voices commingling To sing the dawn of day, And the birds sang in the valleys, In the peace of the glowing gray.

And one in a distant corner, A woman, worn with strife, Heard in the spring of her life, From the springing of her life.

From the springing of her life, From the springing of her life, From the springing of her life, From the springing of her life.

Then, when the song was ended, And hushed the last sweet tone, The listener went her way in silence, And went her way in silence.

Once more to her life of labor, She passed, but her heart was strong, As she prayed, "God bless the singer," And she thanked God for the song.

board of election commissioners. The Pacific Reporter, 713, was called on to apply that provision to a similar state of facts and to defend the constitutionality of the statute. Ethel C. Mackenzie was before her marriage a citizen of the United States, having been born in California and lived as a subject of this country. She married Gordon Mackenzie, a British subject.

In January, 1913, she applied to the defendants to be registered as a voter. She was refused on the ground that she had surrendered her citizenship upon her marriage. On her application to the court for a writ commanding defendants to permit registration, the question was duly presented to the court. The court held the statute unconstitutional, and gave judgment in her favor.

Does the statute rob her of this guaranteed citizenship? The court in holding that it does not, says that it has never been denied that citizenship can be renounced, or that this amendment does not forbid expatriation. By the provision of this statute, it becomes possible that expatriation occurs by such marriage, and it also necessarily follows. Her right to vote was consequently declared to have been rightfully withheld.

Kindergartens for colored children are being adopted in different parts of the south as one of the agencies for improving social conditions that have troubled two generations. Richmond, Va., has just opened an experimental kindergarten which has already created such interest among negro parents and the school authorities that it is expected it will soon be made permanent.

It was opened at New York at the request of the National Kindergarten Association of New York, which knew of the success of the demonstration given among the colored children of Chattanooga, Tenn., where the local association assumed the care and support of the school on March 1st. Kindergarten for white children in the south have also been inaugurated by the association and later carried on locally.

Palms should not be over ported, but a pot-bound condition of the roots is likely to be injurious, especially when there is neglect in the matter of watering and staking or stumping. In watering remember the plants do not like to be kept in a pot. The ideal soil for palms is a good rich loam, leaf mould and a good addition of sharp sand. Good garden soil mixed with an equal quantity of one of the various advertised brands of humus and a little sand will give splendid results. After repotting be sure the new soil is made firm to the pot.

A kindergarten pilgrimage to Japan in 1913, in connection with the Panama-Pacific exposition, is under consideration by members of the International Kindergarten union.

Telling the people through newspapers and in other ways of the 160 or more species of birds to be found in their home town is the task to which the Sioux City bird club has set itself.

American physicians who think of practicing medicine in Egypt are warned through consular advice that the Khedive's government will henceforth require a license and licenses will be granted only to graduates of recognized colleges.

A playground institute has been organized in Cleveland, Ohio, to train workers for the local playgrounds and recreation centers. Dr. A. E. Peterson, director of the department of hygiene in the public schools, inaugurated the work.

Five in every ten children observed outside of school hours in the average city are loafing—doing nothing at all, because, as they say, "There is nothing to do," according to Arthur C. Moses, of the Washington Playground association.

By substituting plenty of good social opportunities at the school and meeting the pupils halfway, the school authorities succeeded in getting the students at the West Chester, Pa. high school to give up voluntarily the secret societies in the school.

They believe in "class athletics" at Tacoma, Wash., the kind where all the members of a class take part. For the boys the contest is kicking the football for distance, for girls the event is throwing the basketball for distance.

In 113 classes the entire membership without exception took part; and even in the upper four grades, where no effort was made to organize all the classes, 65 per cent of the pupils participated.

Kindergartens for colored children are being adopted in different parts of the south as one of the agencies for improving social conditions that have troubled two generations. Richmond, Va., has just opened an experimental kindergarten which has already created such interest among negro parents and the school authorities that it is expected it will soon be made permanent.

It was opened at New York at the request of the National Kindergarten Association of New York, which knew of the success of the demonstration given among the colored children of Chattanooga, Tenn., where the local association assumed the care and support of the school on March 1st. Kindergarten for white children in the south have also been inaugurated by the association and later carried on locally.

Palms should not be over ported, but a pot-bound condition of the roots is likely to be injurious, especially when there is neglect in the matter of watering and staking or stumping. In watering remember the plants do not like to be kept in a pot. The ideal soil for palms is a good rich loam, leaf mould and a good addition of sharp sand. Good garden soil mixed with an equal quantity of one of the various advertised brands of humus and a little sand will give splendid results. After repotting be sure the new soil is made firm to the pot.

would help matters and that is the organization of a co-operative ice company, the shareholders to be people who use ice in large quantities and all others in search of good stock that would pay dividends. The meat men, saloon keepers, hotel keepers, boarding house keepers, soda sellers and others who pay heavy ice bills might buy stock in a co-operative ice company to the extent of the sums that they have been paying for ice and they would be pretty sure with the help of the common people to get their ice much cheaper for the first few years, and later on for almost nothing.

In a later editorial the Sun says: "Our paragraph advising the organization of a co-operative ice company struck more than one suffering ice consumer in a tender spot. We learn that a gentleman was in Lowell some few weeks ago trying to sell a machine that takes pure water from an artesian well and converts it into clear solid ice. It would take $75,000 to start the machine in Lowell. Should nature continue to do her duty in the future as she has in the past, a co-operative ice company could do very well here without purchasing any $75,000 machine."

But the co-operative ice company never started for the price came down and the public received equitable treatment at the hands of Mr. Gage and his successor. The late Daniel Gage was a most unassuming man and did a lot of good among his employees and among the poor, that never came to public attention. His daughter who succeeded him in the management of the business has continued to carry out the policies of her father. There are a good many ice companies that would not serve the people nearly so well as does Miss Gage.

LABOR WAR PREDICTED

MAJOR POORE, U. S. A. WANTS THE ARMY TO BE PREPARED FOR THE CONTINGENCY

BOSTON, June 5.—"The possibility of war admits the possibility of war with ourselves," said Major Benjamin A. Poore, U. S. A., a member of the general staff of the war college at Washington, in an address before the officers and men of the First Corps Cadets in their armory last night.

The major had been talking of the unrest among the working classes and of the spread of radical doctrines among the 20,000,000 aliens who have come into the country of late years. Avoiding mention of any specific labor trouble, he pointed out that the best way to maintain peace is to be prepared for war.

"We are on the verge, if not at the beginning of a great conflict now," he added.

Maj. Poore was introduced by Acting Adjutant-General Cole, who is a major in the corps.

The major said the nation was built on force inasmuch as most of the land was taken from the Indians, or from foreign nations, either by a show of force or by actually using it. The insular possessions were acquired in this way, he said. They were taken by force and are held by force.

He then pointed out that some of these possessions would not long remain under this government, if this government did not have the strength to hold them. The problem of war and the problem of preventing war is the same, he added, and scoffed at the idea of world peace.

"For a successful war a country must have money, and this country's credit is good for any amount," he said. "For a war with a first-class power we would have to raise 1,000,000 men, and the militia and regular army could furnish barely 200,000. The remaining 800,000 men would have to be raised from the wage-earning class, of which there are 8,000,000 in this country."

"The enlistment of the wage-earners would mean a loss of production. If 10 per cent of them were killed every year, and that is a small number for a big war, that would be 100,000 less producers. The war college has figured out that a two-year war would cost the nation $6,000,000. This does not include the pensions during the 50 years after."

"The regular army ought to be increased to a mobile force of 150,000 men. Military men are looking forward to the time when congress shall give us an adequate army. The army and navy are not anxious for war. I believe that every sensible man believes in arbitration."

"There are some things, however, for which we must stand firmly. We are bound by treaty obligations, and also bound to observe neutrality between other nations at war."

"When war comes, let us be strong enough to afford to arbitrate and not weak enough to require it."

SUSPECT IN PEASLEE MURDER CASE ATTEMPTS AN ALIBI—MAKES FIRST STATEMENT

CONCORD, N. H., June 5.—Eugene Wood, the farm hand held in the jail here, charged with the murder of Hiram Peaslee, toy maker, made his first complete statement yesterday of his doings the night of the murder on May 22.

Complete denial of any part in the affair is made by Wood, who says he was not in that part of the town in which the Peaslees live at any time that night. He says:

"On the night Peaslee was slain I had supper at 6 o'clock. I sat on the porch for a while at Hattie Annis', where I boarded. I talked with the other lodgers for a while and then I walked down the street with McDonaid, one of the boarders."

"My stomach troubled me and I had cramps. I went to a doctor to get some brandy. He gave me a prescription, but when I went down to the drug store to get the prescription they would not give me the liquor."

"For a while I sat on the porch in front of the Riverside hotel, talking with Bishop and Bailey. I had such a pain in my stomach that I thought I would take a walk and see if that would not ease it off."

"It was about 8:30 when I crossed the stone bridge and I walked slowly along Bridge street and up Depot hill. Then I returned, walking at my usual gait."

"I next met Bailey at the porch in front of the Riverside hotel again a few minutes before 9 o'clock. We talked a few minutes and I started for home."

"I heard the 9 o'clock whistle blow and saw the lights go out in Whitney's drug store at the corner. I saw Armstrong, the blacksmith, and two other men talking in front of the store. I walked to my boarding house and went to bed. I was in bed at 9:10."

"I did not go over to the other part of the town. I was nowhere near Peaslee's place; I had nothing to do with the murder and I was sorry when I heard of it."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Court Wamesit, F. of A., met in its rooms in the Odd Fellows building last evening. The meeting was largely attended. Routine business for the most part was transacted. The question of amalgamation with other courts came up and was approved. The body appointed a committee on amalgamation, which is as follows: William A. Kelley, James White, F. F. Garvey and John Maguire. James Farley was appointed chairman of the outing committee. The outing will take place at Gannon's farm, Bell Grove, in August. William A. Kelley read a paper on an instructive talk on the good of the order. On the evening of June 18 there will be a meeting of special interest to all the members.

Lowell 8 Council, Royal Arcanum

Lowell 8 council, Royal Arcanum held a largely attended meeting in Odd Fellows' hall, in Middlesex street, last night. Considerable important business was transacted and four new members were initiated. John J. Hogan, supreme trustee, who spoke at the meeting of industry council Wednesday evening, was the principal speaker. He dwelt on the many changes in laws made at the convention held at the Hotel Martinique, New York City. He stated that these changes would be of much benefit to the members, especially the older ones. After Mr. Hogan's address a "smoker" was enjoyed and an enjoyable musical program gone through with. Regent E. I. White gave an interesting talk on the good of the order. The bowling tournament which has kept the members in friendly rivalry since March will be brought to a close the latter part of this month. A monster banquet has been arranged for, and a silver loving cup, will be presented the winning team on that night. The leading team is now captained by J. Lerron, but he is closely followed by team I, captained by Horace Paradis.

Order of Owls Held Meeting

Order of Owls held its regular business meeting at its quarters in New Like's hall last evening. There was the usual large attendance with President J. E. MacCallum in the chair. Both membership committees presented a large number of names of candidates for membership and the two teams are about even again.

The banquet which will be given by the membership team during July promises to be a social event of much importance in the history of the Lowell Nest. Several out-of-town owls are to be invited, and many speeches will be heard. Invitations will be given the supreme officers of the order, and it is hoped that some of these will be accepted.

The "young" Owls of the Nest have leased a cottage at Crystal Lake for the season. The place will be known as the "Owls' Nest." The cottage will be equipped with every convenience for summer camp-life.

Besides the regular routine of lodge work a large class was initiated and at the close of the meeting the newly initiated members were accorded an enthusiastic reception.

But five cases of sickness were reported by the sick-visiting committee. Bro. James Herdman who has been confined to the Lowell hospital for several weeks with a broken leg, is getting along nicely and will be able to leave for home in a few days.

A rising vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Merrill for courtesies and kindnesses recently shown the Lowell Nest. Mrs. Merrill is the widow of the late Frank Merrill who instituted the Lowell Nest in 1869.

EDUCATED IN FACTORY

IMMIGRANT GIRLS ALLOWED TO STUDY WHILE PAY WENT ON IN NEW YORK PLANT

NEW YORK, June 5.—Forty young immigrant girls employed in a muslin garment factory, who a year ago were unable to express their thoughts in English or write their names legibly, were last night awarded certificates of literacy at the first graduation exercises ever held in this city in an industrial plant as an extension of the public school system.

The exercises were conducted by the board of education in the recreation room of the factory.

The girls ranged in years from 15 to 23. Their schooling was not compulsory. For three hours every day they were taught in the factory and while they studied their pay went on. The firm acknowledges that it has benefited in efficiency.

FORCES WAY TO KING

Militant in Court at Palace Cries "For God's Sake, Your Majesty, Do Not Use Force"

LONDON, June 4.—The most astounding incident in the history of the militant suffragettes of Great Britain occurred last night when, in spite of the most extraordinary precautions, a militant succeeded in reaching the presence of the king at the court held at Buckingham Palace.

Throwing herself on her knees before the king and queen, she shouted: "Your Majesty, for God's sake, do not use force!"

The woman was attired in court dress and her action caused profound astonishment. She continued to admonish the king, but her words were inaudible, as the conductor of the band in the gallery, quick to observe the incident, signalled to the band to play louder, and the woman's voice was drowned.

She was immediately removed from the room and handed over to the police. The name of the woman is not known, and close inquiries are being made as to how she obtained a card of admission.

The scene, which gave a shock to those in the immediate vicinity of the royal chateau, was very brief, and the assembly had scarcely any knowledge of what was going on.

Whether the woman was one of the militant suffragettes who sympathized with the suffrage movement or an intruder who gained admission to the court by forged card is still unknown. It is difficult, however, to imagine how any person could have gained access to the court on a forged invitation as the police had knowledge of a conspiracy to approach the royal presence, and every guest and every carriage arriving at Buckingham Palace last night had been subjected to a close inspection by a host of detectives. It is believed that the woman had caused considerable delay and not a little indignation or irritation in court circles.

Last night's incident is calculated to produce a feeling of still greater expectation in the public mind and renewed demands for strong measures to suppress the suffragette agitation.

Among those present to the king and queen were Miss Esther Cleveland of Princeton, daughter of the late Grover Cleveland; Ralph Pace, son of the American ambassador, and Mrs. Ralph Pace; Mrs. Edward Bell, wife of the second secretary of the American embassy; Mrs. Randolph Mordecai and Miss Margaret Pennington, both of Baltimore; Miss Dorothy Doubleday of New York and Miss Mary Sanger of Sangerfield, N. Y.

Last editions of the London morning papers published different versions of the court incident. The Daily Mail says: "Just before 11 o'clock the court was startled by a well-modulated voice crying, 'Your Majesty, for God's sake!'"

"Immediately two gentlemen of the court stepped forward, and it was seen that a handsome young woman, attired in black, was on her knees, with hands stretched toward the king. The officials raised her and without demur on her part escorted her out. Neither the king nor any member of the royal circle paid the slightest interest to the incident."

According to the Daily Chronicle the demonstration was made by two titled ladies, sympathizers with the suffragette movement, both of whom had been previously presented at court and were entitled to cards for all court functions. When in the royal presence, they raised their voices in a demand that the vote be conceded to women. Court officials intervened and escorted them to an anteroom to await their automobiles and they were then conducted beyond the palace precincts.

KING'S SON GUARDED

LONDON, June 5.—Militant suffragettes have forced King George to supply a body guard of Scotland Yard detectives for his third son, Prince Henry, 11 years old.

Information that the boy was in danger of being kidnapped caused the royal father to send to Eton, where the young prince is studying, special men who know all of the principal militants.

Prince Henry, like all students at Eton, has a room for his exclusive use. This room now is guarded continually. He has a plant tutor, Hansell by name. The boy is a "dry bob," which is the term for Etonians who take their exercises on land instead of the water. The prince was advised to keep out of water sports to avoid danger being abducted in a suffrage motor boat.

On account of suffrage activities King George has been compelled to abandon his daily horseback ride in Eton Row. It is stated that the patience of the government has been exhausted and that the law officers of the crown are considering what action shall be taken against subscribers to the funds of the Women's Social and Political Union, a complete list of whom was discovered in the recent raid on the London headquarters.

Mrs. Pankhurst has taken a house in Grosvenor Place from which she is able to overlook the grounds of Buckingham Palace. This causes considerable anxiety to the police.

EDUCATION IN ARMY

"NO COUNTRY HAS AS COMPLETE A SYSTEM FOR OFFICERS AS UNITED STATES," SAYS REPORT

How Uncle Sam keeps the officers and men in his army up to the top notch of efficiency is told in a special report on "Educational Systems in the American Army" in the annual report of the commission of education, just issued. The statement was prepared by Capt. Douglas MacArthur and approved by Gen. Leonard Wood.

except as a vacancy is made for him in the casualties of battle. Only in the same way does a captain expect to become a colonel; nor would the idea be tolerated that great numbers of trained line officers are to be suddenly transferred to various staff positions. These organizations are founded upon the theory that there is nothing mysterious in the art of war, that technical and scientific training is needed by only a small portion of military officers; that certain things which a Napoleon must know, every officer must know, and our as readily acquire as he while those things which differentiate a Napoleon from other generals can not be acquired in any school, not even in that of war.

"Such a system would be thoroughly unsound if transplanted to the American army, the organization of which is quite different from continental armies. In fact, the most striking feature in our service is the absence of what constitutes the very essence of the foreign establishments; that is, a great standing army serving in complex, efficient and brilliant, in which the average officer of any grade learns the details of his profession by practical work and with the minimum of theory. "Our system of military education must therefore differ from that of the other great nations of the world. It must be such as to educate our officers so that they will be able at a moment's notice, when the war expansion comes, to perform the duties of far advanced grades and to render service in branches of the army, both line and staff, in which they are not commissioned in time of peace. For this reason we have established a progressive system of schools designed to teach officers and men, limited only by their individual capacities for its assimilation, the duty of the man-in-arms in all grades from lowest to highest.

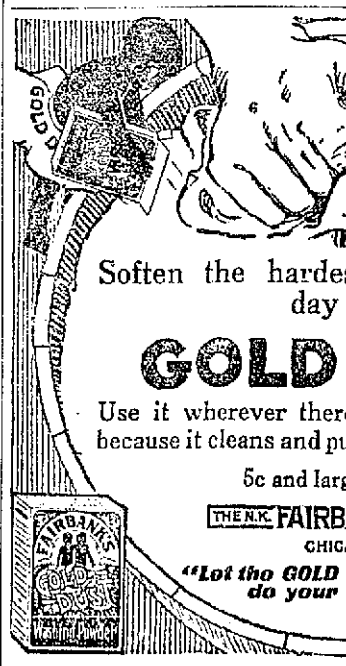

"The military educational system of the United States comprises: The Military academy at West Point for the education of cadets; post schools for the instruction of enlisted men; war schools for the instruction of officers in subjects pertaining to the performance of their ordinary duties; the army service schools at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., including the army school of the line, the army staff college, the army signal school, the army field engineering school, the army field service and correspondence school for medical officers; the special service schools, consisting of the engineer school, Washington Barracks, D. C.; the coast artillery school, Fort Monroe, Va.; the mounted service school, Fort Riley, Kan.; the army medical school, Washington, D. C.; the school of fire for field artillery, Fort Sill, Okla.; the school of musketry, Fort Sill, Okla.; the signal corps aviation school, San Diego, Cal.; the schools for bakers and cooks, Washington Barracks, D. C.; the school of San Francisco, Cal.; the training school for saddlers and for battery

SUIT FOR $50,000

Boston Woman Says
Friend Stole Her Husband's Love

BOSTON, June 5.—Roland H. Blood, a prominent Pepperell citizen, is being sued for $50,000 by Mrs. Helen W. Crawford of West Cambridge.

mechanics of field artillery, Rock Island arsenal, Ill.; the school of instruction for enlisted men of the regular army selected for detail for duty with the organized militia; the engineering trade schools; the army war college, Washington, D. C.; the schools of instruction for college students, and the military departments of civil institutions at which officers of the army are detailed under the provisions of law.

ion street, Boston, for the alleged alienation of her husband's affections. Serious charges, which the police are now investigating, have been made in the plaintiff's declaration.

The plaintiff further intends to bring suit against her own husband, William J. Crawford, for separate support. He is a salesman and earns from $10 to $50 per week, according to the wife. Of this amount, she stated last night, he gives her $2 each week for food and clothing.

They were married in Boston on Dec. 24, 1912. He was loving and attentive until December of last year, according to Mrs. Crawford, when he suddenly became very cold toward her and no longer showed any affection. She blames Mr. Blood for this change and declares that he is exerting an unusual influence over her husband.

Attorney H. H. Faxon, who is counsel for Mrs. Crawford, exhibited a dozen letters to a reporter last night, purporting to come from Blood to Mr. Crawford. He told of his investigations in Pepperell and declared that he has been amazed at the result. Blood is considered very influential in the town affairs of Pepperell, and is well thought of in church circles.

TWO AVIATORS

Drowned When Sea Plane Fell Into Ocean at Southampton

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., June 5.—Commander Rice and Lieut. Thomas S. Creswell were drowned yesterday, when a sea plane in which they were making a flight over Southampton was suddenly plunged into the sea. Creswell was acting as pilot and Rice as a passenger. The sea plane was engaged with several other air craft in maneuvers.

A torpedo boat rushed to the spot and recovered Creswell's body, which was strapped to the seat, but the body of Commander Rice was not found.

The sea plane was one of the largest in the naval service and was of the latest model. It had a wing span of 63 feet, carried a 100-horsepower engine and was equipped with wireless. The condition of the machine indicated that the accident was due to an explosion, which is attributed to the ignition of escaping petrol fumes by a spark from the wireless apparatus.

OPERA STARS SCRUBS HOME

FAMOUS SINGER, SEEKING A VOICE, SAYS SHE SCRUBS AND COOKS

CHICAGO, June 5.—Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink yesterday unfolded the story of her domestic woes before a jury hearing her suit for divorce from William Rapp, Jr., of New York. Rapp, she said, had been very friendly with "a blonde lady in New York" whom she subsequently named as Mrs. Catherine Dean.

She also stated she did the scrubbing and washing at her home.

The deposition was read one from Mrs. Julia Williams, a maid formerly employed by Mrs. Dean, and one from a New York detective, who told of numerous visits to a Fifth Avenue residence by Mrs. Dean and Rapp. According to his deposition, the detective followed Rapp many nights from his office to various places where he met Mrs. Dean.

The deposition of Mrs. Williams was to the effect that Rapp had lived at the apartment of Mrs. Dean for several months in 1912.

Rapp charged in a cross-examination that his wife had been too friendly with other men. She denied all such accusations. She said she never had any love for Rapp, who visited her in New York City, and that she never lived with him. She said she never lived with him, and that she never lived with him.

The question arose, Mme. Schumann-Heink's worth her eyes blazed. "I never lived with any man," she answered, "I have lived alone since my husband left me."

"I didn't ask you that," the law replied.

Didn't Want Divorce

The singer told of a consultation with Rapp at her Chicago home last fall. She testified that her husband told her that he wanted a divorce. She said she never wanted a divorce, and that she never wanted a divorce.

Rapp's counsel asked about a visit to the United States when he said that he had been in the United States and that he had been in the United States.

Does Own Scrubbing

What are you doing now at your Chicago home? Rapp's attorney asked.

"I help clean up and wash and scrub and cook," and the Madame answered with her hands, "and do what ever work there is to do."

You mean to say you scrub and cook? Rapp's attorney inquired.

The singer smiled in an amused way.

"Yes," she said. "Why not?"

On cross-examination she said that she was born in Austria. Rapp's attorney asked her.

"How long ago?"

FOR TAXATION REFORM

Plan Proposed by the Boston Citizens Committee—Obstacles to Equitable Taxation

The citizens committee of Boston, of the general property tax, lists from the state $2,000,000,000 in a few years. The following article contains an outline of the chief features:

The system of taxation in Massachusetts is called the "general property tax," which means that all property, both real and personal, shall be assessed a certain percentage of its value. In Massachusetts this is expressed in terms of so many dollars on the thousand.

The general property tax originated in Europe four or five centuries ago, and was inherited by the American colonies. It was for a time adequate for the simple purposes of new and elemental communities. As civilization broadened, however, and systems of government and business became more complicated, it proved very unsatisfactory, and the states and cities of Europe were beginning to discard it about the time the states in this country were adopting it.

Its Evils

The average tax rate in Massachusetts is nearly $20 per $1,000. Assuming that the gross annual income from real estate is 40% of its value, a $1,000 house will yield $400, and pay a $80 tax, or 20% of its income. A $1,000, 4% bond, would yield $40 and pay a $20 tax, or 50% of its income, which would approximate confiscation and drive the owner to concealment and evasion.

The Massachusetts tax commissioner estimates that from four to five billion dollars of taxable personal property yearly escape taxation, of which, of course, the greater part must be intangibles. This results in great hardships on real estate, the property of the industries which support us, the farmer and the laboring man.

The most alarming feature, however, is the migration of capital from the state. Many states, including some of our near neighbors, such as Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, California and Arizona, are much more intelligent in taxing their citizens. Already large amounts of capital have been lost to Massachusetts by the transfer across the state border of the local residence of the owners, and it is well known that owners of still larger amounts are making preparations to leave the state within the present year. We should take warning from the experience of Ohio, which, through attempted enforcement was said to be in a position last week, reported yesterday that he found a cavity 150 feet in diameter covered with ashes about a foot thick. He says the hole is 150 feet from a frozen lake in which the ice is melting and the water running into one of the heated fissures takes up ashes and mud.

It is thought another geyser is being formed similar to those at Bumpass Hot Springs, nearly a mile distant, where steam and water are being thrown up nearly all the time. The phenomenon is a geyser action, and not volcanic.

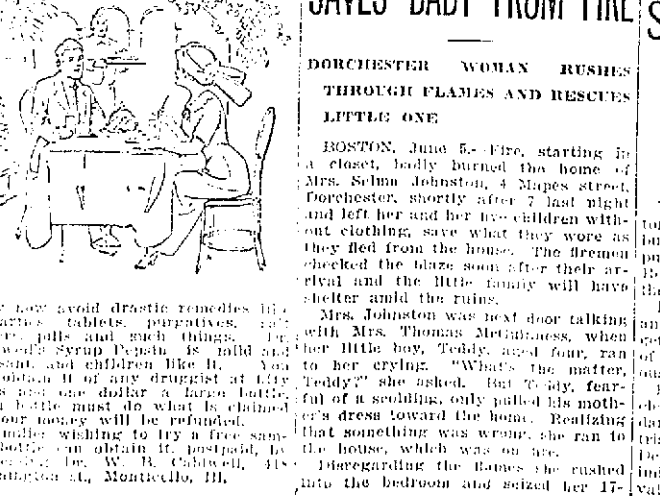

HEAT IS QUICK TO AFFECT THE BOWELS

Well-Known Fact That Extreme Heat Conduces to Chronic Constipation

So many people are in the habit of eating cold food in hot weather that constipation is very common during summer. It is best to vary the food, and have some hot things, as, for example, soup, stew, hot milk and meat, if that is to be the diet. Food which is cold should be drunk sparingly.

The state of all these people will be constipated, and if you had years of it that condition you can get immediate relief by the use of the famous Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. There is no time of the year when you should be more careful of constipation than in the summer, for many of the serious ailments as well as the fatigues result from a clogging up of the bowels. You also need natural good health, to withstand the heat, and hence Syrup of Figs is best to take for it. It is a natural, gentle, and effective remedy that helps to build up the entire system.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold everywhere. The hand will verify these facts among them Mr. George C. Allen, 408 N. Main St., Reading, Mass., who recovered his health completely after using two bottles; and Miss Anna Schmitt, 275 S. Washington St., Baltimore, Md., who was at first constipated and now has a healthy mother and friends also using it.

TRADE OF U. S. WITH WORLD

A convenient reference book for the exporter or the manufacturer who is interested in foreign trade, is a bulletin of imports and exports of merchandise into and from the United States by countries and principal articles, which has just been published by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and is sold by the superintendent of documents, government printing office, this city, for 15 cents a copy. A glance at this pamphlet affords the business man a bird's-eye view of the character and volume of our commerce with any foreign country, as it gives the quantity and value of its principal purchases from us and its sales to the United States for the years 1912 and 1913.

Statistics are not made up of currently by the average business man, but this pamphlet conveniently at hand on his desk will answer at once many questions which arise in connection with international commerce. The material was formerly included as Table No. 19 in the large quarto annual volume "Commerce and Navigation of the United States," a costly and bulky publication available in a limited edition only. Issued in this convenient form it should take its place as a reference book essential to any business house with an interest in export and import trade. Where this book does not give sufficient detail, reference can of course be made to the more elaborate tables of imports and exports which are printed in "Commerce and Navigation."

The bureau hopes, by placing these statistical facts in more readily accessible form before the commercial public, to attract attention to the practical value of the many similar tables of our foreign trade which are issued by the government in this field.

Chester R. Duryea, Who Killed His Father May 5, Declared to Be Mentally Unsound

NEW YORK, June 5.—Chester R. Duryea, who on May 5 shot and killed his father, Hiram Duryea, the millionaire rebar steel manufacturer, was yesterday committed to the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan. County Judge Dike signed the order after hearing the testimony of several physicians, who agreed that Duryea was the victim of hallucinations and a paranoiac.

SAVES BABY FROM FIRE

DORCHESTER WOMAN RUSHES THROUGH FLAMES AND RESCUES LITTLE ONE

BOSTON, June 5.—Fire, starting in a closet, badly burned the home of Mrs. Susan Johnston, 4 Maple street, Dorchester, shortly after 7 last night, and left her and her children without clothing, save what they wore as they fled from the house. The fireman checked the blaze soon after their arrival and the little family will have shelter amid the ruins.

Mrs. Johnston was next door talking with Mrs. Thomas McGuinness, when her little boy, Teddy, aged four, ran to her crying, "What's the matter, Teddy?" she asked. But Teddy, fearful of a scolding, only pulled his mother's dress toward the home. Realizing that something was wrong, she ran to the house, which was on fire.

Regarding the flames she rushed into the bedroom and seized her 17-months' old baby, Herbert, who was sleeping in a crib. Handing the child to Mrs. McGuinness, she went back and led to safety Bradford, aged 6,

LEDYARD CONTRADICTS MELLEN'S STATEMENTS

Wm. Skinner Never Made a Dollar on New Haven — Troubled Conditions Due to Inability to Properly Mortgage Property and Necessity of Disintegrating Properties to Comply With Laws, He Says

WASHINGTON, June 4.—William Skinner, a director of the New Haven road, continued his testimony today at the resumption of the inquiry into the railroad's financial affairs. Lewis Cass Ledyard and George F. Baker, directors, and George F. Mott, a former director, were waiting to testify. Mr. Ledyard will testify as a voluntary witness.

"Why did the directors make a report to the stockholders to the effect that the New Haven had marketable securities of the kind of the railroad worth $10,000,000 when they were in reality of little value?" asked Chief Counsel Folk of Mr. Skinner.

"I took the word of the accounting department of the road," he replied.

"Have you no auditing committee on the board?"

"No, but we employ certified accountants."

"Do you not know that the accountants said they had not been able to determine the value of the securities?"

"I could not investigate all of these details. I accepted the report of the accounting department on the value of the securities."

"Did you know of the prayer from the Hills issued to create public sentiment?"

"Do you think it was proper to try to influence public feeling by circulating literature purporting to come from the people when, as a matter of fact, it was sent out by the railroad?"

"With all the hue and cry against the railroad they must create sentiment in their favor."

"You have a representative of the Pennsylvania railroad on the New Haven board and a representative of the New York Central?" asked Mr. Folk.

"Yes, both roads are represented on the New Haven board. The Pennsylvania is a very large stockholder."

"Do you think that interlocking directors work in the public interest?"

"I think so, yes. We get a tremendous traffic from the Pennsylvania. I believe the public gets a better service by our working together."

"In other words, by creating a transportation monopoly?" suggested Mr. Folk.

"By no means. Such an arrangement creates no monopoly. It works for the betterment of both the roads and the public."

Mr. Skinner was questioned by William Nelson Cromwell, appearing for several of the directors.

"What was the average attendance at the directors' meetings?" asked Mr. Cromwell.

"About 20, I think."

"Were not these various financial transactions brought before the board in a general way after details had been worked out by officials of the various departments?"

"These matters were presented in summary form by Mr. Mellen. He would make suggestions and give his views."

"Were these matters presented in writing and passed around at the meetings?"

"Some of them were."

"Were the decisions of the board in these matters generally unanimous?"

"Usually they were. If any serious objections were raised to any transaction, action was postponed."

"What brought about the troubled conditions of the New Haven? Was it not the necessity of disintegrating some of the properties acquired which under various laws the New Haven had to dispose of after it had bought them?"

"That had a good deal to do with it."

"Were not the conditions also partly due to the lack of ability to properly mortgage the New Haven property?"

"They were."

In the course of his interrogation, Mr. Cromwell developed that no mortgage lies against the main line of the New Haven.

"You were not able to finance the New Haven as other large railroad systems usually are financed?"

"No, we were not. We were obliged to finance the system from year to year. Difficulties grew out of state laws and inquiries and public criticism."

"Your view is, therefore," suggested Mr. Cromwell, "that financiers found it impracticable adequately to finance the property on account of embarrassments created by laws and by investigations?"

"That certainly is true."

"The purchases of trolleys and other properties, as I understand it," continued Mr. Cromwell, "were made with some other view than the material value at the time the properties were acquired. Was not the object to make permanent the New Haven system?"

"That is correct."

"You and other members of your family own about 10,000 shares of New Haven stock?"

"Yes."

"Then you must be one of the largest losers through the reduction in dividends?"

"I have personally lost $10,000 in one year that way."

"Have you ever had any business dealings with the New Haven by which you have made any money?"

"I never had any dealings by which I made a dollar."

Bill and Company Securities

Picking up from the table in front of Mr. Folk, the report referring to the Billard company securities Mr. Cromwell stated that the sum of $16,000,000 was put down as the "book value" of the securities and not as the "market value."

"That being so," he said, "the stockholders were not deceived in the slightest degree. They knew that the value ascribed to the securities was a 'book value' only."

"And Mr. Morgan at the directors' meeting show any desire to dominate or dictate?"

"Not that I recall. He was away in Europe much of the time and could not attend meetings regularly."

Following Mr. Skinner's testimony, Mr. Ledyard was called but was not present. He said he desired to contradict certain statements made by Mr. Mellen in his testimony.

"In the spring of 1907 I had been a director of the Boston & Maine for some time, but had had no relations with the New Haven. On the Boston & Maine board I represented the largest holders of stock, the American Express Co."

Mellen Wanted Express Co.

"Gardiner Lane of Boston asked me one day if the express company would sell its stock. I asked him why and he told me Mr. Mellen wanted it for the New Haven. After consulting with officials of the express company, I told Mr. Lane we would be willing to sell. In the course of negotiations with Mellen the terms were fixed. Mr. Mellen had offered one share of New Haven for one share of Boston & Maine. We asked that the same terms be made with other stockholders and Mr. Mellen agreed."

"I tried to get for the American Express company the business of the New Haven but it was never a condition of the sale of the Boston & Maine stock. Adams Express company then had the business of the New Haven. I saw Mr. Mellen about this matter in New York. Mr. Mellen has testified that what I was after was to get an extension of the contract between the American Express company and the Boston & Maine."

Denies Mellen Statement

"There is not a word of truth in the statement."

"The substantial part of Mr. Mellen's testimony on this point was wholly untrue, although later he qualified his statement to some extent."

"Mr. Mellen found that the Adams contract was to run until 1914 and he refused to enter into any arrangement beginning from that date, as it was too far ahead, he said."

"Mr. Folk has asked if the contract between the American Express and Boston & Maine which was extended in 1907 did not cost the Boston & Maine $700,000 over and above what it should cost. The contract was made by President Tuttle of the Boston & Maine, with the express company; and I should like you to consider in this connection a letter on the subject written by President Tuttle to the New Hampshire commission."

Express Operation

Mr. Ledyard discussed at length the subject of express operation, indicating that the short haul business of the express company on the Boston & Maine made it necessary to secure a considerable percentage of the gross receipts of the business for the company.

"Some time afterward, when I had become a director of the New Haven," Mr. Ledyard said, "Mr. Mellen sent for me one day and said he wanted to take the road's express business away from the Adams Express Co. would take the business. I told him it would not, because at that time a director of the New Haven and the Adams company was a competitor of the American."

"I said to him, 'Do you think I would let you turn the Adams company off and have people say that this was due to my using my influence as a director?'"

With Mr. Ledyard still on the stand, a recess was taken.

SHERIFF PATTERSON INVESTIGATING ATTACK AT COLLIERIES, WEST VIRGINIA

COLLIERIES, W. Va., June 4.—In response to a telegram from Governor Hatfield calling for aid to preserve the peace in Brooke county, Sheriff Patterson today sent six deputies here to investigate the firing on four houses occupied by strikebreakers employed by the West Virginia & Pittsburgh Coal Co. Reports were that men in houses attacked the strike miners but no one had been hurt. The attacking party, it was said, lay on a hill only half a mile from the village and used high power rifles.

R. Z. Vaughan, superintendent of the Brooke county mines, said today he had asked the governor for military protection after he had been fired upon from ambush late yesterday. The paymaster, he said, also had been attacked.

PAINTERS BADLY INJURED AT HAVENHILL—ONE GRABBED SILL AND WAS RESCUED

HAVENHILL, June 4.—Charles H. Davis and an unknown Greek were connected to the fatal hospital yesterday afternoon, suffering from undetermined injuries sustained in falling 20 feet from a staging at a house on Parton street, occupied by Mrs. W. E. Atwood.

The men were painting when the staging collapsed. Davis fell to the ground and was severely hurt about the head. The Greek grabbed hold of the sill of an open window to which he clung until rescued by Mrs. Atwood.

The Greek sustained a badly sprained wrist and an internal injury. He is feared, both were committed to the hospital for observation.

JUDGE ORDERS SALOONS CLOSED

MUNICIPAL, Ind., June 4.—Muncie, a city of close to 20,000, will be without saloons after next Saturday, according to the ruling of Judge Frank Ellis in the Indiana circuit court yesterday in which he upheld the validity of the option election held here March 9 last when the city voted "dry" by a majority of 162.

The "wet" contested the election on the ground it was illegal because voters' names were used and that the city did not get a majority of the voters that appeared at the polls, nearly 200 failing to vote on the proposition.

CIVIL SERVICE LAW
FOR CITY EMPLOYEESCounsel for Laborers Who Want Civil Service Objects to Settlement of Question by a Secret Ballot—Aldermen Still Away

In order to settle the question as to the placing of municipal labor of the city under the provisions of the civil service laws, the municipal council at its last meeting authorized the mayor to distribute secret ballots to the employees of the different departments including streets and sewers, and water and health departments and to settle the question in this way.

The mayor's private secretary, Mr. John Cull, will go out with the paymaster tomorrow and distribute the ballots to the men of the different departments, about 800 in all. The ballots contain the following question and instructions: "Are you in favor of applying the civil service to all municipal employees? Make cross in square expressing your choice."

Mayor Murphy decided that it was not necessary to have the men sign their names as the cross in the yes or no square would suit the same purpose. A search ballot is marked, the envelope containing it will be sealed and all of the envelopes will be deposited with the city treasurer until the meeting of the municipal council on Tuesday, when a committee of two will be appointed to open them.

Edward J. Tierney, counsel for the men who petitioned to have the city laborers placed under civil service, objects to the secret ballot process and declares that it is absolutely unfair. He says that such a vote should not be taken at a time when the payrolls of the city are crowded with temporary workers, many of whom have been hired for political reasons, and when many permanent employees have been discharged for political reasons. He maintains that unless the vote is submitted and determined in the best of good faith, the result is predetermined and the whole procedure a farce, which will deceive nobody.

Tierney Sends Letter

Mr. Tierney has addressed the following letter to the mayor and members of the municipal council:

June 2, 1914.
To the Mayor and Members of the Municipal Council, City Hall, Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen: I see in the evening paper that you have determined to take a vote of the municipal employees before deciding what disposition you will make of the petition now pending asking that the municipal labor of the city be placed under the provisions of the civil service laws. I am very much surprised at your action and I have been visited tonight by a committee of the petitioners whom I represent and they are very much surprised and disappointed.

This petition was filed with your board soon after you assumed office and if any such ballot was desired, it might have been taken before this late day, when the pay rolls of the city are crowded with temporary workers, many of whom have been hired for political reasons, and when many permanent employees have been discharged for political reasons.

I assume that you intend that a vote about to be taken will be general in all departments, and that the vote of a man who has worked half a day, and who does not intend to work any more, will count as much as the vote of a man who has spent his life in the city's service.

The injustice of such a course on your part ought to be apparent to you, as it is to the men themselves, and as it will be to the public. In behalf of the men whom I represent I would respectfully ask your honorable body not to submit this question to the men before Friday, June 12, and that some method be taken to ascertain the length of service which the men voting have had in the city's work.

Unless some such measures are taken, and unless the vote is submitted and determined on the basis of good faith, the result is pre-determined, and the whole procedure a farce, which will deceive nobody.

Respectfully yours,
Edward J. Tierney.

They Didn't Come Back

The city hall men, including Commissioners Brown, Carmichael, Morse and Donnelly, Fire Chief Saunders, City Solicitor Hennessy and Purchasing Agent Foye, who went off on a tour to Springfield and other places, in two automobiles, yesterday, did not put in an early hour today, but it was stated at the hall that they are expected back this afternoon.

Mayor Murphy stated this morning that he didn't know much about the city's case against the city hall men, but he understood that each man would pay his own expenses. This would make it a sort of "lunch treat" and the city is losing nothing except representation in certain departments and when it comes to service as it is rendered at city hall the question is settled very much the same as the conversation. A good deal can be said on both sides.

The mayor, by the way, seemed to feel that the Lowell men would visit Worcester as well as Springfield. The mayor says that he has received a school for teachers in Worcester, and he thinks he heard his colleagues saying something about visiting it. There is a possibility, too, that Mr. Brown will report the party to Holyoke and show them how beautifully that city is lighted by its municipal plant. After returning from his trip to Fall River, New Bedford, Springfield and Holyoke, in company with the assessors, a few months ago, Mr. Brown wanted his colleagues on the board to take over the electric light plant in the city and in order to induce them in such action he wanted to take them to Holyoke and show them how well the municipal lighting scheme works in that city. It was stated this morning that the men went out to secure credit for the Park Commissioner Carr to operate on the South common pool July 1, but a denial of this report came from proper quarters.

City Messenger Mountain has not shown up at city hall since the party set out for Springfield, but his assistants at the hall declare that when he got to Springfield, Mr. Brown, the mayor, and the other men of the city hall, thinking that the city messenger would be able to visit his old friend, Mayor Hayden.

For Park Commissioner

Charles R. Wood of the State Normal school can have Dr. Magnault's place on the park board if he wants it and so far as experience is concerned it would make a good change for the city, as Mr. Wood is a well-known localist. Of course it is the duty of the park department to keep down the weeds, but this is a good weed. Exchanging Dr. Magnault for Mr. Wood may not be exactly a case of plucking a thistle and planting a rose, but inasmuch as Mr. Wood knows more about roses and thistles than the doctor, the change cannot be but for the betterment of the department and persons interested in the park and playground work will all be glad to have Mr. Wood accept the position.

Mayor Murphy said today that he would vote for Mr. Wood and he believes that other members of the council will vote for him when they hear of his qualifications. "I wouldn't know Mr. Wood if he came in here this morning," said the mayor, "but I am going to have a talk with him. I will vote for him if he will consent to allow his name to be presented, because I think it would be a good man for the job. I will vote for him on his resignation."

The mayor said that other candidates for the job included ex-Alderman Horace Tappin and W. C. Brock, but he said he would not vote for any man other than Mr. Wood if the latter would accept. Mr. Wood teaches botany at the State Normal school.

Playgrounds Will Open
It was stated today that the playgrounds would, in all probability, open July 6. Arrangements for the opening will be made by Park Commissioner Hennessy, Mrs. Sidney H. Foye and Mrs. Edward W. Trull of the playground committee of the Middlesex Women's club, and Mrs. Joseph Neumann of the playground committee of the College club.

Flowers for Fort Hill
The park department is busy engaged in setting out flowers at Fort Hill park and the variety includes 500 geraniums, 200 zephyrines, 200 gladioli, 100 pansies, 250 cacti, 125 hollyhocks, 235 canna's and 50 dusty millers.

City Hall Notes
Capt. George E. Worthen, superintendent of state aid, has gone to the Weirs to attend a meeting of delegates of the New Hampshire Veterans' association.

John Piquin has been granted a permit for the erection of a dwelling on lot 142 Rosemont terrace. The building will be 26 by 22 feet one and one-half stories and the estimated cost is $1500.

DR. A. J. GAGNON

Discusses the cause, effect and cure of the most destructive of all dental diseases, PYORRHEA or RIGGS DISEASE. A series of continued talks appearing in this newspaper—follow it daily as it will be greatly to your advantage if you are a sufferer of mouth, teeth or gum trouble of any description.

TODAY'S TALK

Symptoms of Pyorrhea or Riggs Disease

Read the following and determine how far the disease has advanced in your case.

BLEEDING GUMS

Pyorrhea usually manifests itself first by a slight reddening of the gums at the margins, and a tendency to bleed more or less freely upon the slightest provocation. Those who notice such indications can safely conclude that Pyorrhea has attacked them.

SENSITIVE TEETH

When teeth reach the stage where they exhibit sensitiveness to heat or cold—that is when hot or cold foods or quick changes from warm to cool air, put them "on edge" and make them ache, or when sweet or sour affect them Pyorrhea is a safe diagnosis if there is no decay.

TARTAR

The appearance of tartar on the teeth is always an indication that something is wrong. In most cases it is the result of systemic conditions which also cause Pyorrhea.

INFLAMED GUMS

In the very first stages of Pyorrhea the gums become inflamed and discolored. As the disease increases in severity the inflammation and discoloration become more marked. Inflamed gums are an almost certain evidence of the presence of Pyorrhea, or a condition that if neglected will lead to Pyorrhea.

RECEDING GUMS

The popular conception of Pyorrhea is that it is a disease always accompanied by receding of the gums. This idea has much ground to stand on, for Pyorrhea is always manifested by receding gums.

MATTER AROUND THE TEETH

The sticky, foul-smelling substance which collects around the teeth and eats away tissues, until it reaches the bone of the jaw is commonly called "matter," but this offensive, destructive formation indicates that the bony structure forming the socket has been attacked and is being slowly but surely eaten away by pus bacteria. It is from that the disease receives its name Pyorrhea, meaning pus flow.

EXUDATION OF PUS

The gums never exude pus unless there is something seriously wrong. It is safe to determine that Pyorrhea exists where this condition presents itself. The terrible consequences of pus discharges are not alone the loss of the teeth, but the constant swallowing of the poisonous matter spreads destructive germs to every part of the body.

In next Tuesday's talk I will define some of the symptoms of Pyorrhea in its advanced stages.

DR. GAGNON'S SPECIAL METHOD OF TREATING PYORRHEA OR RIGGS DISEASE IS BOTH PAINLESS AND INEXPENSIVE.

WAS BEDOUIN KING
BUT ABDICATED THRONE

Harilos Politis, the Greek Globe Trotter, Walks Into Lowell for Brief Visit—Has Been on the Pike for Eleven Years

Did you ever shake hands with a king? Not a John Calhoun, nor a Walter, but a real live monarchial king who ruled over a savage tribe of sockless Bedouins in the arid plains of Sahara. The gentleman of kindly fame with whom I exchanged greetings this morning is Harilos Politis, from the Greek colony in Turkey, who for the past 11 years has been perambulating over the wide world without the aid of an auto, horse or roller skates, doing the stunt on Sam's mare.

Mr. Politis is on a brief visit to Lowell, making his headquarters in the Greek colony and I was presented to the royal pedestrian by my old friend, Nicholas Spyropoulos, the well known Greek organ and constable.

Mr. Politis has had a most interesting experience on his travels and been visited in about a dozen languages; he will never get lost because of inability to inquire the way. Although a Greek he was born in Smyrna and at an early age was sent to school in Vienna. There he received the degree of M. D. but took to newspaper work, concerning the idea of pedestrianism.

He was sent into the neighboring country by a newspaper on which he was employed, to travel on foot and report his experience to his paper. One day when riding the continental pike some 200 miles from home he received the sad intelligence that his services as a correspondent were no longer required. He then decided to continue his peregrinations, taking copious notes along the world's great highway, and to make his livelihood by writing and lecturing. That was 11 years ago, and after looking through Europe, Asia and Africa, he came to America three months ago and thus far has been in New York, Connecticut and this state and after a few days here will proceed to New Hampshire and thence to Canada. From Canada he will go to the British coast, thence down the Pacific coast into Mexico, crossing the Pacific and ending up in the States, and will conclude his American visit with an attempt to discover another river in South America. Since coming to America he has struck a Lomania through the Helms Press of New York, one of the largest Greek newspapers in this country. The Helms Press is getting out a Greek-American guide and directory and has employed Mr. Politis to solicit ads, etc., as he meanders along.

Mr. Politis last abiding place in the old world was in Romania, whence he came direct to America. Last he was accused of "cheating" as a pedestrian I will state that though he much regretted it, it was absolutely necessary for him to accept the aid of a boat in getting to this country for the walking in some parts of the Atlantic is very dangerous. Mr. Politis is a handsome type of Greek manhood. While not tall he is straight, broad-shouldered and active of motion. He has an intelligent face with clear flashing eyes and was neatly attired in tweed clothing with light leather leggings. When he came here three months ago he couldn't speak English, but now he can converse fairly well. He says he finds it more difficult to read than to speak English, but is mastering the art slowly. He is versed in Greek, Turkish, German, Roumanian, French, Chinese, Italian, Latin, can converse in the sign language of the deaf-mutes and as he modestly adds: "I also speak a few words of English."

He carried strapped to his side a leather bag in which are books containing the signatures of prominent people whom he has met on his travels, including princes, potentates and the mayors of different American cities, including Lowell. When on a long ride he makes between 20 and 25 miles per day and seldom remains in one place longer than a couple of days. He arrived in Lowell this morning and after giving a lecture in the local Greek church on Sunday, will proceed northward bright and early Monday morning.

"During his travels in Africa Mr. Politis tackled the celebrated desert of Sahara where he found the time of his life. He struck a large oasis on the northern end of the desert where men and animals are wont to congregate, the men being of the Bedouin variety. He received the cheerful information shortly after his arrival that the oasis was also a favorite resting place for lions and he promptly expressed a decided preference for those in the art galleries of his beloved Vienna. He had not been at the oasis long when three very suspicious-looking Bedouins began to hover around him, regarding him as some kind of a thief. They started to get unduly familiar with him and heaving in mind the fact that many a lean missionary who wouldn't make half as good a meal as he would, had been butchered to make the African gala day, he took to his heels and the kind of getting. They started to suffer terribly during his sojourn in the desert. The heat and sand in the daytime were unbearable while at night he had to do considerable walking to keep his blood in circulation. When he laid on the sand he immediately became the stamping ground of an army of bugs and insects, each with a distinctive bite, and a bite compared with which that of a bee is nobody's business. For one night when he awoke as kind of a cure, he saw in the distance three Bedouin friends, stealthily approaching, and once more he was on his way, after firing three parting revolver shots at the intruders.

On one happy day while still in the desert he encountered a peaceful tribe of Bedouins, and being a stranger, and likewise a curiosity, they took him in

SHOT WOMAN AND SELF

PROPHETRESS OF BOSTON STORE DANGEROUSLY WOUNDED—HER BROTHER-IN-LAW DYING

BOSTON, June 4.—During a dispute over money matters, Mrs. Rose Rosenberg, proprietress of a women's tailoring shop on Minor street in the West End district was shot and dangerously wounded today. Her brother-in-law, Jacob Rosenberg, who is alleged to have shot her, then turned the revolver on himself inflicting a wound that is expected to prove fatal.

This tribe tilled the soil and planted a cereal that resembled wheat, upon which they lived. They were a quiet and contented people with nothing like money to worry them.

After months the heat began to tell upon the wandering Politis and he threw up his job as king and walked out of the country the same humble citizen as when he had walked in, five months previously. While in the desert he experienced that wonderful illusion of the desert, the mirage. He saw in the distance a city and its inhabitants and he walked toward it as the child pursues the rainbow until he fainted only to awake and find himself in a wilderness of sand—and bugs.

During his entire journeying, Mr. Politis states that he has never been ill. He eats no meat, whatever, subsisting on fish and vegetables and partakes of no intoxicating liquors. That his diet has agreed with him is evidenced by his fine physical condition.

MATRIMONIAL

Miss Hannah E. Kelley of Haverhill and Albert Kirkman of Lowell were married Monday evening in St. Augustine's church, Haverhill, by the rector, Rev. C. Bertram Bowser. The bride was attired in white lace over embroidery with a white veil and carried a large bouquet of carnations and ferns. Mrs. James Eccleston of Malden, the bridemaid, wore a blue silk gown. James Eccleston was best man.

Organist Carr played a wedding march as the couple entered the church, and the single ring service was used. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kirkman, 225 South Union street, Haverhill.

After spending a few days in Haverhill Mr. and Mrs. Kirkman will reside in Lowell.

FLAG DAY CELEBRATION

PATRIOTIC INSTRUCTORS HELD MEETING LAST EVENING TO DISCUSS ARRANGEMENTS

A meeting of the patriotic instructors of the U. S. R. Spanish War Veterans, Sons of Veterans and auxiliary circles, held last evening in Post 120 hall. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing arrangements for a grand day celebration on June 17, the celebration to include a parade and exercises on the South common.

The plan is to have the school children assemble on the South common, where patriotic songs will be sung to band music and where stirring addresses may be heard. The school children would be joined on the common by the veteran and patriotic societies who would parade through the principal streets to the meeting place.

At last night's meeting committees were appointed and the committees will meet in Memorial hall next Tuesday evening when final arrangements will be made.

Joseph E. Marshall was appointed chairman of the music committee; W. L. Dickey was appointed chairman of the committee on programs and Gilbert W. Hunt was appointed chairman of the general committee and chairman of the committee on grounds. Various members of the circles, relief corps and auxiliaries were appointed to the flag committee, and Mrs. George E. Worthen was appointed secretary to the general committee.

STOP TOOTH DECAY

In order successfully to do this, a person must possess three distinct qualities. It must be germicidal. It must be antiseptic, and above all it must change the fluids of the mouth from "acid" into "alkaline" for acid mouth is by far the most prevalent cause of tooth decay. Just such an ideal preparation is

WILSON CAUGHT IN RAIN

Storm During Unveiling of Monument to Confederate Dead—Damage by Storms in West

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A terrible thunderstorm broke over Arlington National cemetery late yesterday while President Wilson was addressing a great crowd gathered for the unveiling of the monument erected there to the Confederate dead. Torrents of wind-driven rain drenched the Blue and Gray veterans, women and children before they could seek shelter and then there was a wild dash for automobiles and trolley cars.

The president, who had cut short his speech as the rising wind and darkening skies announced the storm's coming, hurried to his car with his two daughters, Mrs. McAdoo and Mrs. Sayre. They were injured before the rain came but the machine's top afforded but poor protection against the fury of the elements and the party was thoroughly drenched before the seven mile drive from the Virginia hills back to Washington was over.

The ceremonies were held at the base of the magnificent monument in the Confederate section of the cemetery. Mrs. Dairy McLarens Stevens, president-general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, made the address presenting the monument to the president on behalf of the women of the Confederacy. Tumultuous applause greeted her when she said:

"Young Mr. President, was Jefferson's spirit when at Mobile was in the United States had no interest in Mexico or any foreign lands, except to see that the citizens enjoyed the right to the pursuit of happiness under a constitutional and just government."

The president acknowledged the tribute with smiling approval. Gen. Washington Gardner, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Gen. Bennett Young, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, were notable figures among the speakers and both were cheered with equal enthusiasm by veterans in gray and those in blue.

Col. Robert E. Lee, grandson of Gen. Robert E. Lee, also spoke. All the speakers commented on the appropriateness of delivering the memorial to the government through a southern born president and when Mr. Wilson was introduced he was given an enthusiastic reception.

The president said in part: "I assure you that I am profoundly aware of the solemn significance to the thing that has now taken place. The daughters of the Confederacy have presented to me a monument of their dead to the government of the United States. I hope you have noted the history of the conception of this idea. It was proposed by a president of the United States, who had himself been a distinguished officer in the Union army. It was authorized by an act of congress of the United States. The cornerstone of the monument was laid by a president of the United States, elevated to his position by the votes of the party which had rebelled against itself upon sustaining the war for the Union. And now it has fallen to my duty to accept in the name of the great government, which I am privileged for five time to represent, this emblem of a reunited people."

"This chapter in the history of the United States is now closed, and I can bid you turn with me your faces to the future, quickened by the memories of the past, but with nothing to do with the contests of the past, knowing as we have all our blood upon our points, we now face and now address one another. It is our duty and our privilege to be like the country we represent, and speaking no word of malice, no word of criticism, even standing shoulder to shoulder to lift the burdens of mankind in the future and show the paths of freedom to all the world."

SIX PERSONS INJURED WHEN TORNADO-LIKE RAIN SWEPT VALLEY

SOMERSET, Pa., June 5.—Six persons were injured, one probably fatally, when a tornado-like rain and wind storm swept up the valley of the Casselman river late yesterday. Many buildings along the river were damaged and several destroyed. Reports say that not a building in the towns of Cassina and Confluence escaped damage. All telephones and telegraph lines are down.

Mrs. Henry Cameron, aged 59, was injured, probably fatally, when her home near Cassina was overturned.

FOR BIG SWIMMING RACE

MURPHY POSTS GUARANTEE THAT HE WILL COMPLETE ON JUNE 21—OTHERS FAIL TO SHOW

Frank Murphy, the local swimmer, was on hand at The Sun office at 5 o'clock last evening to deposit his $500 guarantee for his participation in the swim from Astoria to Lowell on Sunday, June 21, for the championship of New England. None of the others showed up, but "Podge" left his money and now the others who wish to compete must put up or shut up, he says. Murphy says that since the distance was announced several of the local would-be swimmers have quit and now want a race over a shorter course. Murphy is firm in his first plans and avers that if the others do not come across he will claim the title. He is especially anxious that Wrentham and Maloney compete, and is willing to wager, he says, that Wrentham will not cover the distance.

THE AQUITANIA ARRIVES

THE LARGEST SHIP AFLOAT UNDER BRITISH FLAG REACHES NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Aquitania, the new liner of the Cunard company and the largest ship afloat under the British flag arrived at quarantine early today on her maiden voyage to this port. With her sister ships, the Mauretania and Lusitania, the new vessel will operate between Liverpool and New York.

The Aquitania made good time down the Long Island coast last night after passing all danger of ice fields that held down her speed on Wednesday and yesterday. Last wireless reports gave her average speed at 23.2 knots. The Aquitania is second in size to the Vaterland, the largest ship in the world. Her length is 301 feet; her beam is 97 feet and depth 32 feet. Her tonnage is 47,000 and she can accommodate 1,000 passengers.

"In my judgment, nothing can prevent the republicans from rallying around Col. Roosevelt next time," said Gen. Miles. "He will get the nomination and he is a great magnetic personality in the period preceding the campaign. Then he will go into the campaign and will ride to a fall."

"The river of doubt that he discovered in Brazil is the last straw. The river was known on the maps a century or more ago. It bears the same relations to geographical discoveries that his historic and heroic career up San Juan Hill bears to the Spanish-American war. Roosevelt was not at San Juan Hill."

DO YOU NEED BUILDING UP?

There are conditions of ill health in which no one particular organ appears to be at fault, yet the patient is miserable and unable to pursue the activities of daily life with vigor and enjoyment. Sometimes the cause is attributed to the imagination but the patient knows that the debility is real.

The remedy evidently is a medicine that will benefit the whole system rather than a part. The blood reaches everywhere and an improvement in its quality is quickly followed by an improvement in the whole organism. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make a visible improvement in the condition of the blood. The microscope will verify this improvement but the patient can see it in the mirror as shown by increased color in cheeks and lips and added brightness of the eyes. There will also be a new elasticity in the step. These things record an improved condition in the body and if this tonic treatment is persisted in for a reasonable length of time, depending upon the degree of debility, the condition of ill health will be removed.

Those who are interested may obtain the pamphlet "Building Up the Blood" free on request from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Before He Met With Accident in the Merrimack Mill—Arbitration Committee so Decided Today—Industrial Accident Board Hearing at City Hall

The hearing in the case of Louis Michalles who was injured in a mill of the Merrimack Mill Co. on or about May 1, 1912, was resumed in the arbitration chamber at city hall this forenoon, the first hearing having been held Wednesday, April 29. There was no evidence heard today and the meeting was simply for the purpose of discussing the case, it being contended that Michalles had varicose veins before the accident and that the accident did not affect his condition. Two of the committee of three agreed that this was so, the third member, John J. OFTEN OPPOSED MORGAN

Lewis Ledyard Testifies That He Always Told Morgan What He Thought

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Lewis Cass Ledyard continuing his testimony today on the New Haven affairs denied that the New Haven directors were dummies or that the late J. P. Morgan or former President Mellen dominated the board. He said he often had opposed Mr. Morgan, that the board meetings were well attended and that generally all the directors took part in the proceedings.

The profit of John L. Biliard in the Boston & Maine transaction, Mr. Ledyard said, he had considered outrageous and he had told Mr. Mellen. Under questioning by Chief Counsel Folk for the commission Mr. Ledyard refused to testify that one of the entries in the New Haven minutes relating to a railroad company transaction was false but said it did not represent what had occurred at the meeting. Mr. Ledyard's testimony was enlivened by a lively clash with Mr. Folk in which the witness insisted on answering questions in his own way and appealed to Commissioner Daniels to sustain him.

INQUIRY RESUMED

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Lewis Cass Ledyard concluded his statement today when the Interstate Commerce commission resumed hearing into New Haven railroad financial affairs.

At the outset J. W. L. Crum, attorney for former President Mellen, read into the record Mr. Mellen's much discussed letter to former United States Attorney Wise at New York, assuming responsibility for the Grand Trunk deal, under which Mellen was indicted. Mellen had testified he took the responsibility to shield the late J. P. Morgan. Mr. Ledyard yesterday vigorously contradicted that contention.

Mr. Crum merely read the letter and asked Mr. Ledyard if it accepted with version and Mr. Ledyard replied that it did.

Mr. Ledyard told of Mr. Mellen telling him that he had heard of some conferences Mr. Morgan had with officials of the Grand Trunk and asked him to inquire of Mr. Morgan if he was worried about Grand Trunk matters.

"I asked Mr. Morgan if he was worried about Grand Trunk matters and he said, 'Not a bit.'"

"Did Mr. Mellen send the letter the same day he wrote it?"

"My impression is he called in the stenographer, dictated the letter and that the stenographer brought it back and Mr. Mellen made a few corrections. I believe he said he was sending it right along by messenger."

"Do you know of any conference as to the propriety of sending the letter?"

"None, except what I have mentioned."

"Did you have anything to do with Mr. Mellen's defense, or advise him in any further?"

"Soon after the sending of the letter the proceedings of the grand jury terminated with the indictment of Mr. Mellen, did they not?"

"Yes, and between the sending of the letter and that time Mr. Mellen expressed wonder if his request to the district attorney would be granted."

Mr. Ledyard stated he had never gone through the records and correspondence of the New Haven in regard to the Grand Trunk matter.

LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL GRADUATING EXERCISES

THE LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL

Held at Southwick Hall Today—Opening Address by Principal Eames—Mayor Murphy and Senator Ward Delivered Addresses—List of Graduates—Several Departments Were Inspected by the Public

A large crowd of Lowell citizens interested in the textile industry in general and the Lowell Textile School in particular gathered this afternoon in the assembly hall of the school to be present at the commencement exercises which bring the official year to a close. The graduating class was the first to receive diplomas, and the second to receive degrees. Among those present were many men notable in local political and business circles any many relatives and friends of the young men whose efforts were crowned with honored recognition. Besides the addresses of Principal Eames and Mayor Murphy, the main address of the occasion was made by Hon. Charles E. Ward, state senator of Massachusetts.

Principal Eames

The first address was made by Principal Charles H. Eames, who spoke as follows:

"It hardly seems necessary to extend you any formal word of welcome for it is rightfully assumed that all who come here this afternoon do so because of a common interest—the Lowell Textile School. It is hoped that you may be inspired by this common interest to attend all graduation exercises or other school events open to the general public."

Today we observe the commencement of the 15th class to receive diplomas from this school and the second class to receive degrees. Twelve of these classes have finished their work in this building; the others and earlier classes from the school when located in the Parker block in the center of the city. At all of these occasions, as well as those held at the close of the evening classes, the president of the trustees, Mr. A. G. Cumack, has deemed it his duty, as well as his privilege and pleasure, to preside. The graduation exercises of this school do not seem complete without him. However, I think when considering his years of faithful service in the upbuilding of this school we will excuse him and agree with a June bride in New York, that her wedding day would not be complete without the presence of her grandfather. Were it possible we know he would be in both places at the same time.

On times like this and in the absence of a man like the president of the board of trustees of this school, we cannot help reflecting upon work that he and the men associated with him have done in establishing this institution.

To name one who has had a hand in this enterprise is to name every gentleman on the board of trustees. Each has done a part and those parts have been amalgamated to build the building, obtain the equipment, and raise the finances necessary to maintain the school from year to year. They have interested others in the value of their work and have enlisted their aid. This building, the campus and park fronting the school are substantial and constant reminders of the generosity and foresight of one of Lowell's most loyal sons, Frederick Fanning Ayer. The building on the northern side of the group is evidence of the belief of Miss Charlotte P. Kitchison, Mrs. Emma Stolt and the Kitchison Machine Co. in the stability of this school. In the manufacture of textile machinery, we find a similar belief and a proof in the extensive equipment they have provided to assist in the instruction of those who may prepare to enter the textile industry. This ress of its people that operate them, adds each year such an amount that her people, both young and old, may attend the evening school with free tuition.

But with all of these buildings, this equipment and this support the work of the school could not be considered successful without the efficient work of the instructing staff. The ever widening reputation of the school, through the young men and young women it sends out each year, is evidence of the high character of the instruction given. It has been through the efforts of the heads of the various departments and the co-operation given them by their assistants that the work of the school has grown higher and wider. In this work we all appreciate the encouragement, guidance and support given us by the trustees in our endeavor to place the school upon the highest plain. Perhaps the greatest stimulus has come from the graduates who come back frequently with their problems, with their desire for further knowledge and with much pride that the school can number in its alumni young men who are making successful manufacturers in many parts of the state and country. Almost every class that enters numbers among its members brothers of past students or graduates. The class that leaves us today is no exception, for an alumnus of the class of '90 extends his hand to congratulate his brother in the class of 1914.

Finally the effects of the support of the trustees, the ambition of the instructing staff and the encouragement of the alumni to build better and climb higher, the curriculum has steadily been raised, entrance requirements advanced and new subjects added to broaden and strengthen the training given. Such policies can have no other result than to keep, for a few years, the registration from increasing materially. It is believed, however, that the ultimate result will mean an enviable reputation for the school, satisfaction to the graduate and final credit to the textile industry of this country. We trust that you will judge the work of this school by these standards and not by the number of the students or number of graduates. The young men who today receive their diplomas and degrees realize that these papers represent work, study and thought. They know that their record in all of the subjects must be clear and that the standard in each subject has been reached. There are no certificates awarded for partial courses. The diploma is awarded for a complete three year course and the degree for a full four year course. The size of the present class would be somewhat larger had not some students elected the degree course, thus waiving the right to the diploma this year. Those we trust, will receive their degree next year. It has been the constant purpose to make the diploma or degree from the Lowell Textile School signify that the holder knows how to work and to think, and that he is not afraid of either.

If we judge correctly from the requests of employers for graduates from this school, we believe the industry is looking for the best. Every year the inquiries are for more highly and broadly trained men, men for positions of responsibility and men who have not only the ambition but the ability to rise. It is evident that those in the industry who are studying industrial conditions in this country today for the purpose of meeting foreign competition believe they will do it by more brains than cheaper labor. One evidence of this is that wherever a graduate from this school has been successful the owners have come back for others who have developed their minds and acquired skill.

While this afternoon we are particularly interested in those who have completed the day courses, we must not forget that only a few weeks ago the school awarded to a number of young men the certificate of the evening school. These young men, too, are ambitious to improve their present condition, and judging by the records that many graduates from the evening school have made, as those who finish the same mission as those who finish the day course. The young men of Lowell and vicinity appreciate the opportunity they have to attend this school, and the people of Lowell, through their representatives at city hall, have given their cooperation that the youth of Lowell may have the privilege. Lowell, as well as the state of Massachusetts, must ultimately reap the benefit emanating from this school, if the manufacturers continue to take into their employ those who have come under its influence. We are all pleased that we have with us this afternoon one who not only officially represents this city, but who also represents, because of his age and mind, the young and thinking men of Lowell. I have the honor of presenting to you Hon. Charles E. Murphy, mayor of Lowell.

Other Speakers

Mr. Eames in conclusion presented Mayor Murphy, who was followed by State Senator Ward, the principal speaker.

School Inspected

It is the custom of the Lowell Textile School to throw its various departments open to the public.

A MURDEROUS ASSAULT
ON JOHN J. MALONEY

Well Known Barber Knifed in the Abdomen While Walking Along Concord Street Last Night—Michael Spillane Charged With the Assault

While being stout may have its disadvantages, the fact that John J. Maloney, the well known barber employed at the Richardson hotel barber shop is abundantly possessed of adroitness, has undoubtedly saved his life.

Mr. Maloney is at St. John's hospital from the effects of a murderous assault upon him with a knife, and Michael Spillane, a weaver by occupation, and residing at 45 Prospect street, is at the police station charged with the assault.

The news that Mr. Maloney had been assaulted with a knife created a sensation in the Belvidere district where he is widely and most favorably known as being one of the most genial and peaceable men to be found in a day's journey.

Mr. Maloney was on his way home about 11 o'clock last evening and went up Concord street where he met James McAlister, who is employed at the store of James J. John. Together they walked to the corner of Pond street where they parted. Mr. McAlister going up Pond street with a young woman whom they met at the corner and who resides next door to McAlister. As they were walking along Spillane, it is claimed, was walking behind them, somewhat intoxicated, and as Mr. Maloney proceeded along Concord street alone, Spillane, who was close to him, made some insulting remark. Mr. Maloney paid no attention to him but continued on his way, Spillane following him and repeating his remarks. Finally Mr. Maloney turned around and said: "Mind your own business. I don't know you."

With a muttered threat Spillane, it is alleged, attempted to strike Maloney and the latter moved into the street, making no attempt to strike back. But his assailant made several passes at him and finally struck him in the abdomen. At this point Mr. Maloney struck his assailant on the jaw knocking him down and then continued to his home in Pleasant street.

Joseph Sharkey, manager of the O. P. Davis stable and others who witnessed the assault but permitted Spillane to go his way not realizing that Mr. Maloney had been injured. As Mr. Maloney walked homeward he began to experience a peculiar feeling in his left side and then found that he was bleeding. Upon arriving at home he sent for Dr. J. P. Loughran, who upon making an examination immediately removed him to his carriage to St. John's hospital where it was found that he had sustained a cut some five inches deep in the left side of the abdomen, under the ribs, the blade just barely clearing the intestine. Dr. Loughran expressed the opinion that Maloney's portly build had saved his life.

Mr. Maloney was resting comfortably at the hospital this morning and unless unforeseen complications arise he will be around again in a short time.

When it was learned that Mr. Maloney had been stabbed, Officer Simon Lane was given a description of the assailant and a short time later he arrested Spillane who was identified by Mr. Sharkey. Spillane denies all knowledge of the assault.

Those who know Mr. Maloney are confident that it was the first time he ever struck anyone in his life and regret that he didn't deliver the blow at the outset before the fellow had an opportunity to wield the knife.

At the latter place it was learned that he was in a very weak condition and he was later taken to the state hospital in Tewksbury. Mr. Wilcox did not give his residence.

CAPE COD CANAL'S FUTURE

NEW YORK, June 5.—The chamber of commerce has heard the new Cape Cod canal described by its builder, August Belmont. "While the canal was built primarily for New England," Mr. Belmont said after telling the project of the canal, "its measure-ments and its advantages, it will also facilitate a great deal of trade to and from New York and a great amount of the river traffic between New York and Boston will use it."

"Light houses which cannot bear up in a pressing heavy will be able to go through the canal, instead of rounding the cape without discomfort and distress. The canal will be of great advantage to New York, for anything of benefit to the portion of the country will be of benefit to New York."

Of the canal's advantage to seamen, Mr. Belmont emphasized that a lack of fog in the canal made navigation particularly desirable because of the fog banks that sometimes hang off Cape Cod. The canal, according to its engineers, he said, will have a current of about 2 1/2 knots an hour during a half-hour period in each 12 hours.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Since the publication in this column, one week ago, of the story of The Sun's libel suit with General Butler as counsel for Mr. Harrington, I have received several requests for other stories of the general. On this occasion I shall reprint an editorial that appeared in The Sun of 25 years ago as follows:

"The generous side of General Butler's character was never more fully exposed than it was on the other day when the New York police discovered in the pocket of a man arrested for vagrancy a note from the general stating that he had sent the vagrant $15 without knowing anything about him, and would expect the fellow to show that he was worthy of his help by trying to help himself in the future. Men who are as busy as General Butler and whose time is as valuable, are not in the habit of writing letters of advice to vagrants."

So It Is Today

In its baseball column of quarter of a century ago, The Sun said:

"Lowell needs a general on the team.—Lowell Times. General Deblity seems to have full control of the team."

And that's just what Lowell needs at this late day—a general on the team. An old head who can direct the young, bring out the best in them, and keep them from going by Jimmie, and hook onto an experienced head to guide the champs.

In the same column was the following:

"Mr. Charles H. Cosgrove, cousin of Frank McWade, just out from Lowell, Mass., is a ball player of a high order. He rather astonishes the boys with his curves and catches."—Waseca (Minn.) Radical.

Ex-Al. Charlie Cosgrove and his brother, John, both now removed from the city, were first class ball players in their younger days and they also were exceedingly handy with the padded mittens, as many a rising young boxer has learned to his sorrow. All of the budding white hopes of some few years ago were given a try-out in Cosgrove's barn, off Merchants street, and those who got by were fit to do battle with most anyone of their weight.

Had a Collar Fit

The Sun of a quarter of a century ago had the following:

"Joseph Welch, an ex-constable, is now a grocer at the corner of Chelmsford and Pine streets. Sunday morning a collar was discovered on the doorstep of his store. The collar bore an inscription which told the open-mouthed passers that the remains of Welch would be found in the sewer bright and early Monday morning. Welch was as much as a hater and he offered to put the collar-maker in jail if he would only come forward and claim his property. There are some rumors that some of Welch's neighbors are sore on him. A short time ago Welch erased the words

'Joseph Welch' from the sign over the door and had 'A. Kimball' painted in as a substitute, although it had not been shown that there had been any change in the ownership.

It is evident the editor had formed his own opinion as to why Joseph shifted names, but the change now would indicate that Welch was looking into the future, and crying in the wilderness of ward eight he prepared the way for the coming of the Kimball system, which is one of the signs of the present times. It is also evident that the joker who placed the collar had been reading the daily papers which at that time were filled with the mystery surrounding the murder of Dr. Cronin, the Chicago Irish leader, whose body was found in a catch-basin. But nothing as terrible happened to Mr. Welch-Kimball, for outside of a severe jolt to his feelings he sustained no serious injuries from the joker.

The Willow Dale Road

The Sun of just quarter of a century ago was waxing enthusiastic over the progress being made on the railroad tracks which when completed would open Willow Dale and Long Pond to the common people. In a later article I shall describe the grand opening of the popular summer resorts. At the present time I shall simply reprint The Sun's editorial of 25 years ago, as follows:

"Willow Dale and Long Pond, with their wealth of scenery and invigorating breezes, are coming nearer to the common people. Our enterprising street railway men are rushing the tracks for the electric railway and it is very probable that hundreds will be able to do a part of their business of July celebrating on the banks of the lake at Willow Dale. The railway men have ordered 15 cars for the new branch and say they will be able to accommodate 1500 people every hour. It will take about 20 minutes to make the outward trip, including stops at Collinsville and Long Pond. It is a great enterprise, this Willow Dale road, and the common people will derive the greatest benefit."

Then it was a great enterprise and the common people caught on a quarter for the round trip without a murmur. Today the round trip is down to a dime, 1500 people can be accommodated in 15 minutes or less, and none sees anything great about it.

Great Day of Sports

At the games of the U. S. Bunting Cricket club, at South Lowell, on Memorial day, one frequently heard the enthusiastic expression: "This looks like the old days when track and field athletics drew great crowds," and the hope was frequently expressed that the Buntings would follow up the event with others of a similar nature. The old Sun informs us that just 25 years ago the boys of St. Patrick's school on the occasion of their field and athletic events at the Riverside park drew a crowd of 3500. Look over the names and see who were some of the promising athletes of a quarter of a century ago. The old Sun in its story of the event first describes the parade of the St. Patrick's Cadets, the ball players and the athletes and then proceeds to the account of the sports as follows: "The sports opened shortly after 2 o'clock. Brother Angelus and the other brothers were everywhere looking after the little boys. Michael J. Donohoe was master of ceremonies, James J. Courtney starter, and the following gentlemen were judges: Messrs. Joseph Dunn, Michael Donohoe, Michael Ward, John J. Lonsangan, John Condon, Thomas Kane and Martin J. Courtney. There were 15 sports, including a game of ball. The following pupils were entered in the sports, not including the ball game: James O'Connor, James Halloran, J. McCluskey, W. Finnich, F. Delaney, R. McCluskey, J. Meehan, J. Brogan, J. Dunphy, E. Saunders, T. Johnson, F. Looney, W. Tighe, J. Collins, J. Missella, T. Pendergast, R. Taylor, F. Mullin, J. Costello, J. Lyons, J. O'Hearn, F. Riley, J. O'Sullivan, M. Corcoran, J. Mahoney, C. Mitchell and Smith Adams.

All the sports were well contested and the winners had to work their best points to win. The running high jump was one of the best features of the day, the height being 4 feet 2 inches. The following list tells the winners:

Hundred yards dash, Frank Looney, 1st; J. McCluskey, 2nd; Richard McCluskey, 3rd.

Putting 50 pound weight, Joseph Brogan, 1st; James McCluskey, 2nd; Smith Adams, 3rd.

Hop, step and jump, W. Tighe, 1st; Frank Looney, 2nd; Halloran, 3rd.

Running high jump, Frank Looney, 1st; J. Halloran, 2nd; W. Tighe, 3rd; 4 feet 2 inches.

St. Mary's: Riley, c; Carter, p; O'Connell, ss; White, 1b; Halley, 2b; McDonald, 3b; Ford, 1b; Bateman, cf; Sullivan, 1b.

How They Ran Afterward

Those boy athletes of quarter of a century ago proved to be the making of some fine athletes. In different fields a later year. Frank Looney and Billy Tighe stuck to the athletic game and Looney was subsequently crowned the amateur champion athlete of the state while Billy Tighe could make the best of them. John Meehan, Smith Adams and Jack Mulhoney proved themselves to be good runners in the political games of more recent years and Mulhoney, like Mulhoney, is running yet. Dick McCluskey afterward was a Holy Cross crack athlete, but now he is content to run an auto. Jim Dunphy runs down from Pawtucketville every morning in order to get into city hall before Mayor Murphy. Joe Brogan shortly afterward went down to St. Mary's college, in Maryland and entered the annual barbecue games, at the college. He came off with honors, but the honors came to Lowell never, for the late Frank Sullivan of Suffolk street, a brother of Martin Sullivan, the once famous ball player, was the all-round champion of St. Mary's in those days. A year later John Dyer, of this city, who lived on Summer street showed his heels to a big field of starters at the Mountain in the one hundred yards dash, while the late John Teague, of this city, son of the late Patrick Teague was another St. Mary's athlete. Some years later the late Dan Murphy, son of J. J. Murphy held up Lowell's reputation for athletes at the same college. The late James McCluskey was a brother of Dr. Richard McCluskey, and was a most promising athlete, and

Looney in World's Record

Frank Looney, the former athlete who won the day on the occasion mentioned above has the distinction of having participated in an event in which a world's record was recorded. Although he didn't make the record himself, while the old Lowell Fair grounds had the distinction of being the scene of "one world's record event. Benalto

Wefers had shortly before established a new world's record for 100 yards, 14.5 seconds and was the king-pin of short distance runners. A track and field event was held at the Fair grounds under the auspices of either St. Patrick's church or the Burke Temperance Institute, and Wefers was present as the star attraction. At that time Frank Looney was the fastest runner in Lowell and there were few elsewhere who could beat him. Some of Wefers' friends on this day made the statement that Wefers could give Looney ten yards in 100 and Looney's friends took up the proposition without consulting Frank, knowing his gameness. Looney was willing to take the chance, but when the proposition was put up to Wefers he balked on the ten-in-a-hundred handicap, but did say he would give Looney ten in 110, so that Looney would have to run 100 yards instead of 90, while he would run 110 instead of 100. Looney took him up again and lost the race by a very close margin, Wefers making the distance in 11 seconds flat and establishing a world's record for 110 yards. The event was held under the sanction of the A. A. U.

and the A. A. U. timers recorded the record as official. It was sent all over the country and Frank received a national reputation if he didn't have one before. This record stood until Sept. 3, 1910, when the Irish runner, R. Cloughan, clipped one-fifth of a second off Wefers' mark, at Celtic park, New York, establishing a record of 10.45 seconds for 110 yards, which stands today.

At the conclusion of the inspection Major Heavey addressed the men and explained to them the uses of the machine gun which was with great rapidity 30 rounds being loaded at a time. The major spoke at length on the work of the new company on the battlefield and his remarks were listened to with great interest.

WRECK OPERATOR TALKS

SAYS ONLY 5 MINUTES WERE ALLOWED TO CALL ASSISTANCE—FOUR VICTIMS BURNED

QUEBEC, June 5.—Only eight minutes were allowed Ronald Ferguson, the Empress of Ireland's wireless operator, within which to call for assistance before the dynamo failed, according to his story yesterday.

Ferguson went down with the ship, but came up and after swimming around for three-quarters of an hour was picked up.

The application of the owners of the collier Storstad, which rammed and sank the Empress, to be permitted to file a bond, in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway company's claim for $2,000,000 and to be allowed to leave the port of Montreal, was yesterday postponed until next Monday by agreement of counsel.

Among the identities established of bodies of the Empress' dead yesterday were those of Albert Anderson, John Kavalsky and John Topiwes. They were buried in the Jewish cemetery.

The body of Sir Henry Seton-Karr, the noted big game hunter, was quietly buried yesterday with other a handful of mourners in attendance.

An Absolute Fact

I don't know how to express myself properly, to tell the people of Lowell how I feel over their magnificent vote of confidence on Friday of last week and Monday and Tuesday of this week.

The end of the month with rent bills due, with a double holiday, Saturday and Sunday, with the mills shut down from Friday night to Monday morning, with a broken week and a broken pay envelope, you flocked into my store last Friday and again Monday from all Lowell.

I knew I had the magnet in the form of phenomenal bargains—but what's that, a concern can have all the bargains in the land but if the people don't believe it, they won't come in to see the bargains. I never worry about selling a man, if he calls to investigate. I have the goods at the price, all the time to sell the average person—but when I take the notion to break prices, why I can sell the tightest pocketbook that the high cost of living ever produced.

Many of you need custom clothing—money must be an object with you if quality is convincingly present. You saw me advertise this special shipment of Worsteds in last week's Sun for $15.00, Suit to order. You see me advertising it today for $12.50 Suit to Order.

You broke all expectations last Friday and Monday, the way you came in and then bought. Break all records again this week. You deserve the bargains, the merchandise at the price deserves your trade and I deserve your business for daring to mark such quality within the reach of all.

DWELLING OF MRS. SPRAGUE ON CHAPEL STREET SCENE OF LATE BLAZE

Fire which threatened to destroy the two-tenement house at 71-73 Chapel street broke out in the rear part of the building shortly before 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon as reported in our late edition and before the blaze had been placed under control the dwelling, and contents had been damaged to the extent of $500. Part of the building, which is owned by Mrs. Eliza P. Sprague, was badly gutted and the loss is estimated at over $500, while considerable damage was done to Mrs. Sprague's furniture and that of Stephen Laughton, the other occupant of the house.

The origin of the fire is not known, although it is believed that it started from a gas stove which was used at noon. Shortly after 4 o'clock neighbors heard a sort of an explosion in the rear of the Laughton tenement and a few seconds later smoke was seen pouring from the doors and windows of the house. In a few minutes the flames burst forth from all the windows and it appeared hopeless to save the property. However, an alarm was rung in from box 225, at the corner of Central and Mill streets, and in a remarkably short time the fire apparatus was on the scene with District Chief Sullivan in charge, and faced a difficult task.

The fire made rapid headway for in the very short time after the alarm was sounded the flames had worked through the partitions into the second floor and threatened to enter a blind alley, but their progress was soon checked upon the arrival of the firemen and the damage was confined to two rooms in the rear of the Laughton tenement, although volumes of smoke had poured through other parts of the house and destroyed furniture.

No one was in the house at the time the fire started, but one of the occupants was home at noon and used the gas stove which was in the part of the house where the fire originated. The Laughton family returned from work shortly after 6 o'clock and stated that their furniture was not insured. Mrs. Sprague carried insurance through Fred C. Church.

40 YEARS A PRIEST

REV. JAMES N. SUPPLE, CHARLES-
BORN PASTOR, PRESENTED $3540
A MONOR OF OCCASION

BOSTON, June 5.—Rev. James N. Supple, pastor of St. Francis de Sales church, Charlestown, was last night presented a check for $3540 at the celebration held at the armory on Bunker Hill street in honor of the 40th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Father Supple was so overcome with emotion that it was some time before he could respond and as he arose to talk he was greeted with tremendous applause by the 2000 persons present. Governor Walsh was present and adressed the gathering, as did District Attorney Pelletier and ex-Mayor Fitzgerald. A poem was read by Dr. John T. Gallagher and the presentation of the check was made by Luke J. Mulligan.

Father Supple in responding to the gift said that he could scarcely find words to express his thanks to his people, all of whom were near and dear to him.

Father Supple has been in Charlestown for 25 years, succeeding his brother, the late Rev. Mirrored J. Supple. He was ordained May 20, 1874, and was first assigned to South Boston, then to St. Stephen's, North End, from there he went to Charlestown.

HOW TO CARE FOR LAWN
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—Grass should be cut "once" so that the roots will be protected after the cutting. This means, says the department of agriculture's landscape gardener, that the lawn mower should be set just as high as it will go.

Lawns should be cut frequently and in ordinary cases when the cutting is about an inch high, the cutting should be left, notwithstanding the contrary opinion of the energetic person who follows up his cuttings by taking them away. Lawns should never be mowed with an iron rake, except to prepare them for the sowing of grass seed, for such raking turns up the soil. Neither should they be swept.

If the diligent caretaker of a lawn must follow up the cutting by some other operation, only a wooden rake should be used, and this should be employed carefully so as not to disturb the roots of the grass. Grass cuttings should be left around the roots, and should not be carried off. In fact, the grass cuttings are generally needed about the roots, and should not be carried off. OLIVE OIL IMPORTATIONS

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Imports of olive oil into the United States during the first six months under the new tariff aggregated 3,000,000 gallons valued at $1,000,000, or equal to the value of any year's imports down to and including 1908. During the decade 1904-1913, the aggregate imports of this article, as shown by the official figures of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, amounted to 30,000,000 gallons, valued at $12,000,000, an annual average of only slightly in excess of the record made by the last six months. These figures are exclusive of olive oil fit only for manufacturing or mechanical purposes, denatured by the addition of nitrobenzene or oil of rosemary. Of this oil obtained chiefly from Italy and Greece, the imports range from one million to nearly two million gallons annually. The high food value of olive oil is a subject to which attention has frequently been directed in consular reports and in bulletins of the department of agriculture, and the cultivation of the olive in California has already assumed important proportions. The domestic production of olive oil has not, however, been sufficient to meet the demand in this country, and a large proportion of the consumption is supplied by the imported article. Italy is the chief source of supply, imports from that country ranging from two million gallons in 1903 to three and one-half millions in 1913. Of French olive oil the imports have ruled slightly under one million gallons, compared with 350,000 gallons from Spain, 227,000 from Greece, and 155,000 from about 16 other countries, including Turkey, England, Scotland, Canada, Cuba, Austria-Hungary, Germany, The Netherlands, Portugal and Tripoli.

INVESTIGATE DISASTER FISH REFUSE TO BITE

LORD MERSEY OF TOXTEETH TO AID IN INQUIRY OF EMPRESS OF IRELAND LOSS

LONDON, June 5.—At the invitation of the Canadian government the British board of trade appointed Lord Mersey of Toxteeth a member of the court of inquiry into the disaster which caused the loss of the steamship Empress of Ireland and more than 1000 lives. Lord Mersey was president of the British commission which investigated the Titanic tragedy. He will sail for Canada in a few days.

It is hoped that many more thousands of fish will be placed in the dam within the next few months. At present, however, there is a lack of funds, the commission having at its disposal but $500 to supply fish for $1500 to his credit. In a similar race held recently Mahan defeated White of Boston, recognized champion of New England, and his friends, however, feel confident that Mahan will have to go faster than he ever went before to cross the line a winner to make the waters of the commonwealth as productive as the land, and thus in some part reduce the present high living cost.

A survey is being made of streams at this time with a view to studying how the fish yield may be developed. An effort will be made, Dr. Fields says, to make the waters of the commonwealth as productive as the land, and thus in some part reduce the present high living cost.

HOG CHOLERA CURES

GOVERNMENT HAS NOT APPROVED ANY TREATMENT EXCEPT THE PROTECTIVE SERUM

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Evidence of what appears to be a well organized campaign to delude farmers throughout the country into buying an alleged cure for hog cholera, under the impression that this has been investigated and approved by the United States government, has reached the department of agriculture. Articles praising this medicine, Benetoi by name, are being sent out widespread to newspapers. These articles are so worded that it appears as if the department of agriculture had received reports from the state of Minnesota showing that the medicine had proved most beneficial. As a matter of fact the one report received by the department was an unofficial and unsolicited statement sent presumably from the promoters themselves. The department attaches no importance whatsoever to this statement. It has no reason to believe in the efficiency of any proprietary cure for hog cholera, and does not recommend any. Under certain conditions it urges farmers to protect their stock with anti-hog cholera serum, but that is all.

In connection with this attempt it may be said that the medicine, which is now put forward as good for hogs, was advertised some time ago as a means of killing tuberculosis, typhoid and cancer germs, according to an article published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. At that time it was asserted that the army was interested in it. As a matter of fact the army was no more interested than the department of agriculture is now.

In view of the evidence that the attempt to create this false impression is persistent and widespread, all hog owners are warned to communicate with the United States authorities before accepting as true any statement that the government recommends any treatment other than the serum already mentioned.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Get the cunning of "The Master Mind" at the B. F. Keith theatre today and tomorrow. It is interpreted by the greatest living exponent of middle-aged character, Edmund Breese, who was the original "John Burckett Ryder" in "The Lion and the Mouse." Breese, in his conception of the man who was kidnapped by crooks when a boy and who developed into the surest-thinking, coolest, most imperturbable villain of his time, has given something which will rank with Gilbert's "Sherlock Holmes" and Bellows' "Huffer." The play is shown in five reels, with 212 separate scenes, and every scene carries the play on a step, and develops a stronger punch than the one delivered previously. The maze of story leaves an audience wholly unaltered, and asking for more, right to the very end.

THE PERILS OF PAULINE, the sixth installment, and latest released will be shown for the first time in Lowell today and tomorrow at the Owl Theatre. Mutual Girl, in her weekly comedy will interest every lover of photoplays. "The White Ghost," one of Warner's very best efforts is to be shown in three reels, and a Keystone comedy completes the feature end of the program. The regular bookings show improvement in plots and acting, and one of the best shows of the season is to be witnessed there these two days. Jack Dalton still continues to please with his songs, and that's another feature at the Owl. Then take into consideration the sliding roof, making the house cool and comfortable, and the kind of weather, also the direct-current mirror screen, the greatest patent ever invented to make pictures clear and flickerless.

Of the many interesting races held at the Crescent rink this season none is developing such enthusiasm among the followers of the game than the scheduled five-mile brush between John Mahan and Al Henderson tonight. Mahan will cover the distance on a bicycle while Henderson will skate five miles. Both men will start from scratch. Mahan is the well known long-distance rider who has many wins to his credit. In a similar race held recently Mahan defeated White of Boston, recognized champion of New England, and his friends, however, feel confident that Mahan will have to go faster than he ever went before to cross the line a winner to make the waters of the commonwealth as productive as the land, and thus in some part reduce the present high living cost.

MAJOR POORE, U. S. A. WANTS THE ARMY TO BE PREPARED FOR THE CONTINGENCY

BOSTON, June 5.—"The possibility of war admits the possibility of war with ourselves," said Major Benjamin A. Poore, U. S. A., a member of the general staff of the war college at Washington, in an address before the officers and men of the First Corps Cadets in their armory last night.

The major had been talking of the unrest among the working classes and of the spread of radical theories among the 20,000,000 aliens who have come into the country of late years. Avoiding mention of any specific labor trouble, he pointed out that the best way to maintain peace is to be prepared for war.

"We are on the verge. If not at the beginning of a great conflict now," he added.

Maj. Poore was introduced by Acting Adjutant-General Cole, who is a major in the corps.

Maj. Poore said the nation was built on force inasmuch as most of the land was taken from the Indians, or from foreign nations, either by a show of force or by actually using it. The insular possessions were acquired in this way, he said. They were taken by force and are held by force.

He then pointed out that some of these possessions would not long remain under this government. If this government did not have the strength to hold them. The problem of war and the problem of preventing war is the same, he added, and scoffed at the idea of world peace.

"For a successful war a country must have money, and this country's credit is good for any amount," he said. "For a war with a first-class power we would have to raise 1,000,000 men, and the militia and regular army could furnish barely 200,000. The remaining 800,000 men would have to be raised from the wage earning class, of which there are 6,000,000 in this country."

"The enlistment of the wage-earners would mean a loss of production, if 10 per cent. of them were killed every year, and that is a small number for a big war. That would be 100,000 less producers. The war college has figured out that a two-year war would cost the nation $6,000,000. This does not include the pensions during the 50 years after."

"The regular army ought to be increased to a mobile force of 150,000 men. Military men are looking forward to the time when congress shall give us an adequate army. The army and navy are not anxious for war. I believe that every sensible man believes in arbitration."

"There are some things, however, for which we must stand firmly. We are bound by treaty obligations, and also bound to observe neutrality between other nations at war."

"When war comes, let us be strong enough to afford to arbitrate and not weak enough to require it."

150 OUT ON STRIKE

BOSTON, June 5.—One hundred and fifty girls and men, employees of the Blackwell & Fuller Paper Box Co., struck yesterday against the operation of an efficiency system, recently installed.

AWAY FROM THE SCENE

SUSPECT IN PEASLEE MURDER CASE ATTEMPTS AN ALIBI—MAKES FIRST STATEMENT

CONCORD, N. H., June 5.—Eugene Wood, the farm hand held in the jail here, charged with the murder at Hennessey of Howard W. Peaslee, toy maker, made his first complete statement yesterday of his doings the night of the murder on May 22.

Complete denial of any part in the affair is made by Wood, who says he was not in that part of the town in which the Peaslees live at any time that night.

He says: "On the night Peaslee was slain, I had supper at 6 o'clock. I sat on the porch for a while at Hattie Annals' where I boarded. I talked with the other lodgers for a while and then I walked down the street with McDonald, one of the boarders."

"My stomach troubled me and I had cramps. I went to a doctor to get some brandy. He gave me a prescription, but when I went down to the drug store to get the prescription filled they would not give me the liquor."

"For a while I sat on the porch in front of the Riverside hotel, talking with Bishop and Bailey. I had such a pain in my stomach that I thought I would take a walk and see if that would not ease it off."

"It was about 8:30 when I crossed the stone bridge and I walked slowly along Bridge street and up Depot hill. Then I returned, walking at my usual gait. I next met Bailey at the porch in front of the Riverside hotel again a few minutes before 9 o'clock. We talked a few minutes and I started for home."

"I heard the 9 o'clock whistle blow and saw the lights go out in Whitney's drug store at the corner. I saw Armstrong, the blacksmith, and two other men talking in front of the store. I walked to my boarding house and went to bed. I was in bed at 9:10."

"I did not go over to the other part of the town. I was nowhere near Peaslee's place; I had nothing to do with the murder and I was sorry when I heard of it."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Court Wamsit, F. of A., met in its rooms in the Odd Fellows building last evening. The meeting was largely attended. Routine business for the most part was transacted. The question of amalgamation with other courts came up and was approved. The body appointed a committee on amalgamation, which is as follows: William A. Kelley, James White, F. E. Garvey and John Maguire. James Farley was appointed chairman of the outgoing committee. The cutting will take place at Gammon's farm, Belle Grove, in August. William A. Kelley, regent, gave an instructive talk on the good of the order. On the evening of June 18 there will be a meeting of special interest to all the members.

Lowell S. Council, Royal Arcanum
Lowell S. council, Royal Arcanum held a largely attended meeting in Odd Fellows' hall, in Middlesex street, last night. Considerable important business was transacted and four new members were initiated. John J. Hogan, supreme trustee who spoke at the meeting of industry council Wednesday evening, was the principal speaker. He dwelt on the many changes in laws made at the convention held at the Hotel Marlborough, New York City. He stated that these changes would be of much benefit to the members, especially the older ones. After Mr. Hogan's address a "smoker" was enjoyed and an enjoyable musical program none through with. Regent E. F. White gave an interesting talk on the good of the order. The bowling tournament which has kept the members in friendly rivalry since March will be brought to a close the latter part of this month. A monster banquet has been arranged for, and a silver loving cup will be presented the winning team on that night. The leading team is now captained by J. Perron, but he is closely followed by team 1, captained by Horace Paradis.

Order of Owls Held Meeting
Order of Owls held its regular business meeting at its quarters, new Elks' hall last evening. There was the usual large attendance with President J. E. MacCallum in the chair. Both membership committees presented a large number of names of candidates for membership and the two teams are about even again.

The banquet which will be given by the membership team during promises to be a social event of much importance in the history of the Lowell Nest. Several out-of-town owls are to be invited, and many speeches will be heard. Invitations will be given the supreme officers of the order, and it is hoped that some of these will be accepted.

The "young" Owls of the Nest have leased a cottage at Crystal lake for the season. The place will be known as the "Owls' Rest." The cottage will be equipped with every convenience for summer camp-life.

Besides the regular routine of lodge work a large class was initiated at the close of the meeting the newly initiated members were accorded an enthusiastic reception.

But five cases of sickness were reported by the sick-visiting committee. Bro. James Hardman who has been confined to the Lowell hospital for several weeks with a broken leg, is getting along nicely and will be able to leave for home in a few days.

A rising vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Merrill for courtesies and kindnesses recently shown the Lowell Nest. Mrs. Merrill is the widow of the late Frank Merrill who instituted the Lowell Nest in 1903.

EDUCATED IN FACTORY

NEW YORK, June 5.—Forty young immigrant girls employed in a muslin garment factory, who a year ago were unable to express their thoughts in English or write their names legibly, were last night awarded certificates of literacy at the first graduation exercises ever held in this city in an industrial plant as an extension of the public school system.

The exercises were conducted by the board of education in the recreation room of the factory.

The girls ranged in years from 18 to 23. Their schooling was not compulsory. For three hours every day they were taught in the factory and while they studied their pay went on. The firm acknowledges that it has benefited in efficiency.

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Middlesex County Investigation Bill Killed — Teachers' Tenure Bill Advanced

BOSTON, June 5.—Gov. Walsh's veto of the bill providing for the reorganization of the Metropolitan police was sustained yesterday by the Massachusetts house of representatives, 155 to 14. This is the measure which the governor characterized in his veto message as "indefensible legislation."

In the 14 who sought to pass the bill over the governor's veto were several democrats, including Lomasney of ward 8, Noland and Doyle of East Boston and John J. Cummings of Dorchester.

There was little debate. Mr. Davenport and Mr. Haines advocating passage of the bill over the veto and Messrs. Cox and Bottfield urging that the governor be supported.

When the resolve to provide that in connection with the decennial census the names of all residents of the state over 65 years of age be recorded came up for debate Mr. Morrill, the socialist member, offered an amendment that the names of those between 55 and 65 be taken. Mr. Carr introduced an amendment limiting it to 60 years. The purpose of the bill is to learn the number of dependents over 65 years of age. The Morrill and Carr amendments were rejected and the resolve was passed to be engrossed.

Teachers' Tenure Bill

The so-called teachers' tenure act, which provides that public school teachers and superintendents may not be discharged without a sufficient notice and without cause, was passed to a third reading on a rollcall, 127 to 75.

This action was not taken until the question was debated at length and the proposed amendments rejected. (By Mr. Cobb) exempting Boston from the provisions of the act; (by Mr. Greenwood) removing the reference in the bill to superintendents; (by Mr. Harrington of Fall River) changing the bill to make it possible for a majority instead of two-thirds of the school board to dismiss a teacher.

The bill was opposed by Mr. Cross, who said that it made it difficult for a school committee to get rid of an undesirable teacher. Mr. Mulvey favored the bill, saying that it gave the teachers protection that they are entitled to and saved them from the mental unrest to which they are now subjected.

Mr. Napoleon opposed the bill to allow street railway companies to beneficially of bondholders for funding the cost of replacement or reconstruction to an amount up to 125 per cent of their capital stock. Messrs. Wash-

General Pension Bill

The house committee on ways and means gave a hearing at the state house yesterday on the general pension bill presented by the pension commission and the committee on social welfare.

James E. McConnell of the pension commission outlined the features of the bill. Representative Allison G. Catheron, house chairman of the committee on social welfare, spoke for the commission. He said that the bill was introduced by the pension commission and the committee on social welfare.

Mr. Catheron said his experience in dealing with the question was that the only opposition to the general pension bill came from those who now receive pensions to which they contributed nothing and those now receiving pensions in excess of what they would receive if the bill was passed.

Commissioner McConnell said that men and policemen, now pensioned because of the hazard of their occupation, would get as much under this act as they now get. But firemen and policemen would get as much. They are called upon in the bill as proposed to contribute a per cent of their earnings, as in the case of all other pensioners.

Commissioner Shelden said that the teachers of the state endorse this bill. Carl A. Raymond of the state auditor's office opposed the bill because it will wipe out the entire present system of retirement of state officers and will give to those retired under the proposed pension system a less sum than they are now receiving, while it will cost more than the plan which the commonwealth is now operating.

John A. Sullivan, corporation counsel of Boston, opposed the enactment of any such bill as this from several points of view. Where there are now 10 per cent of the public employees of Boston entitled to pension, he said, this bill proposes to make the proportion 50 per cent and the burden will be increased on the men who get no pension and are obliged to pay the bills. He could see no reason why a public employee above the grade of clerk should receive any pension whatever.

Alfred Fisher opposed the bill because, he said, it is giving too much power to one man—the pension commission.

John W. Geary, representing Branch 5 of the National Association of Civil Service Employees, Jeremiah J. Donovan of Branch 34 of the Letter Carriers of Boston, and David P. Walsh, representing employees of the Massachusetts reformatory for women, among those who had themselves recorded in opposition to the bill.

"We believe in the state pension," said Mr. Geary, "but the principle of the contributory pension is neither fair nor just. The burden upon the salaried amounts to compulsory saving. When in many cases the employer in the final analysis contributes nothing, because the employee does not live long enough. You can't dip into a man's pocket book without arousing antagonism. There is straight pension the employer pays equally with the employee in the latter's increased efficiency."

SENIOR MOUNTAIN DAY
SOUTH HADLEY, June 5.—Senior mountain day, unique among class day celebrations, was observed at Mount Holyoke college today. The seniors spent last night at a hotel on Mount Holyoke and today held their last rites.

A feature of the night was a midnight "engagement roll call" those girls who had become engaged being obliged to respond "guilty" and others "not guilty."

Myra Grazier of West Orange, N. J., was least mistress at a class banquet.

ABDUL MOHAMED SAVED

FIREMAN ON THE STEAMER KATUNA JUMPED OVERBOARD IN THE GULF OF ADEN FOR A SWIM

BOSTON, June 5.—Abdul Mohamed, a lascar fireman on the Bucknall liner Katuna, which came in yesterday from the Far East, jumped overboard while the freighter was crossing the Gulf of Aden, and started to swim to Mecca, 200 miles away. Capt. Jackson thought it was an attempt at suicide.

The steamer was turned about, a lifeboat was lowered away and in five minutes Abdul was back on board. He is said to be champion swimmer of Colombo and declared he could swim to Mecca without the least trouble. The Katuna officers thought otherwise, and besides it Abdul left it would have been a clear case of desertion. So he resumed shoveling coal.

The Katuna picked up a million-dollar cargo of tea, gummies, hides and general merchandise at Rangoon, Calcutta, Cochin and Colombo, calling at Oran for coal. The passage from Gibraltar was negotiated in 11 days and 12 hours, which is believed to be a record for a freighter.

About half the cargo will be unloaded here and the steamer will leave tomorrow evening for New York to discharge the balance. Bubonic plague was prevalent at Colombo, and the week ending the day the steamer left there were eight deaths from the disease.

CONG. JONES IS ACTIVE

ONE OF THE STRONGEST ADVOCATES FOR FREEDOM FOR THE PHILIPPINES

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Limited self government of a territorial character for the Philippines, with a view to complete independence of the islands in the indefinite future, when the natives have demonstrated their capacity, is proposed in a bill drawn up by Rep. William A. Jones of Virginia, chairman of the insular affairs committee.

The bill is in strict accordance with the democratic platform. Several bills in the past have recommended the adoption of a definite date—the most popular being July 4, 1920—for granting independence. Mr. Jones leaves this to the natives themselves, stipulating that this government should turn affairs over to them as soon as they have proved their ability to run a government.

WINS JOHN BARRETT PRIZE

HANOVER, N. H., June 5.—The John Barrett prize for all-round achievement at Dartmouth college will be awarded this year to Paul Witmer London of North Troy, N. Y., by vote of the three upper classes yesterday. He is a senior, captain of the baseball team, and proficient in scholarship.

London's name will be engraved on the large cup presented by Mr. Barrett to the college for that purpose and he will be given a medal also.

ENDORSE WILSON POLICY

RALEIGH, N. C., June 5.—United States Senator Lee O. Overman, was unanimously renominated and the position taken by President Wilson for repeal of the Panama toll exemption clause was endorsed by the democratic state convention in session yesterday. Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce made an address on the value of the new tariff law.

A Few Words to Near-Boston Men

THERE are several good long stories back of what Boston men find at the end of a half-minute journey up the Filene escalator to their own clothes shop. Much the same sort of story as might be told about

Why Uncle Sam built the Panama canal after France failed—

Why certain steamship lines take you across seas in less time and in more comfort than others—

Why certain manufacturers turn out more and better automobiles, year after year, than others—

Why certain banks get and deserve the public's confidence and the public's money.

Long stories, these—too long to be told in a half-minute ad-talk. As for these Filene men's clothes shops, there is nothing accidental about the fact that they are able to provide such exceptional togs, made-ready or made-to-measure, at such surprisingly reasonable prices.

This is accomplished for reasons just as deep and broad and solid as the reasons back of the canal, the steamships, the automobiles, the banks.

FOREST FACTS

Striking facts regarding our forest resources, their value and their waste, are condensed in an eight-page illustrated circular of the American forestry association just issued. The lumber industry is said to employ 735,000 people, to whom are paid annually $367,000,000 in wages, the worth of products being $1,250,000,000. The forests of the country cover 510,000,000 acres.

An average of 70 human lives are sacrificed annually in forest fires, says the circular, and a loss occurs of $25,000,000. Damage from insects and tree diseases, which follow fire, costs each year $50,000,000. The cost of destruction resulting from floods is not estimated, but is given as "countless millions."

But the circular expresses hope more than pessimism. As well as the colored pictures showing the forest fire, the effects of the fire, and the damage caused by floods, it shows also forests planted and grown under intensive management, and the nation forest ranger scouting for fires on the mountain lookout station. The effective patrol here referred to has reduced forest fire losses to as low as one-tenth of one cent an acre.

The forest service has been requested to cooperate with the port authorities of Coon Bay, Washington, in planting an arboretum in which it is proposed to grow a group of each of the important timber trees of the temperate zone.

Jack pine trees planted ten years ago in the sand hills of Nebraska are now large enough to produce fence posts. Last year the first seed was gathered from this plantation.

The agricultural experiment station at Pullman, Washington, is establishing an arboretum in which it is proposed to grow a group of each of the important timber trees of the temperate zone.

CHARTER BILL

Senate Passes Measure After Bitter Fight—Goes to Governor

BOSTON, June 5.—After a bitter fight in both branches the bill amending the charter of the city council was passed by the senate by a vote of 13 to 12 today. The measure which had previously passed the house provides that the council shall consist of 12 members elected by districts and five at large instead of the nine now elected at large. If signed by the governor it will be voted upon at the next state election.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 5.—Welcomed by salutes from the battleships Idaho, Missouri and Illinois and the station ship Reina Mercedes, President Wilson arrived here today on the Mayflower from Washington to take part in the Naval Academy graduation exercises. Capt. W. R. Fulkam, superintendent of the academy; Capt. W. G. Logan, commandant, and Lieut. Com. Chauncey Shackford went out to the Mayflower and brought the president ashore and took them directly to the academy armory, where the exercises were held. As the presidential party landed on the bank of the Severn another salute boomed from a shore battery.

PARK BOARD TO MEET

IT IS STATED THAT THOMAS F. MCKAY WILL BE MADE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

A meeting of the park commission will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock and there will probably be some interesting business come before the members. The newly elected member, Thomas F. McKay, will attend his first meeting at that time and it is rumored that he will be elected chairman of the board.

SUDDEN DEATH

Steve Laughton Found Dying in His Barber Shop This Morning

One of Lowell's oldest and best known barbers, Stephen A. Laughton of 74 Chapel street, was found dying in his shop at 361 Central street, shortly before 6:30 o'clock this morning and passed away in the ambulance on the way to St. John's hospital a few minutes later.

It is said that Mr. Laughton had been ill for some time and it is believed by his intimate friends that the fire which wrecked his home on Chapel street late yesterday afternoon probably hastened his death as he was very nervous last evening. Mr. Laughton together with his wife left their home shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, the former stopping at his barber shop while Mrs. Laughton continued on her way to one of the local factories where she is employed. The next scene of the deceased was about 6:30 o'clock when Patrolman Burke, who watches in upper Central street late nights, looked into the window and saw him sitting in a barber's chair with his head hanging down. The officer forced his way into the shop and upon finding him unconscious summoned the ambulance to bring him to St. John's hospital for treatment but death intervened. Undertaker McDermott was sent for to care for the body. Mr. Laughton was about 53 years of age and had been a barber in Lowell for over thirty years, working in down-town shops for over 25 years and then opening the Opera House barber shop at 361 Central street, where he was in business up to the time of his death. His wife was grief stricken when informed of his death as she stated that although he was probably affected by the fire, he was in fairly good spirits when she left him at the shop about 6:15 o'clock.

Dr. Meier examined the body of Mr. Laughton at noon and stated that although he had not decided what caused the man's death he found nothing suspicious and believed that it was due to natural causes.

DUMP FIRE TODAY
A fire near the Allen street dump kept the members of hose 12 busy for some time this afternoon although no serious damage was done. The firemen were summoned by a telephone call about 1 o'clock and were kept on the scene until into the afternoon.

TEXTILE SCHOOL

parlaments open to the public on formal occasions, and those who availed of the privileges today were amply repaid, for aside from the splendid collection of the most modern machinery used in the textile industry many of the departments had exhibits of their finished product that spoke volumes for the efficient instruction given. Above the main exhibit was arranged a splendid exhibit of the work of the woolen and cotton finishing department, under Mr. Stewart, consisting of beautiful wools and worsteds in various shades, some of them being splendid examples in stripes and checks. Some of the broadcloths were also in evidence and many different patterns of high grade cambric, giving a practical application of the principles given, some beautiful suits in gray wools were on exhibition, for all the athletes used by the students are made in the school. Some of the students who graduated today were well made from material that was finished from the raw product, in the school. In the exhibit of the wool and cotton finishing department were also many examples of sweaters, stockings, and finished cotton products of various colors.

In the large Kilson hall all the machinery for efficient weaving was set in readiness for the touch of the operative. The various processes could be followed and on the looms were many finished samples of woven carpet, tapestry, plush, cotton, toweling, percales, muslins and fine cottons. Principal Barnes and the various department heads explained the many processes to the large and interested crowd that went through the many sections of the great school. The wool and worsted yarn department was especially interesting as the various processes of converting the raw wool into yarn were explained, from the wool as scoured, combed, carded and spun into yarn. The Bradford and the French systems of production are followed, and in the French section is some splendid imported machinery from Alsace. The department of the strength of the yarns is also taught. The dyeing and chemistry department proved of intense interest to those unfamiliar with this branch of the textile industry. The color department had many exquisite and artistic examples of textile design suitable for all materials from the silks to tapestries, and there were examples of purely artistic design showing taste and originality.

MILITANTS WRECK CHURCH

The Ancient Historic Church at Breadsall Was Destroyed by Explosions and Fire

DERBY, Eng., June 5.—The ancient and historic church at Breadsall, dating back to Norman times and containing many priceless relics, was destroyed by fire during the night. While no direct evidence was obtained that the fire was started by suffragettes, they are suspected by the authorities, as explosions similar to those caused by the bombs usually employed by the "arson squad" were heard before the fire was discovered. It is also pointed out that some weeks ago a suffragette meeting in the village of Breadsall was broken up by boys and it is generally believed that the women burned the church for revenge.

Among the things consumed by the flames was an ancient chained bible which was unique in Derbyshire, while monuments to Erasmus, Darwin, the poet, and other Derbyshire notables were ruined. Fortunately, however, the church register, dating back to 1573 was saved, as it was kept in the rectory which escaped the flames.

BACK FROM SPRINGFIELD

Aldermen and Other City Officials Arrived Home Last Night — Visited Knox Automobile Plant

Commissioners Carmichael, Brown, Donnelly and Morse, Fire Chief Saunders, City Solicitor Hennessy, Purchasing Agent Foye and City Messenger Monahan arrived home last night from Springfield, where they went, ostensibly to look over the different municipal departments and incidentally to visit the Knox automobile plant. They are loud in their praise of Springfield, her officials, buildings, streets, etc. They lay particular stress upon the beautiful auditorium which cost about $2,000,000, and is said to be one of the very best in the country. The charges for the hall for an evening is $100; $15 an hour after midnight and $200 for a whole day.

Commissioner Carmichael was at his office long before 9 o'clock this morning, though the party did not arrive home until 10 o'clock last night. Asked as to the trip, Mr. Carmichael said: "We had a very pleasant time and I think that we all learned a little that will be helpful in our work."

"There was no mistake made when Springfield was called the City of Homes, for there are many beautiful homes there, and the city, as a whole, is cleanliness personified. I spent considerable time in the fire houses, and I must say that the houses are splendidly equipped. They have more modern apparatus than we have in Lowell and everything is strictly up to date. They have four big machines, costing $10,000 each, and they are run by electricity. The electricity is in the wheels and the firemen with whom we talked said that the machines with the electric wheels were especially good in deep snow. The electricity for the individual machine, it was stated, does not cost more than $40 a year."

"One of the interesting features of the fire department there is the drill and I watched these drills with great interest. It is a very thorough drill, including all the fire movements even to hydrant hitches. In the building where the drill is held there is a dummy hydrant for quick hitch practice. Springfield also has a fire school and the firemen take occasional drills there."

"There is a great deal of street work going on in Springfield and Commissioner Morse, of course, was especially interested in the street work. Springfield is using wooden blocks and while these blocks make an almost noiseless street, and a pretty street, they are not nearly as durable as the granite blocks used in this city. But Springfield doesn't seem to care much about cost. The people there seek elegance, comfort and cleanliness."

"We visited the different public buildings and were treated with the utmost courtesy. The municipal buildings are magnificent structures and the public auditorium is simply beautiful. No expense was spared in its construction and I think it is as nearly perfect as possible. It is a mammoth building and it fairly glows with architectural beauty. I wish I had something like it in Lowell."

Asked if the party visited the Knox plant, Commissioner Carmichael said: "I do not favor the purchase of a Knox car because it costs too much money, but I must say that the Knox has a lot to recommend it. The car may be bought outright or on a lease plan. I do not care anything about automobiles, but I suppose when a man wants a certain kind of car, believing it to be the best that will serve his purpose, he ought to have it, other things being equal."

Commissioner Brown and City Solicitor Hennessy were at city hall bright and early this morning and they enjoyed the trip very much. It was stated, too, that Mayor Murphy had planned to make the trip but was unable to go because of a court case in which he was counsel.

SPILLANE IS ARRAIGNED

Held in Sum of $500 for Vicious Assault on John Maloney—Milkman Fined $50

Michael Spillane pleaded not guilty in police court this forenoon to assaulting John Maloney and asked for a continuance as he was not ready for trial. Supt. Welch stated that Mr. Maloney is at present confined to St. John's hospital and the defendant was held in the sum of $500 for his appearance in court next Friday morning. It is understood that he does not know that he stabbed anybody.

Milk Case
For having in his possession milk which had water added to it, Manuel J. Avila was ordered to pay a fine of $50, but he appealed and bail was fixed at $200. Members of the state board of health testified that they found the milk in the defendant's cart and that it was below the standard. J. Joseph O'Connor appeared for the defendant.

For Non-Support
Wladyslaw Syzas was charged with drunkenness and non-support of his wife and although he pleaded not guilty to the latter charge the testimony of the complainant and a police officer was sufficient to satisfy his Honor that Wladyslaw had been neglecting his wife of late and he was sentenced to the house of correction at Cambridge for four months.

Sent to Reformatory
Ethel M. Parker of Concord, N. H., the 19-year-old girl who was arrested when the police raided a house at 135 Cross street Tuesday evening, was arraigned on continuance today and was ordered committed to the reformatory at Sherborn. A sister of the girl appeared in court today and told Judge Knight that her father had been injured out that some weeks ago a suffragette meeting in the village of Breadsall was broken up by boys and it is generally believed that the women burned the church for revenge.

EXIT AND ENTRANCE IN WAR GAME PLAYED BY MEXICAN REBELS AND FEDERALS AT MONTEREY

The Mexican revolution, as you know, is a great game of hide and seek, of exits and entrances, with the federals were driven out. The federals later evacuated Saltillo, and Villa occupied that city as a base of supplies for his farther march southward. The other picture shows how some of the federals made their escape from Monterey when the pace became too hot for them. Traveling on such "palace" cars proved slow, but effective.

CLOSE CHURCHES EXPORTS AND IMPORTS VANITIE AND RESOLUTE

As Result of Outrages by Women—John E. Redmond Besieged
LONDON, June 5.—John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish nationalists, today declined a request by Irish women suffragettes that he receive a deputation on the subject of the inclusion of women as electors for the Irish parliament.

Mr. Redmond pointed out that previous deputations of this nature had caused only unpleasantness and reiterated the view that Ireland under home rule must decide for herself whether she wants women voters.

In consequence of militant suffrage attacks churches in many parts of the country are being closed except for the usual Sunday services. A sample of the notices posted by the rectors is as follows:

"Owing to distasteful outrages by frenzied criminals who have no regard for God or man, this church will be closed except during the hours of divine service."

THE PARKER WILL CASE STOLE MONALISA

ATTEMPT TO BREAK $500,000 WILL OF WINTHROP RECLUSE—PINNED BADGES ON NIGHT SHIRT
BOSTON, June 5.—The late Benjamin W. Parker of Winthrop, molasses broker and recluse, used to pin badges on his night shirt, Atty. Fletcher Ranney declared he would show by testimony at the trial yesterday of Prof. Frederick P. Gay's contest of the $500,000 will, and Dr. Leslie H. Spooner, when asked if Parker was of sound mind when he made his will, testified, "I don't know." Dr. Spooner was a witness to the will.

The contest of the will is being heard before Judge King and a Suffolk jury. The contestant was a nephew of Parker and received but $500 by the will, while the testator's brother, Clark Parker of Winthrop, received in trust all but $4000 of the estate. Dr. Gay is professor of pathology at the University of California.

Dr. Spooner testified Parker, who died Dec. 12, 1910, suffered from hardening of the arteries, and toward the end of his life "was cranky, stubborn, childish, and hard to influence."

He said he had never heard Benjamin mention the name of his brother Clark. He said Benjamin spoke frequently of Dr. Gay, his nephew. He said Benjamin was glad when Dr. Gay received his appointment in the pathological department of the University of California, and never heard Benjamin criticize Dr. Gay adversely.

Speaking generally, the witness said the testator was "a powerful, well-nourished man, but that though he was over 70 he was old for his years."

The state then rested its formal proof of the will.

Atty. Ranney, counsel for the contestant, said he would show that following an accident Parker lost weight and had dizzy spells so persons had to seize him; that persons described him as "a tremulous old man," and that his memory became bad. Atty. Ranney said, in his opening:

"You would tell me a thing and in a few minutes he had forgotten about it. He showed outbursts of childish emotion. He would pin badges on his nightshirt. He would accuse persons of not attending to him."

Referring to the life of Clark Parker, brother of the testator, Mr. Ranney said he would show that a short time before Clark went to California, Benjamin said he could no longer stand the career of his brother, so a little while after that Clark settled in California under the name of C. H. Davis, that once Benjamin, Mr. Ranney also said he would show that Benjamin told Dr. Gay he would not make a will, as no Parker made one.

Three letters, addressed to Benjamin, purporting to have been written by Clark and his wife, each commencing with the salutation, "My dear, dear brother," were read to the jury by Ranney. The letters were all signed "Theodore and Rudyard." The letters were in part as follows:

"We were very much pleased with your last letter, especially where Fred tried to get the keys of vault as he must have been posted that possession is nine points of the law. Oh, oh, what he would have done if he had only gotten his claws on the contents of that vault. I really think the Parkers do know a thing or two. Oh, but the mail he had to claim Aunt Jennie's things. They must be a set of rascals. I wish that Fred had consoled up with to get him going in this way, for he would never have nerve enough himself to propose or ask for things that he is no more entitled to than any stranger."

"I must say you gave as much pleasure when you said you turned Fred's stocks and securities over to his keeping and took a receipt for same. Now when it comes to him to have the nerve to claim my mother's property I will not stand it, and I know that you do not think for one moment of tolerating such a gall as he is trying to impose upon us. For the love of Moses, what will he try next?"

Dr. Horace G. Ripley, assistant at the Taunton state asylum, read the mental and physical condition of Clark Parker as an inmate of the asylum, and sister of the testator, who was an inmate of that institution.

John A. Riley, assistant clerk of probate, read from probate court papers relative to the guardianship of Clark Parker as an insane person. It stated that Benjamin W. Parker and Louise M. Gay were the petitioners. The petition was filed Jan. 26, 1887, and was allowed by the court March 14, 1887. Clark Parker as insane and the guardianship was removed.

FLORENCE, Italy, June 5.—The plea of extenuating circumstances was accepted in behalf of Vincenzo Perugia, who stole Da Vinci's masterpiece, "Mona Lisa," from the Louvre in Paris and the judge sentenced him today to one year and 15 days imprisonment.

As Perugia has been in prison awaiting trial since December, he will not have to serve more than six months. The theft was carried out on Aug. 22, 1912, and the picture was not found until December, 1913, when Perugia offered it for sale to a Florentine antiquary.

TWO AVIATORS KILLED

FRENCH ARMY BIRMEN LOST THEIR LIVES NEAR DIJON, FRANCE
DIJON, France, June 5.—Two French army aviators, Lieut. Gronne and Sapper Rieux, were killed today while flying near here.

Passants watching an aeroplane which had risen from the military aviation station and which was flying swiftly at an altitude of half a mile over the forest of Casquette heard an explosion and saw a burst of flame. A few moments later the fragments of the aeroplane to which the aviators were strapped fell among the trees and the bodies of the men were found horribly burned and mutilated.

Contention Over Whitman & Pratt Rebuilding—Mills Are Busy and Some Work Nights

One question that has got the townspeople of North Chelmsford all agog is the petition of the Whitman & Pratt Rebuilding Co. to erect a suitable building to carry on the same kind of work they were engaged in before the big fire. The opinions of the different citizens are somewhat divided on the matter of the petition, and a lively discussion is looked for at the next town meeting, which will probably be held on Monday evening next. The Rebuilding Works have been a bone of contention ever since they were established in the town. Residents living in close proximity have always objected to the odors which emanated from the old plant, especially in the night-time. But Rebuilding Works have to be and they are a great help to the community in which they exist in safeguarding the health of its inhabitants. The following statement regarding this all important question was made to a Sun reporter by one of North Chelmsford's most prominent citizens:

There is no doubt that every man has the right under the constitution of the United States of entering upon a business career that will not be detrimental to his neighbor. There is no company that does as much good towards safeguarding the health of its inhabitants as that which looks after the bodies of dead animals. What would become of the bodies of the horses who die in harness on our streets every day? What would become of the carcasses of cows, sheep, pigs, and other animals that during epidemics die in large numbers? We know without consulting any scientists on the matter what would be the result. The carcasses would be thrown here and there on the outskirts of towns and cities, and which sooner or later would cause a worldwide pestilence.

For the last two years Whitman & Pratt spent much time and a great amount of money to carry on their business with as little odor as possible. Now and then accidents will happen, owing to the fact that employees become careless, but nobody regrets this more than the firm of Whitman & Pratt. We want every company that will do so to settle down within our borders, and we could ill afford to lose a firm that pays us in wages those of a dollar yearly.

Clarence Bacon is the one who will be delegated to the task. It is thought, John Buchanan has been favored with a signal honor in being appointed an angle scout, the highest honor that can be awarded a member of the troop. The date of their encampment will be set at the next meeting.

"A Nautical Knot"
The operetta, "A Nautical Knot," which had been presented with much success at Graniteville was given in the town hall last evening for the benefit of St. John's church with the same popular reception that was attributed to the piece in Graniteville. Joe Wall, the man who owns Graniteville, was the stage director, and James A. Murphy, director of St. Michael's church choir of Lowell, had charge of the difficult musical numbers. The performance, like the music, was excellent.

Improve Residences

Street Department
The street department has finished oiling the roads and they are now on a par with the other towns in the state. The state department has men busily engaged in oiling the Princeton boulevard, and another gang are filling in the rattle holes. When finished the boulevard bids fair to resemble a ball room floor. There is a petition before the legislature to make Groton road a state highway.

Crescent Lake Dancing
The first of a series of Thursday evening dances was held last night at Crescent lake under the auspices of the Crescent orchestra. The pavilion, which has been completely renovated, was fitted up with beautiful electrical effects. Streams of colored bunting, which were draped over the center chandelier, were caught up on the edge of the pavilion. A large crowd of attendance and an enjoyable evening was spent. The latest in tenniscourt art was allowed but nothing took place that could offend even the most fastidious. George Griffin is the leader of the Crescent orchestra.

Silesia Worsted Mills
Conditions at the Silesia Worsted Co. are the same as they have always been since their establishment in North Chelmsford. All departments are running with full complements of help, and some departments are kept running at night.

Moore's Mills
The George C. Moore mills are running full blast and indications seem to point to a most prosperous season. A few of the departments have started running at night work.

The North Chelmsford Machine and Supply Co. and the Lowell Textile Co. are working steadily and future prospects are said to be quite encouraging.

LOCAL NEWS

The engagement is announced of Miss Della Breton of West Centralville and Mr. Frank Marjorie, the well known letter carrier, the ceremony to be performed some time this month.

The regular meeting of Branch St. Andre, A. C. F. was held in Grafton hall last evening with L. J. Corneille in the chair. A new member was initiated and three applications for membership were received.

Invitations have been received in this city for the wedding of Dr. Hec- tor, formerly of Lowell and now of Southbridge, and Miss Aurea, daughter of Worcester, the ceremony to be performed in Worcester in a couple of weeks.

VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE

Streams of Boiling Lava and Storm of Stones and Ashes Fall Over Dutch Island of Sanguir

MANILA, June 5.—A violent eruption of several volcanoes occurred today on the Dutch island of Sanguir, only about 140 miles directly south of Mindanao in the Philippines.

Streams of boiling lava poured down the sides of the mountains, overwhelming woods and cocoa plantations. At the same time a heavy rain of stones and ashes from various craters fell over the whole island.

Official reports do not mention loss of life but register the destruction of one hundred houses.

Sanguir is the largest of the group known as the Talauste islands in the Celebes sea, about 500 miles to the east of British North Borneo. Destructive outbreaks of Gunong Abu, the principal volcano on the island, occurred in 1711, 1812, 1883 and 1892.

AMONG THE TOILERS

International Car Workers

The International Association of Car Workers held its regular meeting last night in Odd Fellows building in Middlesex street and it was largely attended. Last night was a banner night for initiations, 15 being admitted. Twelve applications for membership were also received. President Ernest Griffin was the speaker of the evening and his talk on car workers was highly interesting. Several members spoke interestingly on the good and welfare.

Car Shop Machinists

The car shop machinists, who come from Concord, Derry, Keene, Fitchburg and Worcester, held their regular meeting last night in Odd Fellows building. Last night seemed to be the big night in all societies for initiations, and this union ranked up with the leaders, having admitted 20 new members. Considerable important business was transacted, and several of the members spoke on the good of the union.

Painters' Union Met

The Painters' union held their regular Thursday night meeting in Carpenters' hall with President Dane in the chair. Four new members were admitted and several applications for membership were received. The business agent reported business as good at the present time but that there is a big shortage in men, in the painting trade. The examining board, which was established only a short time ago, is a great success. Every applicant for membership is examined as to his knowledge of the business before he is admitted. This helps to keep the union up to the highest standard, and also insures the employer who hires union men that he is getting something for his money. There are several of the members of the union working out of town, in the White mountains and at the beaches at the present time.

Machinists' Union

The machinists' rooms were crowded to their capacity at the regular meeting held last night. President Phelps called the meeting to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Routine business for the month was transacted. Seven new members were admitted and four applications for membership were turned over to the investigating committee. They will be reported on at the next regular meeting. Several of the members addressed the body on topics relative to the betterment of labor conditions.

Trades and Labor Council

The Trades and Labor Council held its regular session in Trades and Labor hall in Middle street last evening and it was largely attended. President Timothy Bourke occupied the chair, and called the meeting to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Reports were received from various organizations growing rapidly. Several communications were received and were referred to the proper authorities. The action taken by the municipal council in placing the city employees under civil service was discussed at length, and it was unanimously voted to enter a protest against the same. The secretary was instructed to notify the municipal council of the action taken. Considerable routine business was transacted and the council adjourned to meet June 15.

stated that Michaelis did not have varicose veins until after the accident and that they came as the result of the accident which was described as having taken place in the packing room and that a big packing box fell on Michaelis' leg.

The committee on arbitration was made up as follows: David T. Dickinson, chairman; John J. Devine for the employer; and Benjamin J. Maloney for the insured. The attorneys in the case were Fisher & Pearson for the employer and George Kenney for the insured.

Messrs. Dickinson and Maloney came to the conclusion that the employee had the disease before the accident, and while Mr. Devine dissented, the majority ruled. The employee, however, is entitled to a review of the evidence before the accident board within seven days after the filing of the report by the committee on arbitration.

Buzz Car License

Twenty-six applicants for chauffeurs' licenses took the weekly examination at city hall this forenoon. This is a very large class and the applicants come from Haverhill, Lawrence, Andover, from Billerica and Chelmsford and all around. These examinations are given every Friday by the Massachusetts highway commission and are held in the old councilmanic chamber at city hall. The examiners today were Messrs. Lathrop, Karmuh and Bouzagan.

Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.
(The foregoing was laid before the governor on the 18th day of May, 1914, and after five days it had "the force of a law," as prescribed by the constitution, as it was not returned by him with his objections therein within that time.)

MEDIATORS OPTIMISTIC

Confident Carranza Will Decide to Take Part in Proceedings—Note in Four Days

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Carranza's statement that he would not reply to the last note of the South American envoys until he reached Saltillo from Durango, confirmed the belief of administration officials today that the constitutionalists' final attitude toward entering the Niagara conference would not be known for three or four days. Optimism expressed at Niagara Falls that Carranza would decide to take part in the proceedings was reflected here. The statement of Rafael Zubaran, the constitutionalist chief representative in Washington attracted widespread attention.

"Affairs are bettering," he said, when asked as to the likelihood of Carranza's participation in the conference. He did not expect, however, to receive an answer from his chief before late Saturday or Sunday.

Meanwhile officials of the administration continued their conferences with Carranza's agents urging them to recommend that a favorable reply be sent to the mediators.

Officials of the state and navy departments were occupied with plans for meeting any situation that might arise at Tampico through efforts of Huerta to establish a blockade to halt shipments of arms for Carranza. American war vessels off Alvarado and Puerto Mexico reported that Huerta's ships had made no move to leave. They will continue under the surveillance of the American men-of-war.

Shipments of arms for Carranza that left Galveston and New York were likely to reach their destination unmolested, it was believed here today. While orders had been issued to prevent the clearance of vessels carrying arms for any Mexican port, yet two steamers sailed with war cargoes through the failure of the state department's instructions to reach proper officials in time.

Whether the American government might stop these shipments at Tampico was a question upon which no definite official light had been thrown today.

through his representatives in Washington is a mixture of doubt and hope. In some quarters it was believed Carranza's response would be negative, but it was hoped it would leave open the door for continued correspondence. Semi-official statements in regard to the attitude of Carranza towards the mediation proceedings indicate that he is not ready to accept unreservedly the offer of good offices practically renewed by the mediators.

While no meetings between the mediators and either the American or the Mexican delegates were scheduled for the day, the mediators themselves planned to get together to discuss the latest phases of the situation.

VICTIMS OF EXPLOSION

TWO MEN INJURED MONDAY DIED TODAY—DEATH LIST NUMBERS SIX

BOSTON, June 5.—The number of deaths resulting from an explosion of sewer gas at the East Boston pumping station of the metropolitan sewage system was increased to six today, when Elmer C. Gifford and Philip Halsey succumbed to their injuries. The explosion occurred Monday and is believed to have been due to the igniting of sewer gas by a torch which the men were using.

FORTY-NINERS ALL DEAD

WILLIAM T. DENNIS, LAST OF NUMBER TO SAIL AROUND THE HORN, DIED LAST NIGHT

NEWPORT, R. I., June 5.—William T. Dennis, the last known survivor of Newport's forty-niners, who sailed around the Horn to search for gold in California, died last night. Seventy-five men sailed from Newport on the ship Audley Clark on a voyage which lasted 185 days. Most of them had drifted back here to become more successful in business than they had been in finding gold. Several have been prominent in Newport's history. Four members of the Dennis family went. The last survivor returned because of partial blindness, and was in the marine business for a number of years.

Board of Trade in Apathetic State —Special Town Meeting to be Held Monday

What has become of the Tewksbury board of trade?"

That is a question that several prominent citizens of the town and members of the organization have been asking after reading in The Sun that Dr. H. M. Larrabee, president of the board, had been chosen to represent the board at the Lowell board of trade annual meeting. The news of Dr. Larrabee's election was the cause of much comment for it is sincerely believed by many that the Tewksbury board of trade has seen better days.

Even the officers of the Tewksbury organization do not know where they are at and some say that the officers are a thing of the past, while others contend that the men are still in office and are held-overs, for the annual meeting which was scheduled to be held on the first Thursday in January is still to be held.

A friendly officer of the board in a previous conversation with the writer said the last meeting of the board was held in September and not a word has been heard from the president in relation to the organization since that time, and inasmuch as it is up to the president to convene.

Most of the board to call a meeting, they are patiently awaiting the call of the chair.

The board was organized some two years ago at the suggestion of the Lowell board of trade and its progress during the first eighteen months was marvellous. Over a prominent citizens of the town joined the ranks of the new organization and things went along smoothly. Monthly meetings were held with prominent speakers and all seemed to be satisfied. The welfare of the town was left in the hands of the members and any difficulty arising from large corporations such as the Bay State Street Railway Co., the Lowell Electric Light Corp. and others was left to the board to handle.

Unfettered results were accomplished the contrary; but for some reason other the activity that was so conspicuous and at the meetings suddenly stopped with the result that gradually attendance diminished and finally meetings were abandoned altogether.

The officers of the board, or at least those who were elected in January, 1911, for a term of twelve months at a meeting in January, 1911, are as follows:

H. M. Larrabee, president; H. W. Farmer, vice-president; Arthur C. Secretary; Charles Kittredge, treasurer. Some of the interested citizens feel that the board will wait some day and resume its activity.

Local Town Meeting

In accordance with a vote taken at an annual town meeting of Tewksbury a special town meeting will be held Friday evening at the town hall in Centre and it is expected that the affair will be very interesting. The meeting will be called to order at 7.45 o'clock by the town clerk and immediately the warrant that has been prepared for the occasion will be taken up.

The warrant consists of five articles and undoubtedly some of the articles will be the cause of much discussion. Article one calls for the election of a moderator and it is fair to assume that the responsibility of presiding over the gathering will devolve upon Melvin Rogers, the attorney, who has served as the emcee of presiding officer at several town meetings.

Article two is to hear the report of the committee on water supply for the town and to see if the town will vote to take any further action. This committee was appointed at the last town meeting to look into the possibility of installing a water system in the Centre for both fire protection and domestic use.

Article three is to see if the town will vote to appoint a committee to have the town hall repaired and improved and also to appropriate a sum necessary to pay for same.

Article four is to see if the town will appoint a committee to investigate and report on the necessity for either an addition to the Foster school or a new school building. Many of the citizens are of the opinion that the proper course to follow will be an addition to the Foster school. There is plenty of available land in that vicinity and it is believed that the advantages would be greater with an addition, and also that the expense upon the town would be by far less than the erection of a new building. Be that as it may, however, the settlement will have to be made to accommodate the school children, for at the present time there is an overflow in the Foster school and also in the library building, where classes have been held for the past three years.

Article 5 is to hear the report of the selection on fire protection. In reference to this article it may be said that the townmen have a good reason to make not only recently several fire apparatus were purchased and a fire department was also organized.

Another important question that may come before the meeting, although there is no mention of it in the warrant, is that of the controversy between the town and the Bay State Street Railway Co. over the extension of the Andover street car line to North Tewksbury. At the last town meeting it was voted to request the selection to take action against the company for the recovery on two bonds to the amount of $5000 each in the event of the company not extending the proposed routes by June 1. On the latter date the selection were about to instruct the town attorney to bring suit against the railroad company, but until the town meeting and thereby give the citizens another opportunity to be heard on this important subject, if no other action is taken.

At Monday night's meeting legal proceedings will be taken at once against the company.

Fine Exhibition

Pickering Hall in the Foster school in the Centre was yesterday afternoon and evening the scene of a large gathering, the occasion being a free exhibition of the work done by pupils of the school in sewing and other manual training courses. The large hall was filled with specimens of work of all description and the many visitors had nothing but words of praise for the fine showing. The exhibition hall was opened from 3 to 5 and from 7 to 9 and many took occasion to visit the exhibit and congratulate the boys and girls as well as the faculty for the fine success achieved during the year.

Lawn Party

The members of the Tewksbury Grange have organized a Japanese party and fair and the event will be held on the beautiful lawn surrounding the residence of F. A. Holmes in West Tewksbury. No work or time has been spared by the organizers to make the affair one of the most successful in the history of this popular organization, and it is believed, if the weather is favorable, that their efforts will be crowned with success.

Personals

The engagement of Capt. Harold P. Perry and Miss Josephine Millett is announced, the ceremony to be performed on June 10.

Mr. Alden Holmes and family have returned from a pleasant auto trip to the White mountains.

Mr. John Moore and wife of North Tewksbury are spending the week at home with Mr. A. S. Moore, a brother of Mr. Moore and a former storekeeper in the Centre, and now residing in Hanover, N. H. The trip to the New Hampshire coast was made in a carriage.

John Small of the Centre and Dr. Guilford of Lowell have organized a fishing party to the great lake stream in the state of Maine, and the party of fishermen will leave on Monday. It will include Mr. Small, Dr. Guilford, Louis Small and Walter E. Holden of Boston. Mr. Charles Small and family of Hanover, N. H. will soon remove to the Centre village.

COLORADO MINE STRIKE

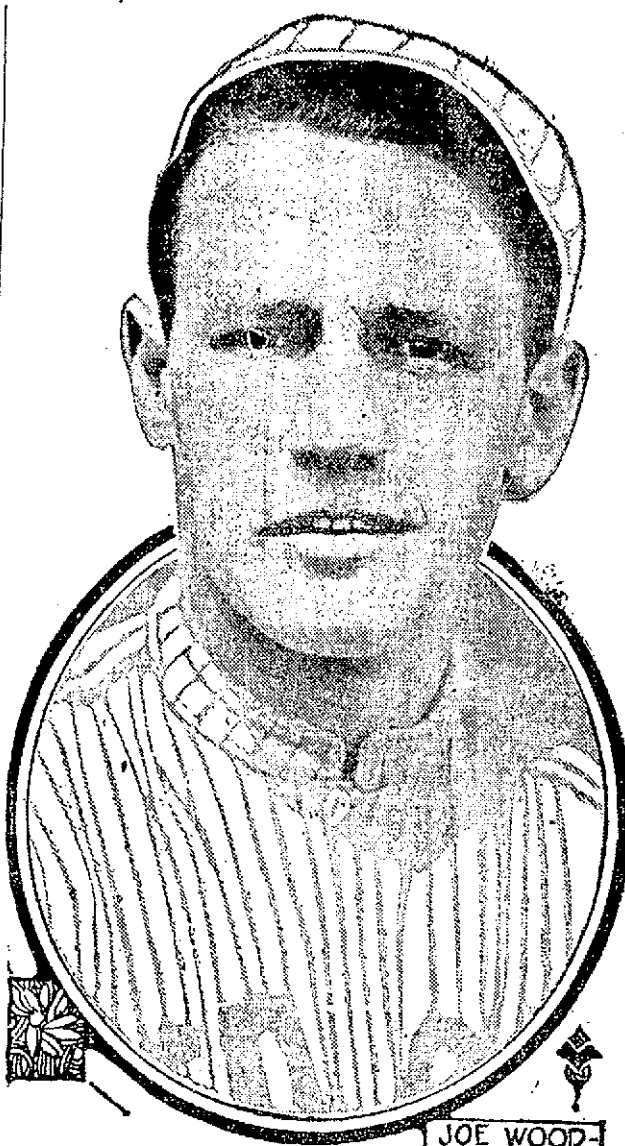

SOCIALIST LEADER RECRUITING MEN TO PROTEST AGAINST ROCKEFELLER

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 5.—While Alexander Berkman, the socialist leader, was in Brooklyn and New York in search of recruits for an army which he declares will invade Tarrytown tomorrow to hold a demonstration in protest against the policy pursued by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., with regard to the Colorado mine strike, Sheriff Doyle of Westchester county was today marshaling a force capable of handling a crowd of 2000 persons if possible prevent a recurrence of last Saturday's clash when 13 miners and workers of the World Nameless were arrested.

The Rev. J. E. Cates of the Methodist church, whose invitation to Berkman to debate with him the Rockefeller issue was withdrawn at a request of other ministers of the place, has announced that he has accepted Berkman's proposal to hold a debate in the near future in New York.

Constable McManus has already started to solicit cars and money for a annual outing for the children. He

SMOKY JOE WOOD TO LIFT RED SOX OUT OF THE RUT

Joe Wood, the youthful pitching phenom who has been the backbone of the Red Sox pitching staff for the past three years, is out there again bending them across as of old. Joe was operated on for appendicitis last winter and is just recovering from it.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

In Pete Condon we have an illustration of what a manager may do to a youngster just breaking into league ball. The Lowell boy worked three games in one week over in Lynn and wonder he has a sore arm now. Furthermore it is liable to be sore for some time unless Frank Lake can discover some remedy for it. Pete was driven from the box yesterday by his former teammates.

"Pete" Wacob once more qualified as a pinch hitter Wednesday when he went in to hit for Nushier in the last inning. Pete slashed the ball by O'Connell for a single. The Lowell catcher is feared by all of the old pitchers in the league when he faces them in a pinch.

Arthur Laylone, the former Lowell catcher, is at his home in Worcester for a few days suffering from a torn ligament in his left arm. He was injured in a collision with Outfielder Shaw of the Brooklyn Feds in a game between Buffalo and that team. The injury is not expected to keep him out of the game for more than a week. Laylone is playing the best baseball pitchers in his career with the outlaws.

The Lewiston papers are panning the Portland management for selling grand stands on the Memorial day which did not exist. After the stands were full, the report goes, the fans were sold tickets to the grand stand and then were forced to stand up. The local management has not been in any such predicament this season.

Eddie Miller has been shifted to the outfield for the present at least by the St. Louis Browns. Last year's second baseman of the Champs in a recent game made two hits, scored two runs and swiped a couple of sacks. In fact Miller's work was the prominent part of the Browns' game. There's not much chance of the minors seeing that boy again in a hurry.

Phinney Boyle, the local featherweight, who has made such an impression upon the boxing fans during the past winter, will meet Charles Sheppard in Manchester on June 15 in the main bout of 12 rounds. Sheppard will have his work cut out for him if he holds Phinney to an even break.

Jim Jeffries is still keeping in touch with the boxing game. He is training Johnny Coulon, the Chicago bantamweight champion of the world, for his coming battle with Kid Williams of Baltimore. Coulon was with Jeffries all the time that the latter was getting in shape for his up-coming fight with Jack Johnson and the ex-heavyweight champion evidently thinks that turn about is only fair play.

The local high school team and that of Lawrence High will clash in their big game of the year next Thursday at Lawrence. A line on the teams show that neither has shown much knowledge of baseball this year. Lowell has won something like three games out of ten played and Lawrence has lost five and won but two. These facts, however, will not deprive the game of the interest which always is taken in a Lowell high-Lawrence high contest of any description.

Lowell has but two games at home this week. Lewiston today and tomorrow. Next week the local fans will have no better luck. Lynn plays here on Tuesday and Haverhill comes here on Thursday. On Saturday last year's

Will you kindly state the nationality of Walter Johnson, the Washington pitcher, as well as his age and height?—A Fan.

Walter Johnson was born in Humboldt, Kansas in 1888. In spite of his nickname, "The Big Swede," he is of Scotch-Irish extraction. Johnson stands 6 feet 1 inch in height and weighs 195 pounds. This is his seventh season in the big leagues.

There will be some fun down Haverhill way if Billy "it" McMahon and Dan Ciochey get together in a clinch. It is to be hoped that Daniel realizes his limitations with the local player for if he tries any of his funny business with Billy there'll be fireworks galore, and Dan, we opine, will furnish most of the fun, for the spectators here's hoping McMahon gets a good start down below.

Jimmy Power, the crack miler of the R. A. A., has signified his intention of entering Georgetown university next fall. Power made a great reputation in his specialty while in the Antipodes with the American team of track and field athletes. He should prove a wonderful man for the Washington institution.

Manager Bill Carrigan promised the Boston fans before the Red Sox left Boston that when they returned the club would be well up in the American league race. Let's see how much of a soothsayer Bill really is.

"Zuke" Erhardt, the new infielder, obtained by Manager Gray from the Newark club, is a left handed batter. He is noted for his slugging ability and is liable to break up a game any time, it reports be true. He was picked up by Newark from the New York New Jersey league and lives in New York city.

Lewiston has gotten hold of another Red Sox castoff, "Big Chief" Garlow, who was with Bill Carrigan's team the first of the season. Has signed with the Maine club and will probably work in one of the games tomorrow. Tomorrow's double-header at Spaulding park is the result of a postponed game the last trip of the Lewiston club to this city.

The rumor that "Bill" Burke would be deposed as field captain of the Lowell team is without foundation as a glance at the personnel of the team, should readily show. Burke easily knows more inside baseball than any other member of the club and his place could not well be filled by any other member.

The scribes around the circuit are certainly giving Secretary Cooper a good old punning time these days, but can hardly blame them. He has been a failure as a league official from the start. But Cooper is not so much to blame for existing conditions as is Tim Burnane. Burnane appears to have no interest in New England baseball aside from the salary attached to his job, and the quicker we get rid of two such officials the better off the old league will be. You can hardly expect much from the secretary when he is set such an example by the president.

Scott pitched another wonderful game for the White Sox yesterday and only for Joe Jackson's stubborn, but would have scored a no-hit game. Jackson's single was the only blow recorded in Chicago's 2-0 defeat of the Naps.

The Bunting club can not be blamed for their protests at the car service, or rather lack of it, at their games last Saturday. The street cars were held on sabbings, whenever one was

CHICAGO, June 5.—Harry Lord, who May 12 jumped the White Sox, says he was through with baseball, in fact in Chicago, but not to rejoin Cuban's team. He learned from the press yesterday that his name was on the list. The purpose of his visit, as he explained it, is to get his conditional release from Comiskey's hands. He has an opportunity to land with a club near his home, but what disposition will be made of the case by Comiskey is not known. Lord's success depends on obtaining work, and the club show 12 years of service organized ball, in which event he is tied to an unconditional release.

ON THE SAND LOTS

The Kimball System team is still on the hunt for ball games. Their contest last Saturday with Duffy's Pats ended in rather a mixup both sides claiming the victory. In order to settle the question of which team really won out why don't you go to it again?

What do you say to giving us a game? The Brookside is a swell team. They can hit to beat the band. If you want to find out just send some pitcher up against us and we'll show you pretty quick. We want games with any 12-13 year old teams in the city. You can send an answer through "Sand Lots."

The Shamrocks will play the Buckhorn A. C. tomorrow afternoon on the Fair grounds. Both teams have recently been strengthened and the contest should be a fast amateur performance.

The St. Columba Holy Name team will meet the Mt. Groves at the Woodward avenue grounds Saturday afternoon in another good amateur game. The manager of the St. Columba would like to hear from the following teams relative to arranging games: St. Johns of North Chelmsford, Tyngsboro, C. M. A. C. Lawrence Mfg. Co. or Adams. Send all communications through this column or telephone 1254-R.

The Eustis A. C. wants some ball games and they want them right away. They don't any use in stalling on either. If you're afraid to play us fellows say so in the paper and if you ain't you will after we beat you. The Mohawks and Rockdale Avenue Pats in all hot air, so don't write anything about 'em. They won't play us and we been after a game with 'em. What do you know about guys like that?

The Horsford Juniors ain't afraid of any team after the awful trouncing they gave the Lawrence Juniors. We beat those boys 37-12. Their pitcher is pretty good for he didn't give us any runs after the third inning. The Horsford Juniors is the greatest 13 year old team in the city.

Owing to a cancellation in our schedule the Diamond Spring Baseball club of Lawrence would like to arrange for a contest with any fast semi-pro team in Lowell for Saturday, June 6. Kindly send all communications to Charles Hausher, 305 High Street, Lawrence.

The Warren A. C.'s are great. They liked the Colonial A. C.'s 15-13 in a great game. They didn't have a chance with us fellows only when we let 'em on purpose. Here's our lineup: O. Mann, J. J. Kellier, P. T. Coxon, 1b; H. Mann, 2b; M. Sousa, 3b; Maguire, 3b; Cadden, 1b; G. Gentile, cf; J. Kellier, rf.

The Shamrock seconds will play the Buckhorn next Saturday on the latter's grounds. All players will please report for practice tonight at 6:15 o'clock. Our team is composed of the following players: Ellis, Hart, Mullick, Neary, Honford, Brown, McGowan, Lacy, Mulvey, Nugent, Burns, Gill. Send all challenges through this column.

The Young Glenmores will lineup against St. Peter's Altar boys on the south common next Saturday and they had better look out for us. Our battery is Kelley and Corcoran and they are a great battery. The other fellows won't get many swipes off Kelley. You wait and see. Corcoran is a fine catcher.

The manager of the Y. M. C. L. wishes to deny that his team is dead. A few fast players have been added to the lineup and the team is open for dates from the best of the amateur teams. They will play the Shamrocks Saturday on the South common. The manager can be reached by telephone at 1252-M or 1257-W.

The J. P. S. team will play the Poles on the North common Saturday and the followers of each team are looking for a fast game. The game will start promptly at 2 o'clock.

The West Fourth Street Stars would like to play any 12-14 year old teams in the city. Any two old you this before and didn't hear from them it is about time some of you guys come to life and said something. Here you are hollerin' for a game and you're just blinin'. If you want to play a good game of ball just say so through this column and we'll be right on the job. We ain't afraid of any ball team in the business.

The Lions of Stanley st. are kind of a new team but they are good just the same. We don't have to take no back talk from any 14 year old guys and we'll show 'em all. All we want is a chance and we'll be the "Champeons." We have got a pitcher who can throw most any kind of a ball and he can throw hard. Don't ask any of the fellows what he has hit in the head and they'll tell you. What do you think of this for a lineup: C. Duffy, cf; S. Livingston, 2b; L. Cudworth, 1b; Auburn, 1b; C. Wilson, 1b; H. Murray, 1b; C. Brady, 1b; F. Costello, cf; S. McCabe, 1b. Send challenges through "Sand Lots."

I'm a pitcher and I got some good curves and I want a job with some 12-year-old team what is good. I am 13, but I can pitch for older teams because I'm good enough almost for a league. That's what the cop told me "curves" Kelley because I can get 'em so good. I ain't going to wait very long for a job because somebody will give me one pretty quick so you'd better hurry up. This ain't no kid either. All you got to do is give notice in the paper and I'll show up. I got a glove.

The Bleachers will play the Centipeds of Lawrence at Riverside park, Lawrence, tomorrow afternoon. This will be the deciding contest as each team has won a game. Riley and Freeman will work for the Bleachers. Players will take the 110 car for Lawrence.

able by the judges pending a statement from the umpire.

In the other case the Washington school wanted the decision of the 13 inning game played last Saturday between them and the Lincoln team to be reversed. A blocked ball in left field which was not returned to the pitcher before being relayed home in time to shut off the runner disturbed calculations in this contest. The judges decided in this case that the game should be played over and so ordered.

BEACH CLAIM IS FILED

J. W. PLUNKETT OF NEWBURYPORT MAY OUST SALISBURY BEACH ASSOCIATES

AMSBURY, June 5.—J. W. Plunkett, Civil War veteran and a resident of the Ferry district, has filed suit in Washington with Congressman A. P. Gardner, a claim for 10 acres of land at Black Rocks, Salisbury beach.

Mr. Plunkett has raised the point that in 1812 the government took 160 acres extending from Black Rocks creek to the ocean, and this has never been released. The section of beach was taken for a fort to protect the mouth of the Merrimack river.

He says that the Salisbury Beach associates, against whom the cottage owners want legislation, have no right and title in the Black Rocks section adjoining the Merrimack river, where many people have settled without protest for years until lately.

LOWELL HIGH BEATEN 6 TO 1 BY THEIR OWN ERRORS ON DANVERS DIAMOND

Lowell high suffered another defeat yesterday afternoon when they traveled to Danvers and lined up against the St. John's Prep aggregation of ball players. The local did not have a chance to win after the third inning and went down by a 6 to 1 score.

Wilson was once more in the box for Lowell high and his work as usual was very good. Eight errors behind him tells the story. The local school boys got but four hits off Costello, the home twirler.

Sullivan and Cody did the heavy stick work for St. John's, each of these connecting for a double and a single. The rain had a great deal to do with the poor hitting. Danvers contributed the game's feature by making a double play unassisted.

Judge Leet fixed the hearing for June 10, little evidence being given. Mr. Kent was in court and answered to his name as a witness. He swore that he had made the complaint and that he had lost $1000.

BIG LEAGUERS AT GAME

Heinie Wagner of Boston Red Sox and Arthur Irwin, Scout for New York Americans, at Spalding Park—Manager Gray Wires Leo Dowd to Report—Small Attendance on Hand

Rested up by their layoff yesterday, Lewiston beat Jimmy Ring by count of the Lowell team locked horns this afternoon at Spalding Park in the first of a three game series, a double-header being on the calendar for the deflection of the local fans tomorrow.

The three games with Lewiston here may take last year's champions out of the cellar. Three would put them above Lewiston and if Pittsburgh should break even today and tomorrow, Lowell with three victories, would leap into sixth position in the race.

Lewiston is the only "managerless" club in the league. Since the release of "Red" McMahon as player-manager, Owner Joe Burns has not located anybody for the berth. Judge, the first business obtained from Bill Carle's Red Sox scout, is making down the job temporarily. "The first big boss-man will give the orders today, Judge, however, is only a youngster and is totally ignorant of the finer inside workings of a baseball machine.

With a double header in sight tomorrow, Gray's men went into the game of battle with a vengeance. They are still thinking of that game Wednesday in the Maine city when

LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL GRADUATING EXERCISES

THE LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL

Held at Southwick Hall Today—Opening Address by Principal Eames—Mayor Murphy and Senator Ward Delivered Addresses—List of Graduates—Several Departments Were Inspected by the Public

A large crowd of Lowell citizens interested in the textile industry in general and the Lowell Textile school in particular gathered this afternoon in the assembly hall of the school to be present at the commencement exercises which bring the official year to a close. The graduating class was the 16th to receive diplomas, and the second to receive degrees. Among those present were many men notable in local political and business circles, any many relatives and friends of the young men whose efforts were crowned with honored recognition. Besides the addresses of Principal Eames and Mayor Murphy, the main address of the occasion was made by Hon. Charles E. Ward, state senator of Massachusetts.

Less than one-half of Southworth hall was fairly well filled with the parents and other relatives and friends of the graduates when the exercises opened shortly before 3 o'clock. Seated on the platform were the mayor and other members of the municipal council, Principal Charles H. Eames, Clark James B. Smith, Hon. Charles E. Ward and Mr. A. G. Pollock.

The first address was made by Principal Charles H. Eames, who spoke as follows:

It hardly seems necessary to extend you any formal word of welcome for it is richly assumed that all who come here this afternoon do so because of a common interest—the Lowell Textile school. It is hoped that you may be impelled by this common interest to attend all graduation exercises for other school events open to the general public.

Today we observe the commencement of the 16th class to receive diplomas from this school and the second class to receive degrees. Twelve of these classes have finished their work in this building; the others and earlier classes from the school when located in the Parker block in the center of the city. At all of these occasions, as well as those held at the close of the evening classes, the president of the trustees, Mr. A. G. Cummins, has deemed it his duty, as well as his privilege and pleasure, to preside. The graduation exercises of this school do not seem complete without him. However, I think when considering his years of faithful service in the upbuilding of this school we will excuse him, and have with a June home in New York, that her wedding day would not be complete without the presence of her grandfather. Were it possible we know he would be in both places at the same time.

On times like this and in the absence of a man like the president of the board of trustees of this school, we cannot help reflecting upon work that he and the men associated with him have done in establishing this institution. To name one who has had a hand in this enterprise is to name every gentleman on the board of trustees. Each has done a part and these parts have been amalgamated to build the buildings, obtain the equipment and raise the finances necessary to maintain the school from year to year. They have interested others in the value of their work and have encouraged their aid. This building, the com-

"Good night," said the dummy, as he made his escape. There was great rubbing from the bleachers and considerable polite strappings of the necks in the grandstand when it was whispered about that the handsome-looking guy with Jack Donnelly was Heinie Wagner of the Boston club. It was Heinie all right looking at it. Before the game which was falling torments just then, Jack regarded Heinie with tales of the old days at Riverside park when he used to sell lemonade and cigars.

"Whenever they got into a tight place, they used to send over to me and I always had a uniform in the tenmanned stand and I'd jump into it and do the pinch-hitting," said Jack. "How long ago did you say that was?" asked Heinie.

"About 25 years ago," replied Jack. "Gee, I didn't think you were as old as that," said Heinie.

Just then George Donnelly in the distance broke loose with a new bunch of soft talk and Heinie turning to Jack said, "Who's that kid? He's some tooter."

"He's my son," answered Jack. "Stop your kidding," said Heinie. "Let's watch the game."

Another celebrity who attracted a great deal of attention was Arthur Irwin, business manager and scout of the New York Americans. Arthur is an old South Boston boy, and a brother to John Irwin, the former New England league manager. The fans didn't have to make more than a hundred guesses to find out how many of the Lowell team were worthy of the attention of a scout and it was noticed that Arthur kept his lamps riveted along the third base foul line, one resting on third base and the other extending out into left field.

Speaking of celebrities, "Pig's Feet" Joe Burns, of Taunton and Lewiston was present and he divided the honors

Lewis Ledyard Continues His Testimony—Says That Neither Morgan Nor Mellen Dominated Board—Often Opposed Morgan, He Says

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Lewis Cass Ledyard continuing his testimony today on the New Haven affairs denied that the New Haven directors were dummies or that the late J. P. Morgan or former President Mellen dominated the board. He said he often had opposed Mr. Morgan, that the board meetings were well attended and that generally all the directors took part in the proceedings.

The profit of John L. Billard in the Boston & Maine transaction, Mr. Ledyard said, he had considered outrageous and he had so told Mr. Mellen. Under questioning by Chief Counsel Folk for the commission Mr. Ledyard refused to testify that one of the entries in the New Haven minutes relating to a Billard company transaction was false but said it did not represent what had occurred at the meeting. Mr. Ledyard's testimony was continued by a lively clash with Mr. Folk in which the witness insisted on answering questions in his own way and appealed to Commissioner Daniels to sustain him.

Maloney, Lewiston's lead-off man and one of the fastest base runners in the league after taking two bases, smashed a hot one at Burke. It was a sizzling grounder and he got fast on it. O'Connell sacrificed him to second with a bunt in front of the plate, which Greenhalge fielded to first. The best Judge could do was a fly to Nasher, but Burke was in front of the plate and pulled it down. It was like stealing a genuine two-bagger from the batter, for it was going a mile per minute. No runs for Lowell.

Maloney made a fine wealthy start with a beautiful triple to right center, some dummy at the bat. What? DeGraft fouled twice and then lifted a nice sacrifice fly to left to Maloney but Maloney showed some class with a great throw but a good slide saved a shorty. Burke popped a fly to Yelle.

Stimpson was there with a single to left center but was easily out at second when he attempted to steal, Casey making a superb throw. One run.

On times like this and in the absence of a man like the president of the board of trustees of this school, we cannot help reflecting upon work that he and the men associated with him have done in establishing this institution. To name one who has had a hand in this enterprise is to name every gentleman on the board of trustees. Each has done a part and these parts have been amalgamated to build the buildings, obtain the equipment and raise the finances necessary to maintain the school from year to year. They have interested others in the value of their work and have encouraged their aid. This building, the com-

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Since the publication in this column, one week ago, of the story of The Sun's libel suit with General Butler as counsel for Mr. Harrington, I have received several requests for other stories of the general. On this occasion I shall reprint an editorial that appeared in The Sun of 25 years ago as follows:

"The generous side of General Butler's character was never more fully exposed than it was the other day when the New York police discovered in the pocket of a man arrested for vagrancy a note from the general stating that he had sent the vagrant $15 without knowing anything about him, and would expect the fellow to show that he was worthy of his help by trying to help himself in the future. Men who are as busy as General Butler, and who are as charitable, are not in the habit of writing letters of advice to vagrants."

So It is Today

In its baseball column of quarter of a century ago The Sun said:

"Lowell needs a general on the team—Lowell Times. General Delbert seems to have full control of the team."

And that's just what Lowell needs at this late day—a general on the team, an old head who can direct the promising but green players. Take a tip from days gone by, Lowell, and haul out an experienced head to guide the champs.

In the same column was the following:

"Mr. Charles H. Cosgrove, cousin of Frank DeWade, just out from Lowell, Mass., is a ball player of a high order. He rather astonishes the boys with his curves and catches."—Waseca (Minn.) Herald.

By Mr. Charlie Cosgrove and his brother, John, both now removed from the city, were first class ball players in their summer days, and they also were exceedingly handy with the putted mallets, as many a rising young boxer has learned to his sorrow. All of the budding white hopes of some few young men were often a try-out in Cosgrove's line, of Northmark street, and there who not by were fit to do battle with most anyone of their weight.

Had a Coffin Fit

The Sun of a quarter of a century ago had the following:

"Joseph Welch, an ex-constable, is now a grocer at the corner of Chalmers and Pine streets. Sunday morning a coffin was discovered on the doorsteps of his store. The coffin bore an inscription which told the open-minded business that the remains of Welch would be found in the sewer beneath the early Monday morning. Welch was as mad as a hatter and he refused to put the coffin-maker in jail if he would only come forward and claim his property. There are some strange rumors that some of Welch's neighbors are sure on him. A short time ago Welch created the world's Joseph Welch from the sign over the door and had 'A. Kimball' painted in as a substitute, although it had not been shown that there had been any change in the ownership."

It is evident the editor had formed his own opinion as to why Joseph shifted names, but the change now would indicate that Welch was looking into the future, and crying in the wilderness of ward eight he prepared the way for the coming of the Kimball system, which is one of the signs of the present times. It is also evident that the joker who placed the coffin had been reading the daily papers which at that time were filled with the mystery surrounding the murder of Dr. Cronin, the Chicago Irish leader, whose body was found in a catchbasin. But nothing as terrible happened to Mr. Welch-Kimball, for outside of a severe jolt to his feelings he sustained no serious injuries from the jokers.

The Willow Dale Road

The Sun of just quarter of a century ago was just enthusiastic over the progress being made on the railroad tracks which would connect Lowell with open Willow Dale and Long Pond to the common people. In a later article I shall describe the grand opening of the popular summer resorts. At the present time I shall simply reprint The Sun's editorial of 25 years ago, as follows:

"Willow Dale and Long Pond, with their wealth of scenery and invigorating breezes, are coming nearer to the common people. Our enterprising railroad men are rushing the tracks for the electric railway and it is very probable that hundreds who have seen the Dale only in dreams will be able to do a part of their Fourth of July celebrating on the banks of the lake at Willow Dale. The railway men have ordered 10 cars for the new branch and say they will be able to accommodate 1000 people every hour. It will take about 20 minutes to make the outward trip, including stops at Collinsville and Long Pond. It is a great enterprise, this Willow Dale road, and the common people will derive the greatest benefit."

Then it was a great enterprise and the common people coughed up a quarter for the round trip without a murmur. Today the round trip is down to a dime, 1000 people can be accommodated in 10 minutes or less, and none sees anything great about it.

Great Day of Sports

At the games of the U. S. Banting Cricket club, at South Lowell, on Memorial day, one frequently heard the enthusiastic expression: "This looks like the old days when track and field athletes drew great crowds" and the hope was frequently expressed that the Bantings would follow up the event with others of a similar nature.

The old Sun informs us that just 25 years ago the boys of St. Patrick's school on the occasion of their field and athletic events at the Riverside park drew a crowd of 5000. Look over the names and see who were some of the promising athletes of a quarter of a century ago. The old Sun in its story of the event first describes the parade of the St. Patrick's Cadets, the ball players and the athletes, and then proceeds to the account of the sports as follows: "The sports opened shortly after 2 o'clock. Brother Amelia and the other brothers were everywhere looking after the little boys. Michael J. Dowd was master of ceremonies, James J. Courtney starter, and the following gentlemen were judges: Messrs. Joseph Dunn, Michael Donohue, Michael Ward, John J. Loneragan, John Conboy, Thomas Kane and Martin J. Courtney. There were 15 events, including a game of ball. The following pupils were entered in the sports, not including the ball game: James O'Connor, James Halloran, J. McCuskey, W. Finnich, E. DeLoach, R. McCuskey, J. Meehan, J. Brogan, J. Dunne, E. Saunders, T. Johnson, E. Looney, W. Tighe, J. Collins, J. Mitchell, T. Pendergast, R. Tignor, E. Mullin, J. Foster, J. Lyons, J. O'Brien, J. Biber, J. Connelley, M. Connelley, J. Mahoney, C. Mitchell and Smith Adams.

All the sports were well contested and the winners had to work their best points to win. The running high jump was one of the best features of the day, the height being 4 feet 2 inches. The following list tells the winners:

Hundred yard dash, Frank Looney, 1st; J. McCuskey, 2nd; Richard McCuskey, 3rd.

Putting 20 pound weight, Joseph Brogan, 1st; James McCuskey, 2nd; Smith Adams, 3rd.

High jump and jump, W. Tighe, 1st; Frank Looney, 2nd; Halloran, 3rd.

Obstacle race, J. Halloran, 1st; F. Looney, 2nd; J. Brogan, 3rd.

Wheelbarrow race, F. Looney, 1st; J. Halloran, 2nd; J. McCuskey, 3rd.

Boys' race, John Ford, 1st; Edward Baker, 2nd.

Points, Looney, 60; J. Halloran, 20; J. Brogan, 15; J. McCuskey, 13; W. Tighe, 12; R. McCuskey, 6; J. O'Connor, 5; T. Pendergast, 3; Smith Adams, 2; J. Meehan, 1.

The ball game was between the famous old Columbians and the St. Mary's of Lawrence and was won by the St. Mary's by a score of 5 to 1.

The lineup of the teams was as follows:

Columbians: Donohoe, 2nd; Flynn, 3rd; W. Bourke, 1st; DeLoach, 4th; Mack, 5th; Connelley, 6th; Barrahan, 7th; J. Bourke, 8th; Shen, 9th.

St. Mary's: Riley, 1st; Carter, 2nd; O'Connell, 3rd; White, 4th; Bailey, 5th; McDonald, 6th; Ford, 7th; Bateman, 8th; Sullivan, 9th.

How They Ran Afterward

Those boy athletes of quarter of a century ago proved to be the making of some fine athletes, in different fields in later years. Frank Looney and Billy Tighe stuck to the athletic game and Looney was subsequently crowned the amateur champion athlete of the state while Billy Tighe could make the best of them all. John Meehan, Smith Adams and Jack McManey proved themselves to be good runners in the political games of more recent years and McManey, like McManey, is running yet. Dick McCuskey afterward was a Holy Cross track athlete, but now he is content to run an auto. Jim Dunne runs down from Pawtucketville every morning in order to get into city hall before Mayor Murphy.

Joe Brogan showed up afterward out down to St. Mary's college, in Maryland and entered the annual barbecue games at the college. He didn't land anything but the honors came to Lowell nevertheless for the late Frank Sullivan of Surook street, a brother of Martin Sullivan, the once famous ball player, was the all-round champion of St. St. Mary's in those days. A year later John Dyer, of this city, who lived on Dunham street showed his heels to a big field of starters at the Mountain in the one hundred yards dash, while the late John Teague, of this city, son of the late Patrick Teague was another of St. Mary's athletes. Some years later the late Dannie Murphy, son of J. J. Murphy held up Lowell's reputation for athletes at the same college.

The late James McCuskey was a brother of Dr. Richard McCuskey, and was a most promising athlete, and

Frank Looney, the former athlete who won the day on the occasion mentioned above has the distinction of having participated in an event in which a world's record was recorded, at Lowell and there were few elsewhere who could beat him. Some of Wefers' friends on this day made the statement seconds flat and establishing a world's record for 100 yards. The event was held under the sanction of the A. A. U.

Wefers had shortly before established up the proposition without consulting Frank knowing his gameness. Looney was willing to take the chance, but short distance runners. A track and field event was held at the Fair grounds under the auspices of either St. Patrick's church or the Burke Temperance Institute, and Wefers was present as the star attraction. At that time Frank of 100, while he would go 110 instead of 100, Looney took him up again and lost the race by a very close margin. Some of Wefers' friends on this day made the statement seconds flat and establishing a world's record for 100 yards. The event was held under the sanction of the A. A. U.

Charles Knapp Made a Speech Quarter of a century ago, Mr. Chas. Knapp made a speech.

An Absolute Fact

I don't know how to express myself properly, to tell the people of Lowell how I feel over their magnificent vote of confidence on Friday of last week and Monday and Tuesday of this week.

The end of the month with rent bills due, with a double holiday, Saturday and Sunday, with the mills shut down from Friday night to Monday morning, with a broken week and a broken pay envelope, you flocked into my store last Friday and again Monday from all Lowell.

I knew I had the magnet in the form of phenomenal bargains—but what's that, a concern can have all the bargains in the land but if the people don't believe it, they won't come in to see the bargains. I never worry about selling a man, if he calls to investigate. I have the goods at the price, all the time to sell the average person—but when I take the notion to break prices, why I can sell the tightest pocketbook that the high cost of living ever produced.

Many of you need custom clothing—money must be an object with you if quality is convincingly present. You saw me advertise this special shipment of Worsteds in last week's Sun for $15.00, Suit to order. You see me advertising it today for $12.50 Suit to Order.

You broke all expectations last Friday and Monday, the way you came in and then bought. Break all records again this week. You deserve the bargains, the merchandise at the price deserves your trade and I deserve your business for daring to mark such quality within the reach of all.

DWELLING OF MRS. SPRAGUE ON CHAPEL STREET SCENE OF LUCKY BLAZE

Fire which threatened to destroy the two-story house at 71-73 Chapel street broke out in the rear part of the building shortly before 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon as reported in our late edition and before the blaze had been placed under control the dwelling and contents had been damaged to the extent of $500. Part of the building which is owned by Mrs. Eliza P. Sprague, was badly gutted and the loss is estimated at over $500, while considerable damage was done to Mrs. Sprague's furniture and that of Stephen Laughton, the other occupant of the house.

The origin of the fire is not known, although it is believed that it started from a gas stove which was used at noon. Shortly after 4 o'clock neighbors heard a sort of an explosion in the rear of the Laughton tenement and a few seconds later smoke was seen pouring from the doors and windows of the house. In a few minutes the Laughton kitchen was ablaze, the flames bursting forth from all the windows and it appeared hopeless to save the property. However, an alarm was rung in from box 225, at the corner of Central and Mill streets, and in a remarkably short time the fire apparatus was on the scene with District Chief Sullivan in charge, and faced a difficult task.

The fire made rapid headway for in the very short time after the alarm was sounded the flames had worked through the partitions into the second floor and threatened to enter a blind alley, but their progress was soon checked upon the arrival of the firemen and the damage was confined to two rooms in the rear of the Laughton tenement, although volumes of smoke had poured through other parts of the house and destroyed furniture.

No one was in the house at the time the fire started, but one of the occupants was home at noon and used the gas stove which was in the part of the house where the fire originated. The Laughton family returned from work shortly after 6 o'clock and stated that their furniture was not injured. Mrs. Sprague carried insurance through Fred C. Church.

40 YEARS A PRIEST

REV. JAMES N. SUPPLE, CHARLES TOWN PASTOR, PRESENTED $500 IN HONOR OF OCCASION

BOSTON, June 5.—Rev. James N. Supple, pastor of St. Francis de Sales church, Charlestown, was last night presented a check for $500 at the celebration held at the armory on Junior 11th street in honor of the 40th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

At the gathering, as did District Attorney Pelletier and ex-Mayor Fitzgerald. A poem was read by Dr. John T. Gallagher and the presentation of the check was made by Luke D. Sullivan.

Father Supple in responding to the gift said that he could scarcely find words to express his thanks to his people, all of whom were near and dear to him.

Father Supple has been in Charlestown for 25 years, succeeding his brother, the late Rev. Michael J. Supple. He was ordained May 30, 1874, and was first assigned to South Boston, then to St. Stephen's, North End, from there he went to Charlestown.

HOW TO CARE FOR LAWN

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—Lawn should be cut "long" so that the roots will be protected after the cutting. This means, says the department of agriculture's landscape gardener, that the lawn mower should be set just as high as it will go.

range from one million to nearly two million gallons annually.

The high food value of olive oil is a subject to which attention has frequently been directed in consular reports and in bulletins of the department of agriculture, and the cultivation of the olive in California has already assumed important proportions. The domestic production of olive oil has not, however, been sufficient to meet the demand in this country, and a large proportion of the consumption is supplied by the imported article.

Italy is the chief source of supply, imports from that country ranging from two million gallons in 1902 to three and one-half millions in 1913. Of French olive oil the imports have averaged slightly under one million gallons, compared with 550,000 gallons from Spain, 227,000 from Greece, and 125,000 from about 16 other countries, including Turkey, England, Scotland, Canada, Cuba, Austria-Hungary, Germany, The Netherlands, Portugal and Tripoli.

HOG CHOLERA CURES

GOVERNMENT HAS NOT APPROVED ANY TREATMENT EXCEPT THE PROTECTIVE SERUM

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Evidence of what appears to be a well organized campaign to delude farmers throughout the country into buying an alleged cure for hog cholera, under the impression that this has been investigated and approved by the United States government, has reached the department of agriculture. Banned by name, are being sent out widespread to newspapers. These articles are so worded that it appears as if the department of agriculture had received reports from the state of Minnesota showing that the medicine had proved most beneficial. As a matter of fact the one report received by the department was an official and unqualified statement sent presumably from the promoters themselves. The department attaches no importance whatsoever to this statement. It has no reason to believe in the efficiency of any proprietary cure for hog cholera and does not recommend any. Under certain conditions it urges farmers to protect their stock with anti-hog cholera serum, but that is all.

In connection with this attempt it may be said that the medicine, which is now put forward as good for hogs, was advertised some time ago as a means of killing tuberculosis, typhoid and cancer germs, according to an article published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. At that time it was asserted that the army was interested in it. As a matter of fact the army was no more interested than the department of agriculture is now.

INVESTIGATE DISASTER FISH REFUSE TO BITE

LORD MERSEY OF TONTTETH TO AID IN INQUIRY OF EMPRESS OF IRELAND LOSS

LONDON, June 5.—At the invitation of the Canadian government the British board of trade appointed Lord Mersey of Tontteth a member of the court of inquiry into the disaster which caused the loss of the steamship Empress of Ireland and more than 1000 lives. Lord Mersey was president of the British commission which investigated the Titanic tragedy. He will sail for Canada in a few days.

50,000 FISH IN CHARLES RIVER BASIN GONE ON HUNGER STRIKE

BOSTON, June 5.—Fifty thousand fish, supposed to be inhabiting the waters of the Charles river basin, have evidently gone on a hunger strike. Several hundred patient Bostonians have learned during the last few days that the fish in the basin are refusing food as persistently and as bravely as the most ardent British suffragette, and not to be outdone by more fish, the anglers are threatening to go on a "hunger strike."

The hunger strike theory is disputed, however, by many members of the metropolitan police force who are stationed at the Charles river dam. Notwithstanding the fact that the fish and game commission placed 50,000 fish in the waters of the basin, the policemen believe very few fish are there now.

THE OWL THEATRE

"The Perils of Pauline," the sixth installment, and latest released, will be shown for the first time in Lowell today and tomorrow at the Owl. "The Mutual Girl," in her weekly adventure, will meet every lover of photography. "The White Ghost," one of the play's very best efforts is to be shown in three reels, and a Keystone comedy completes the feature and of the program. The regular bookings show improvement in plots and acting, and one of the best shows of the season is to be witnessed there these two days. Jack Dalton still continues to please with his songs, and that's on another feature at the Owl. Then take into consideration the sliding-roof, the house and the comfortable in any kind of weather, also the current-current mirror screen, the finest patent ever invented to make pictures clear and distinct.

CRUCIFIX RINK

Of the many interesting races held at the Crucifix rink this season none is developing more enthusiasm among the followers of the game than the John Mahan and Al Gordon bout. Mahan will cover the distance on a bicycle while Gordon will skate the five miles. Both men will start from scratch. Mahan is the well known long-distance rider who has many wins to his credit. In a similar race held recently Mahan defeated White of Boston, recognized champion of New England. Gordon and his friends, however, feel confident that Mahan will have to race faster than he ever went before to cross the line a winner tonight. Race will be free to skaters, while those who do not wish to skate may secure reserved seats in the gallery for 10 cents.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KETTER'S THEATRE

Get the cunning of "The Master Mind" at the B. F. Ketter theatre today and tomorrow. It is interpreted by the greatest living exponent of magic—Siegfried, Edmund Dwyer, who was the original "John Burckett" in "The Lion and the Mouse." Rivero, in his conception of the man who was kidnapped by crooks when a boy and who developed into the greatest thinking, coolest, most imperturbable villain of his time, has given something which will rank with Gillette's "Sherlock Holmes" and Belasco's "Hunch."

THE KASINO

On Kasino hill, where dancing breezes blow, Lowell's dancing population never tires. There is always an invitation to pleasure. To the east one looks out upon the picturesque South country with its great trees, and its green lawns, while about the Kasino it is a veritable beauty spot. With Miller's music, is it any wonder that young and old flock to the hall to dance?

TO PREVENT CORRUPTION

Following the lead of other states, the legislative committee on election laws is considering the advisability of presenting a "corrupt practices" act to the legislature for the purpose of doing away with corruption at elections and during political campaigns. If there were any hope of putting its provisions into effect, there is no doubt that the bill would be highly effective for it is drafted and thought out and so very plain that there is no mistaking its requirements. The old law which has been submitted for repairs for many years is practically all done over, and some sweeping modifications have been made thereto. The "political committee" of the old law, for instance, is in the new law specifically made to refer to any active political combination of five or more persons at times of political elections.

Furthermore, the new bill mentions the various amounts that candidates for political office may legally expend in an effort to secure the position. Needless to say they are far less than the amount mentioned by rumor as expended at some notable recent campaigns. They are even less than some of the amounts published by state committees and political candidates with good memories. A United States senator, according to the proposed law, may spend $2500 for the primary and $5000 for the election, a governor may spend the same two amounts respectively. A congressman may spend $1500 for primary and $3000 for election, and other offices in proportion, according to their importance. "These sums," says the bill, "shall include all contributions from individuals, political committees or other sources to a candidate or person acting in his behalf and shall include every payment or promise made directly or indirectly by the candidate or any of his agents."

"The gift, payment, contribution or promise of any money or anything of value shall be deemed a corrupt practice," continues the bill, and then it goes on to give working details regarding accounts of expenditures and other means of keeping track of every influence made to secure office. It reads very well, but one familiar with the ways of political campaigning will be apt to regard it as too idealistic and very much ahead of the times. A day will dawn, it is to be hoped, when politics will not show the abuses of campaigns and elections—not all idealistic—which are only too apparent at present, but until then, it is vain to hope for any good results from such a sweeping law. By its means a Massachusetts Senator could be thrown out of his office, but this would not reform elections or campaigns. The things that the bill are aimed against are the things that bills are almost powerless to eradicate. They must be left to the more slow and more sure process of public opinion which finally shows signs of waking up to the consequences of political corruption and the high price paid for it by city, state and nation.

WHICH REPRESENTATIVE?

On Wednesday, a bill to provide for a tunnel from Boston to Chelsea with an amendment stipulating that the Bay State railroad be given a 10-year franchise came up for enactment with the result that the franchise clause was stricken out by a ruling vote, 55 to 41, in the course of the spirited debate. Rep. Noland of East Boston is reported to have said on the floor of the house, "I have just been told by a representative from Lowell that if I dared speak against the bill, my tail for 10 years in East Boston would be killed. If I must purchase instead my people in this manner I will vote against it for East Boston." If Rep. Noland really made this statement and if the facts are as representative by him, he is to be congratulated on his stand and Lowell should be very much interested in the alleged threat of one of its representatives and his motives for such an outburst in favor of a bill affecting Boston and Chelsea. The episode is another illustration of the pernicious "rotten" system which apparently dominates the chamber of commerce, despite the protests of press and public and the many vain efforts at its eradication. Such the politics and lobbying that is not actually illegal but which is the worst of the politics, and in such manner bills are forced through the legislature that would be far from good for the Massachusetts people if they could ever get through their representatives. When our legislators adopt a policy for the people, it is not for the people's policy, representative government becomes a farce and the people are the victims of the politicians.

The action of Mr. Noland against a representative from Lowell is a case which is of interest to the people of the state, and the Lowell citizens would undoubtedly like to have it cleared up. It raises several possibilities, none of which are creditable. What is in any way hunting of anything really illegal, Lowell voters may well ask who such a threat was made by one of our representatives, when the bill in no way affected the direct interests of Lowell people. Three questions remain to be answered: Did a Lowell representative make such a threat? Why did he make it? and Who is the representative?

THE NEW TARGET

Richard Le Gallienne in a recent poem of great beauty assails war, not because of its brutality but because it parades in false colors. Those who are stirred when the troops flock to the call to arms see only the waving banners and hear only the martial music in a strikingly beautiful stanza the poet hints of the real sights and sounds of war, the flowing blood under the flags and the groans of pain that drown out the music. If there must be war, he contends, let us see it in its true aspects as a terrible necessity rather than a spectacle of glory.

Anyone who has read the poem referred to must see a connection between it and the creation of a new target at the Dracut rifle range. The old target was the traditional bullseye with its concentric circles in various colors; the new one represents the head and shoulders of a man. None of the young soldiers who learn proficiency by shooting at this representation can doubt for a moment the meaning of their training. Behind the marches, the drills, the music and the exercises is the large fact that they train to shoot other men when the occasion demands. For the sake of our army it is to be hoped that they learn to hit the head of the fake man every time, but for the sake of humanity it is to be hoped that the whole world will see war in all its horrors and brutality before many years are past. The new target is a strong argument for world peace.

THE TUBERCULOSIS CAMP

The tuberculosis camp of the Lowell General hospital is one of those local institutions which is striving to make up for the absence of a contagious hospital such as the state has ordered us to build, and undoubtedly it is doing its work well and performing a great public service. Those who have the opportunity cannot do better than enter it or adopt the life prescribed on their own initiative, for the open air treatment is now universally followed by advanced physicians in tubercular diseases. It is very fortunate for the Lowell General hospital that the generosity of Mr. Ayer and other donors has made its expert maintenance possible, and it is also fortunate for those who are admitted to the community of campers. Being outside the city proper and away from a congested district, the Lowell General camp is in some features a model of what the city must eventually have on a large scale. The good of the sufferers themselves and the good of the city as a whole demands a hospital where tuberculosis and other contagious diseases may be treated scientifically. When the public good is the determining factor instead of political expediency we shall have such a hospital, but whether this will be in the near future is a matter for individual opinion.

HYGIENIC BARBER SHOPS

The means for sanitation and hygiene which seems to be a product of the age has created a demand for absolute cleanliness in all departments of daily activity, and recent action by the municipal authorities brings the barber shops of the city into the line. It is well for as in all other matters of this nature, the manager of a properly conducted establishment has more reason to court publicity than to shun it. When one considers the thousands who enter barber shops in the course of a week, and the possibilities resulting from one shop where disease germs are spread with the razor powder, municipal supervision seems very desirable. The common hygienic practice which were condemned are most undesirable, and the requirement regarding the sterilization of razors after each shave should be enforced to the letter. Occasionally one sees a specimen of humanity vacate the chair he is to occupy next that makes sterilization seem an absolute necessity. The progressive barber, like the progressive merchant, does not wait for the city to lay down the law, realizing that the public is quick to recognize special efforts at sanitation and cleanliness.

As a result of their visit to Springfield our city officials may have a great deal of information relative to auto-racing, but they will have no additional reason to show why the competition provided for in the city charter should not be carried out to the letter. Any attempt to evade that provision will at once call them under suspicion, even if their intentions be as good as the snow.

SEEN AND HEARD

It takes a sensible woman to generate silence.

And even a very tall man may not be above criticism.

A man may marry for money and a woman for matrimony.

One way to dodge a breach of promise suit is to buy a wedding ring.

Sometimes the foundation for a divorce suit is laid during the honeymoon.

The autumn more of a toper is a sort of light-house to warn others of the small volume of water passing beneath.

It is easier to hear a lot than it is to raise the money to pay for one.

As the world goes men goes with it, so he might as well make the best of it.

"ONLY A SONG"

It was only a simple ballad, sung to a careless throng; There were none who knew the singer, And few cared for the song. Yet the voice was sweet and tender As the call of a woodland bird; Strange that it woke an echo In the hearts of those that heard.

She sang of the wondrous glory That touches the world in spring. Of the strange, soul-stirring voices When "the hills break forth and sing."

Of the thousand sounds commingling To usher the dawn of day; And the hush hung over the valleys In the peace of the gloaming gray.

And one in a distant corner— A woman, warm with strife— Heard in the spring a message From the springs of her life.

Fair forms rose up before her, From the mist of vanished years; She sat overwhelmed with memories, Her eyes were veiled with tears.

Then, when the song was ended, And hushed the last sweet note, The listener went her way in silence And went her way alone.

Once more to her life of labor She passed, but her heart was strong As she prayed, "God bless the singer." And she thanked God for the song.

Explosion. A good chance to begin at once and work up.

Evil. Having a brand of cigars named after you.

History. The evil that men do.

Host. Man. The Scottish National Hymn.

Island. A place where the bottom of the sea sticks up through the water.

HEN LAYS COMPLEX EGG

John H. Cole of Anacunda, Montana, reports the prize egg of the season, laid by one of his hens. At first appearances this seemed to be only a very large egg. It measured 11 1/2 inches around from end to end and 8 inches in girth.

On breaking it Mr. Cole found an enormous large egg, just inside the shell. More curious than all, however, was that, on breaking the second egg, a third one was found inside of it. Not overcurious himself, Mr. Cole has not broken the third egg. This last egg is of ordinary size and apparently perfectly formed.

"What would have happened if you had set the egg?" "Doesn't this disprove the statement that a hen can't lay more than one egg a day?" These are some of the questions asked Mr. Cole.

NO DANGER OF COMPETITION

In L'Esprit de Francis is an instance of the sharp, biting wit for which Alexis Piron the French epigrammatist was famous.

A young author whose ability was by no means equal to his conceit was complaining at length upon the merits of his work.

"I am tired of writing of that which others write of," he said. "I want to create an original work, something that no one has ever written about or ever will write about."

Piron turned quickly to the speaker. "Why not write your own eulogy?" he said.—Youth's Companion.

PETE AIRSHIPS IN PRAYERS

Under the orders of Emperor William as the head of the Lutheran church, and with the consent of the Lutheran synod, the general prayer, which is said weekly in all Lutheran churches, now asks the protection of God for the aerial service as well as for the army and navy. The sentence, as amended, reads:

"Protect the king's army and the entire German war forces on land and sea, and particularly the ships and airships while on their journeys."

WOMAN LOSES CITIZENSHIP

Is a woman who is born a subject and citizen of the United States to be denied her vote in a state where the women citizens are granted the suffrage by reason of the fact that she has married an alien husband? Acts March 2, 1907, c. 2534, § 34 Stat. 1221, etc., (Comp. St. Supp. 1911, p. 455) covers this point, providing that any woman who marries a foreigner shall take the nationality of her husband. SICK HEADACHE

Pinklets, the New Laxative, Gives Quick Relief in Most Cases

As a rule a sufferer from sick headache can tell hours in advance when an attack is coming on.

The trouble is caused by a gradual accumulation of poison generated in the digestive organs and when a certain point is reached this poison produces nausea and the attack follows.

In very many cases the use of a proper laxative before the condition of prostration is reached will force the poison from the system and the attack will be avoided. Pinklets are a daily laxative, they sugar-coated granules that arouse no feeling of repulsion, and they act so gently that they are the ideal laxative to use in correcting a tendency to sick headache. They do not upset the digestion, do not grip and have no unpleasant effect to make them objectionable to the extra sensitive sick headache patient.

For complete information regarding the treatment of sick headache send 10c. to Dr. Wm. H. Schenck, Schenck's, N. Y., for the Pinklet book. It is free.

Your own druggist can supply you with Pinklets in 5-cent bottles.

board of election commissioners, 134 Pacific Reporter, 713, was called on to apply that provision to a similar state of facts and to defend the constitutionality of the statute. Ethel C. Mackenzie was before her marriage a citizen of the United States, having been born in California and lived as a subject of this country. She married Gordon Mackenzie, a British subject, in January, 1913, she applied to the defendants to be registered as a voter. She was refused on the ground that she had surrendered her citizenship upon her marriage. On her application to the court for a writ compelling defendants to permit registration, the question was duly presented to the court. The court held the statute conclusive, and says: "Just as an alien woman who marries a citizen herself, whether she wishes it or not, so a female citizen who marries an alien becomes herself an alien, whether she intends that result or not. She must bow to the will of the nation, as expressed by the act of congress. However, the opening sentence of the 14th amendment to the constitution of the United States declares that: 'All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and of the state in which they reside.' The statute which deprives of this guaranteed citizenship the court, in holding that it does not, says that it has never been denied that citizenship can be renounced, or that this amendment does not forbid expatriation. By the provision of this statute, it becomes possible that expatriation occurs by such marriage, and it also necessarily follows. Her right to vote was consequently deprived to have been rightfully withheld."

REPORTING PALMS
Palms should not be over potted, but a not bound condition of the roots is likely to be injurious, especially when they are needed in the matter of watering and developing the plant. In reporting palms, the plant is best in small pots. The ideal soil for palms is a good rich loam, leaf mold and a good addition of sharp sand. Good garden soil mixed with an equal quantity of one of the various advertised brands of humus and a little sand will give splendid results. After reporting see that the new soil is made firm in the pot.

QUARTER CENTURY AGO

H. Knapp, the well known banker, was making speeches and he hasn't lost the art as yet. The Sun of that time says:

"Monday evening Charles H. Knapp made a speech when he was unanimously re-elected clerk of the water board. Mr. Salomon kept his club up his sleeve, not making a single motion to pull it, and everything in the open meeting went smoothly. But in the executive session when the reporters were kicked out, there was no further distribution of soft soap. The members unbosomed themselves and there was much pulling and hauling. It is not improbable that there may be a violent shaking up of the officials in this department after the spring rush is over."

For nearly 25 years violent shaking-up appeared to be the lot of the members of the water board until the voters by the adoption of the new charter shook them down and they never came back. The reporters' lot in those days, like the policeman's, was not a happy one, but nowadays the policeman is rewarded with a pension, but the same old story with the sergeants.

Ice companies have come and ice companies have gone, but the Daniel Gage company is still on the job cutting ice literally in the winter and cutting it figuratively when the summer months come along. Quarter of a century ago The Sun took up the publisher's cudgel in behalf of cheaper ice and proposed the formation of a co-operative ice company. Its first editorial read in part as follows:

"Every person in Lowell contributes either directly or indirectly to the support of the great ice monopoly as now operated at our doors. The owner of the extensive ice business of this city enjoys one of the sweetest things to be found in a day's journey. Slowly but surely he is rolling up a great fortune and the people of Lowell are contributing very generously toward the golden stream that flows into the coffers of the gentleman who controls the ice business. Ice is a necessity. We must have it. It is almost as important as the bread we eat; yet hundreds of poor families are obliged to indulge sparingly in this necessity and those who use it pay a price all out of proportion to its first cost. More than one concern tried to break the power of the ice monopoly but they all ended by being bought out by the ice monopolist before they had been in business any length of time. And after they were bought out the monopolist pursued his way with a firmer grip on the business. The concerns forced out were landed so quietly that they were out of the business almost before they were aware of it."

MAJOR POORE, U. S. A. WANTS THE ARMY TO BE PREPARED FOR THE CONTINGENCY

BOSTON, June 5.—"The possibility of war admits the possibility of war with ourselves," said Major Benjamin A. Poore, U. S. A., a member of the general staff of the war college at Washington, in an address before the officers and men of the First Corps Cadets in their armory last night.

The major had been talking of the unrest among the working classes and of the spread of radical doctrines among the 25,000,000 aliens who have come into the country of late years. Avoiding mention of any specific labor trouble, he pointed out that the best way to maintain peace is to be prepared for war.

"We are on the verge, if not at the beginning of a great conflict now," he added.

Maj. Poore was introduced by Acting Adjutant-General Cole, who is a major in the corps.

Maj. Poore said the nation was built on force inasmuch as most of the land was taken from the Indians, or from foreign nations, either by a show of force or by actually using it. The insular possessions were acquired in this way, he said. They were taken by force and are held by force.

He then pointed out that some of these possessions would not run under this government, if this government did not have the strength to hold them. The problem of war is the problem of preventing war is the same, he added, and scoffed at the idea of world peace.

"For a successful war a country must have money, and this country's credit is good for any amount," he said. "For a war with a first-class army, we would have to raise 1,000,000 men, and the militia and regular army could furnish barely 200,000. The remaining 800,000 men would have to be raised from the wage-earning class, of which there are 6,000,000 in this country."

"The enlistment of the wage-earners would mean a loss of production. If 10 per cent. of them were killed every year, and that is a small number for a big war, that would be 100,000 less producers. The war college has figured out that a two-year war would cost the nation $8,000,000. This does not include the pensions during the 50 years after."

"The regular army ought to be increased to a mobile force of 150,000 men. Military men are looking forward to the time when congress shall give us an adequate army. The army and navy are not anxious for war. I believe that every sensible man believes in arbitration."

"There are some things, however, for which we must stand firmly. We are bound by treaty obligations and also bound to observe neutrality between other nations at war."

"When war comes, let us be strong enough to afford to arbitrate and not weak enough to require it."

SUSPECT IN PEASEE MURDER CASE ATTEMPTS AN ALIBI—MAKES FIRST STATEMENT

CONCORD, N. H., June 5.—Eugene Wood, the farm hand held in the jail here, charged with the murder at Henniker of Howard W. Peaselee, toy maker, made his first complete statement yesterday of his doing the night of the murder on May 22.

Complete denial of any part in the affair is made by Wood, who says he was not in that part of the town in which the Peaselees live at any time that night. He says:

"On the night Peaselee was slain I had supper at 6 o'clock. I sat on the porch for a while at Hattie Annis, where I boarded. I talked with the other lodgers for a while and then I walked down the street with McDonald, one of the boarders."

"My stomach troubled me and I had cramps. I went to a doctor to get some brandy. He gave me a prescription, but when I went down to the drug store to get the prescription filled they would not give me the liquor."

"For a while I sat on the porch in front of the Riverside hotel, talking with Bishop and Bailey. I had such a pain in my stomach that I thought I would take a walk and see if that would not ease it off."

"It was about 8.30 when I crossed the stone bridge and I walked slowly along Bridge street and up Depot hill. Then I returned, walking at my usual gait. I next met Baker at the north end in front of the Riverside hotel again a few minutes before 9 o'clock. We talked a few minutes and I started for home."

"I heard the 9 o'clock whistle blow and saw the lights go out in Whitney's drug store at the corner. I saw Armstrong, the blacksmith, and two other men walking in front of the store. I walked to my boarding house and went to bed. I was in bed at 9.10."

"I did not go over to the other part of the town. I was nowhere near Peaselee's place; I had nothing to do with the murder and I was sorry when I heard of it."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Court Wamestar, F. of A., met in its rooms in the Old Fellows building last evening. The meeting was largely attended. Routine business for the most part was transacted. The question of amalgamation with other courts came up and was approved. The body appointed a committee on amalgamation, which is as follows: William A. Kelley, James White, F. E. Garvey and John Maguire. James Farley was appointed chairman of the outing committee. The outing will take place at Gannon's farm, Belle Grove, in August. William A. Kelley, secretary, read an instructive talk on the good of the order. On the evening of June 19 there will be a meeting of special interest to all the members.

Lowell S. Council, Royal Arcanum
Lowell S. Council, Royal Arcanum held a largely attended meeting in Odd Fellows' hall, in Middlesex street, last night. Considerable important business was transacted and four new members were initiated. John J. Hogan, supreme trustee since the death of William A. Kelley, who spoke at the meeting of industry council, Wednesday evening, was the principal speaker. He dwelt on the many changes in laws made at the convention held at the Hotel Martineau, New York City. He stated that these changes would be of much benefit to the members, especially the older ones. After Mr. Hogan's address a "smoker" was enjoyed and an enjoyable musical program gone through with. Regent E. I. White gave an interesting talk on the good of the order. The bowling tournament which has kept the members in friendly rivalry since March will be brought to a close the latter part of this month. A monster banquet has been arranged for, and a silver loving cup, will be presented the winning team on that night. The leading team is now captained by J. Perron, but he is closely followed by team I, captained by Horace Paradis.

Order of Owls Held Meeting
Order of Owls held its regular business meeting at its quarters in new Bliss' hall last evening. There was the usual large attendance with President J. E. MacCallum in the chair. Both membership committees presented a large number of names of candidates for membership and the two teams are about even again.

The banquet which will be given by the membership team during July promises to be a social event of much importance in the history of the Lowell Nest. Several out-of-town owls are to be invited, and many speeches will be heard. Invitations will be given the supreme officers of the order, and it is hoped that some of these will be accepted.

The "Young" Owls of the Nest have leased a cottage at Crystal Lake for the season. The place will be known as the "Owl's Rest." The cottage will be equipped with every convenience for summer camp-life.

Behind the regular routine of lodge work a large class was initiated and at the close of the meeting the newly initiated members were accorded an enthusiastic reception.

But five cases of sickness were reported by the sick-visiting committee. Bro. James Herdman who has been confined to the Lowell hospital for several weeks with a broken leg, is getting along nicely and will be able to leave for home in a few days.

A rising vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Merrill for courtesies and kindnesses recently shown the Lowell Nest. Mrs. Merrill is the widow of the late Frank Merrill who initiated the Lowell Nest in 1892.

EDUCATED IN FACTORY

IMMIGRANT GIRLS ALLOWED TO STUDY WHILE PAY WENT ON IN NEW YORK PLANT
NEW YORK, June 5.—Forty young immigrant girls employed in a munition garment factory, who a year ago were unable to express their thoughts in English or write their names legibly, were last night awarded certificates of literacy at the first graduation exercises ever held in this city in an industrial plant as an extension of the public school system.

The exercises were conducted by the board of education in the recreation room of the factory.

The girls ranged in years from 15 to 23. Their schooling was not compulsory. For three hours every day they were taught in the factory and while they studied their pay went on. The girls acknowledge that it has been of efficiency.

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Middlesex County Investigation Bill Killed — Teachers' Tenure Bill Advanced

BOSTON, June 5.—Gov. Wilbur's veto of the bill providing for the reorganization of the Middlesex County Board of Supervisors, which was passed by the Legislature yesterday, was sustained yesterday by the Massachusetts house of representatives, 188 to 14. This is the measure which the governor characterized in his veto message as "irreconcilable legislation."

In the 14 who sought to pass the bill over the governor's veto were several democrats, including Lonsberry of Ward 5, Noland and Davis of East Boston and John J. Cummings of Dorchester.

There was little debate. Mr. Lonsberry and Mr. Noland advocating passage of the bill over the veto and Messrs. Cummings and Davis opposing it.

When the resolve to provide that in connection with the department of the board of supervisors of the state over 50 years of age be required to give up for debate Mr. Merrill, the socialist member, offered an amendment that the names of those between 15 and 60 be taken. Mr. Merrill introduced an amendment limiting it to 40 years. The purpose of the bill is to learn the number of dependents over 65 years of age. The Merrill and Cummings amendments were rejected and the resolve was passed to be introduced.

Teachers' Tenure Bill

The so-called teachers' tenure act, which provides that public school teachers and superintendents may not be discharged without a sufficient notice and without cause, was passed by a three-fourths vote of the Legislature.

This action was not taken until the question was debated at length and the House rejected the bill. Mr. Collier, extending Boston from the provisions of the act, by Mr. Cummings, extending the reference to the bill to the Legislature. By Mr. Cummings of East Boston, changing the bill to make it possible for a majority of two-thirds of the House to disband a teacher.

The bill was opposed by Mr. Cross, who said that it made it difficult for a school committee to get rid of an undesirable teacher. Mr. Mulvey favored the bill, saying that it gave the teachers protection that they are entitled to and saved them from the mental stress to which they are now subjected.

Mr. Napoleon opposed the bill to allow a street railway company to lease the right of way for a new line. The bill was passed by a three-fourths vote of the Legislature.

ABDUL MOHAMED SAVED

FIREMAN ON THE STEAMER KATANA JUMPED OVERBOARD IN THE GULF OF ADEN FOR A SWIM

BOSTON, June 5.—Abdul Mohamed, a lascor fireman on the Bucknall liner Katana, which came in yesterday from the Far East, jumped overboard while the freighter was crossing the Gulf of Aden, and started to swim to Mecca, 300 miles away. Capt. Jackson thought it was an attempt at suicide.

The steamer was turned about, a lifeboat was lowered away and in five minutes Abdul was back on board. He is said to be a champion swimmer of Colombo and declared he could swim to Mecca without the least trouble. The Katana officers thought otherwise, and besides if Abdul left it would have been a clear case of desertion. So he remained on board.

The Katana picked up a million dollars' worth of general merchandise at Hongkong, Calcutta, Ceylon and Colombo, calling at Genoa for coal. The passage from Gibraltar was negotiated in 11 days and 12 hours, which is believed to be a record for a freighter.

About half the cargo will be unloaded here and the steamer will leave tomorrow evening for New York to discharge the balance. Rubanic plague was prevalent at Colombo, and the week ending the day the steamer left there were eight deaths from the disease.

CONG. JONES IS ACTIVE

ONE OF THE STRONGEST ADVOCATES FOR FREEDOM FOR THE PHILIPPINES

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Limited self government of a territorial character for the Philippines, with a view to complete independence of the islands in the indefinite future, when the natives have demonstrated their capacity, is proposed in a bill drawn up by Rep. William A. Jones of Virginia, chairman of the insular affairs committee. The bill is in strict accordance with the democratic platform. Several bills in the past have recommended the adoption of a definite date—the most popular being July 4, 1925—for granting independence. Mr. Jones believes that the natives themselves, stipulating that this government should turn affairs over to them as soon as they have proved their ability to run a government.

WINS JOHN BARRETT PRIZE

HANOVER, N. H., June 5.—The John Barrett prize for all-round achievement at Dartmouth college will be awarded this year to Paul Wimer London of North Troy, N. Y., by vote of the three upper classes yesterday. He is a senior, captain of the baseball team, and proficient in scholarship. London's name will be engraved on the large cup presented by the college to the college for that purpose and he will be given a medal also.

ENDORSE WILSON POLICY

RALEIGH, N. C., June 5.—United States Senator Lee O. Overman, was unanimously reelected and the population taken by President Wilson for repeal of the Panama tolls exemption clause was endorsed by the democratic state convention in session yesterday. Secretary Rodolph of the department of commerce made an address on the value of the new tariff law.

General Pension Bill

The house committee on ways and means gave a hearing at the state house yesterday on the general pension bill presented by the pension commission and the committee on social welfare.

James E. McConnell of the pension commission outlined the features of the bill. Representative Allison G. Catherin, house chairman of the committee on social welfare, spoke for the committee and Mr. David A. Shedd, commissioner of education, appeared in behalf of the school teachers.

Mr. Catherin said his experience in dealing with the question was that the only opposition to the general pension bill came from those who now receive pensions to which they continued looking and those now receiving pensions in excess of what they want to receive if the bill was passed.

Commissioner Shedd said that the teachers of the state endorse this bill. Carl A. Raymond of the state auditors' office opposed the bill because it will wipe out the entire present system of retirement of state officials and will give to those retired under the proposed pension system a less sum than they are now receiving, while it will cost more than the plan which now operates. It is now operating.

John A. Sullivan, corporation counsel of Boston, opposed the enactment of any such bill as this from several points of view. Where there are now 50 per cent of the public employees at Boston entitled to pension, he said, this bill proposes to make the proportion 25 per cent, and the burden will be increased on the men who get no pension and are obliged to pay the bills. He could see no reason why the public employees above the grade of clerk should receive any pension whatever.

Alfred Barker opposed the bill because, he said, it is giving too much power to one name—the pension commission.

John W. Geary, representing Branch 5 of the National Association of Civil Service Employees, Jeremiah J. Dunne of Branch 24 of the Letter Carriers' association and David P. Walsh, representing employees of the Massachusetts reformatory for women, were among those who had themselves registered in opposition to the bill.

"We believe in the rate pension," said Mr. Geary, "but the principle of the pension system is neither fair nor just. It is a system of government employees for government employees and it is a system of government employees for government employees."

Mr. Dunne said that the pension system is a system of government employees for government employees and it is a system of government employees for government employees. He said that the pension system is a system of government employees for government employees and it is a system of government employees for government employees.

Filene's

A Few Words to Near-Boston Men

THERE are several good long stories back of what Boston men find at the end of a half-minute journey up the Filene escalator to their own clothes shop. Much the same sort of story as might be told about

Why Uncle Sam built the Panama canal after France failed—

Why certain steamship lines take you across seas in less time and in more comfort than others—

Why certain manufacturers turn out more and better automobiles, year after year, than others—

Why certain banks get and deserve the public's confidence and the public's money.

Long stories, these—too long to be told in a half-minute ad-talk. As for these Filene men's clothes shops, there is nothing accidental about the fact that they are able to provide such exceptional togs, made-ready or made-to-measure, at such surprisingly reasonable prices.

This is accomplished for reasons just as deep and broad and solid as the reasons back of the canal, the steamships, the automobiles, the banks.

FOREST FACTS

Striking facts regarding our forest resources, their value and their waste, are condensed in an eight-page illustrated circular of the American forestry association just issued. The lumber industry is said to employ 735,000 people, to whom are paid annually $367,000,000 in wages, the worth of products being $1,250,000,000. The forests of the country cover 550,000,000 acres.

An average of 70 human lives are sacrificed annually to forest fires, says the circular, and a loss occurs of $25,000,000. Damage from insects and tree diseases, which follow fire, costs each year $50,000,000. The cost of destruction resulting from floods is not estimated, but is given as "countless millions."

But the circular expresses hope more than pessimism. As well as the colored pictures showing the forest fires, the effects of the fire, and the damage caused by floods, it shows also forests planted and grown under intensive management, and the nation forest ranger scouting for fires on the mountain lookout station. The effective patrol here referred to has reduced forest fire losses to as low as one-tenth of one cent an acre.

It is pointed out that by planting forests an annual income could be derived in the country of $65,000,000; and by preservative treatment upon timber each year $100,000,000 could be saved. The annual capacity of the forest resources of the government is about 25 million young trees.

Cornell University recently dedicated a forestry building in connection with the state college of agriculture.

It is said that the best times of day to see forest area from lookout stations are just after daylight and just before sunset.

The forest service has been requested to cooperate with the port authorities of Coos Bay, Washington, in planting to control shifting sand dunes.

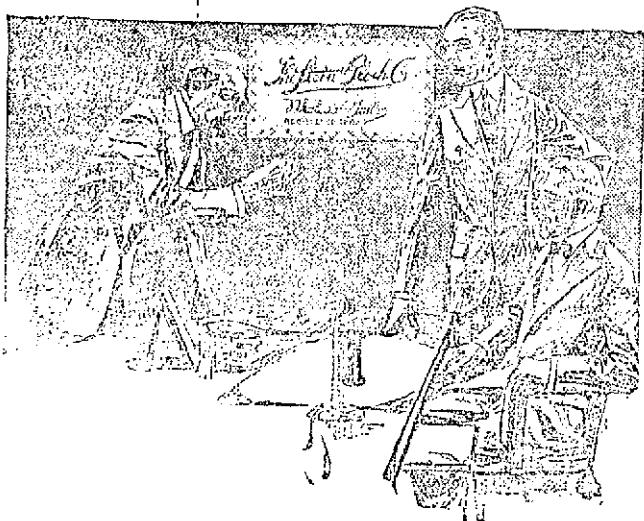

Jack pine trees planted ten years ago in the sand hills of Nebraska are now large enough to produce fence posts. Last year the first seed was gathered from this plantation.

The agricultural experiment station at Pullman, Washington, is establishing an arboretum in which it is proposed to grow a group of each of the important timber trees of the temperate zone.

FORCES WAY TO KING

Militant in Court at Palace Cries "For God's Sake, Your Majesty, Do Not Use Force"

LONDON, June 4.—The most astounding incident in the history of the militant suffragettes of Great Britain occurred last night when, in spite of the most extraordinary precautions, a militant succeeded in reaching the presence of the king at the court held at Buckingham Palace.

Throwing herself on her knees before the king and queen, she shouted: "Your Majesty, for God's sake, do not use force!"

The woman was attired in court dress, and her action caused profound astonishment. She continued to admonish the king, but her words were inaudible, as the conductor of the band in the gallery, quick to observe the incident, signalled to the band to play louder, and the woman's voice was drowned.

She was immediately removed from the room and handed over to the police. The name of the woman is not known, and close inquiries are being made as to how she obtained a card of admission.

The scene, which gave a shock to those in the immediate vicinity of the royal circle, was very brief, and the assemblage had scarcely any knowledge of what was going on.

Whether the woman was one of the invited guests who sympathized with the suffrage movement or an intruder who gained admission to the court by force, it is still unknown.

It is difficult, however, to imagine how any person could have gained access to the court on a forced invitation as the police had knowledge of a conspiracy to approach the royal presence, and every guest and every carriage arriving at Buckingham Palace last night had been subjected to a close inspection by a host of detectives—a unique precaution and one that caused considerable delay and not a little indignation or irritation in court circles.

Last night's incident is calculated to produce a feeling of still greater exasperation in the public mind and renewed demands for strong measures to suppress the suffragette agitation.

Among those present to the king and queen were Miss Esther Cleveland of Princeton, daughter of the late Governor Cleveland; Ralph Page, son of the American ambassador, and Mrs. Ralph Page; Mrs. Edward Bell, wife of the second secretary of the American embassy; Mrs. Randolph Mordecai and Miss Margaret Pennington, both of Baltimore; Miss Dorothy Doubleday of New York and Miss Mary Sanger of San Francisco.

Late editions of the London morning papers publish different versions of the court incident. The Daily Mail says: "Just before 11 o'clock the court was started by a well-modulated voice crying: 'Your Majesty, for God's sake, do not use force!'"

Immediately two gentlemen of the court stepped forward, and it was seen that a handsome young woman, attired in black, was on her knees, with hands stretched toward the king. The officials raised her and without demur on her part escorted her out. Neither the king nor any member of the royal circle paid the slightest interest to the incident.

According to the Daily Chronicle the demonstration was made by two titled ladies, sympathizers with the suffragette movement, both of whom had been previously presented at court and were entitled to cards for all court functions. When in the royal presence they raised their voices in a demand that the vote be conceded to women.

Court officials intervened and escorted them to an anteroom to await their automobiles and they were then conducted beyond the palace precincts.

KING'S SON GUARDED
LONDON, June 5.—Militant suffragettes have forced King George to supply a body guard of Scotland Yard detectives for his third son, Prince Henry, 11 years old.

Information that the boy was in danger of being kidnapped caused the royal father to send to him, where the young prince is studying, special men who know all of the principal militants.

Prince Henry, like all students at Eton, has a room for his exclusive use. This room now is guarded continually. He has a giant tutor, Hunsell by name. The boy is a "dry boy," which is the term for Etonians who take their exercises on land instead of the water. The prince was advised to keep out of water sports to avoid danger being abducted in a suffrage motor boat.

An account of suffrage activities King George has been compelled to abandon his daily horseback ride in Rotten Row. It is stated the patience of the government has been exhausted and that the law officers of the crown are considering what action shall be taken against subscribers to the funds of the Women's Social and Political Union, a complete list of whom was discovered in the recent raid on the London headquarters.

Mrs. Pankhurst has taken a house in Grosvenor Place from which she is able to overlook the grounds of Buckingham Palace. This causes considerable anxiety to the police.

EDUCATION IN ARMY

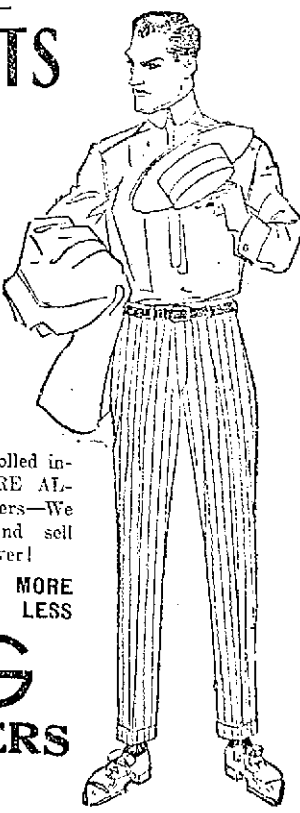

"NO COUNTRY HAS AS COMPLETE A SYSTEM FOR OFFICERS AS UNITED STATES," SAYS REPORT

How Uncle Sam keeps the officers and men in his army up to the top notch of efficiency is told in a special report on "Educational Systems in the American Army" in the annual report of the commissioner of education, just issued. The statement was prepared by Capt. Douglas MacArthur and approved by Gen. Leonard Wood.

"No country in the world has as complete a system of professional scholastic training for its officers as the United States," declares Captain MacArthur. "This is due to the inherent difference between the military establishments of foreign nations and that of our own. Their armies are at all times kept upon a war footing, as a result of which they have ample opportunity for the perfect training of the personnel in the practical duties of the military profession."

"In such an army the main object is to train every man for the efficient performance of his duties in the grade which he holds when war comes. A lieutenant does not dream of becoming a captain merely as the result of war."

except as a vacancy is made for him in the casualties of battle. Only in the same way does a captain expect to become a colonel; nor would the idea be tolerated that "great numbers of trained line officers are to be suddenly transferred to various staff positions upon the theory that there is nothing mysterious in the art of war; that technical and scientific training is needed by only a small portion of military officers; that certain things which a Napoleon must know, every officer must know, and can as readily acquire as he; while those things which differentiate a Napoleon from other generals can not be acquired in any school, not even in that of war."

"Such a system would be thoroughly misapplied if transplanted to the American army, the organization of which is quite different from continental armies. In fact, the most striking feature in our service is the absence of what constitutes the very essence of the foreign establishment; that is, a general staff, in which the army is organized and in which the average officer of any grade learns the details of his profession by practical work and with the minimum of theory."

SUIT FOR $50,000

Boston Woman Says
Friend Stole Her Husband's Love

BOSTON, June 5.—Roland H. Blood, undertaker, a prominent Pepperell citizen, is being sued for $50,000 by Mrs. Helen W. Crawford of West Canton street, Boston, for the alleged alienation of her husband's affections. Serious charges, which the police are now investigating, have been made in the plaintiff's declaration.

The plaintiff further intends to bring suit against her own husband, William P. Crawford, for separate support. He is a salesman and earns from $30 to $50 per week, according to the wife. Of this amount, she stated last night, he gives her $2 each week for food and clothing.

They were married in Boston on Dec. 26, 1912. He was loving and attentive until December of last year, according to Mrs. Crawford, when he suddenly became very cold toward her and no longer showed any affection. She blames Mr. Blood for this change and declares that he is exerting an unusual influence over her husband.

Attorney H. H. Patten, who is counsel for Mrs. Crawford, exhibited a dozen letters to a reporter last night, purporting to come from Blood to Mr. Crawford. He told of his investigations in Pepperell and declared that he has been amazed at the result.

Blood is considered very influential in the town affairs of Pepperell, and is well thought of in church circles.

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let your sore, swollen, sweaty feet spread out in a bath of "TIZ."

"Just couldn't wait to take my hat off!"

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crushed, aching, burning, corn-pestered, blisters-tortured feet of yours in a "TIZ" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "TIZ" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "TIZ." Its grand—its glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "TIZ." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25 cent box of "TIZ" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.

FOR TAXATION REFORM

Plan Proposed by the Boston Citizens Committee—Obstacles to Equitable Taxation

The citizens committee of Boston of the general property tax, lots from the estate $2,000,000,000 in a few years. The following article contains an outline of the chief features:

The system of taxation in Massachusetts is called the "general property tax" which means that all property, both real and personal, shall be assessed a certain percentage of its value. In Massachusetts this is expressed in terms of so many dollars on the thousand.

The general property tax originated in the four or five centuries ago, and was inherited by the American colonies. It was for a time adequate for the simple purposes of new and unincorporated communities. As civilization advanced, however, and systems of government and business became more complicated, it proved very unsatisfactory, and the states and cities of Europe were beginning to discard it about the time the states in this country were adopting it.

The average tax rate in Massachusetts is nearly $20 per $1,000. Assuming that the gross annual income from the state is $1,000,000,000, the average tax rate would be $20 per $1,000. Assuming that the gross annual income from the state is $1,000,000,000, the average tax rate would be $20 per $1,000.

TRADE OF U. S. WITH WORLD

A convenient reference book for the exporter or the manufacturer who is interested in foreign trade, is a bulletin of imports and exports of merchandise from and to the United States by country and principal articles, which has been published by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and is sold by the superintendent of documents, government printing office, this city, for 15 cents a copy. A glance at this pamphlet affords the business man a bird's-eye view of the character and volume of our commerce with any foreign country, as it gives the quantity and value of its principal purchases from us and the sales to the United States for the years 1912 and 1913.

Statistics are not made up of currently by the average business man, but this pamphlet conveniently at hand on his desk will answer at once many questions which arise in connection with international commerce. The material was formerly included as Table No. 18 in the large quarto annual, "Commerce and Navigation of the United States," a costly and bulky publication available in a limited edition only. In this convenient form it should take its place as a reference book essential to any business house with an interest in export and import trade. Where this book does not give sufficient detail, reference can of course be made to the more elaborate tables of imports and exports which are printed in "Commerce and Navigation."

The bureau hopes, by placing these statistical facts in more readily accessible form before the commercial public, to attract attention to the practical value of the many similar tables of our foreign trade which are issued by the government in this field.

Capt. W. F. Fullam, superintendent of the academy, Capt. W. H. Logan, commandant, and Lieut. Com. Chauncey Shackford went out to the Mayflower in a launch and brought the president and Secretary of the Navy Daniels ashore and took them directly to the academy armory, where the exercises were held. As the presidential party landed on the back of the Severn, another salute boomed from a shore battery.

A bad wind and rain storm made the going difficult for the Mayflower throughout the night.

SPANIARDS ORDERED OUT

CALIFORNIA, MAZATLAN, MEXICO, June 4.—By wireless to San Diego, Cal., June 5.—A loan of one million pesos has been denied by the constitutionalists in possession of the city of Tepic upon Spaniards residents according to information that reached Mazatlan today. It was said that all Spaniards had been notified to leave Tepic by June 6.

Desertions from the federal forces defending Mazatlan continued. The United States company, has arranged with General Turbe, commanding the constitutional forces besieging Mazatlan for the return of the cargo of sugar taken from the schooner Garibaldi, which went ashore on Piedras Island in the harbor last Sunday.

PARK BOARD TO MEET

IT IS STATED THAT THOMAS F. MCKAY WILL BE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD
A meeting of the park commission will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock and there will probably be some interesting business done before the members. The newly elected member, Thomas F. McKay, will attend his first meeting at that time and it is expected that he will be elected chairman of the board.

SUDDEN DEATH

Steve Laughton Found Dying in His Barber Shop This Morning

One of Lowell's oldest and best known barbers, Stephen A. Laughton of 71 Chapel street, was found dying in his shop at 231 Central street, shortly before 6:30 o'clock this morning and passed away in the ambulance on the way to St. John's hospital a few minutes later.

It is said that Mr. Laughton had been ill for some time and it is believed by his intimate friends that the fire which wrecked his home on Chapel street late yesterday afternoon probably hastened his death as he was very nervous last evening.

down-town shops for over 15 years and then entering the opera house building shop at 101 Central street, where he was in business up to the time of the fire. His wife was found sitting on the floor of his shop at 6:15 o'clock.

On being examined the body of the Laughtons at 101 Central street, it was found that the fire had been started by a gas lamp which had been left burning in the shop and which had been found in a suspicious position.

DEPT. FIRE TODAY

A fire near the Allen street shop kept the members of the department busy some time this afternoon although no serious damage was done. The fire was extinguished by a telephone call about 1 o'clock and were put out on the spot until late in the afternoon.

removed from the raw product, in the school. In the exhibit of the wool and cotton spinning department were also many samples of sweaters, stockings, and finally cotton products of various kinds.

In the large Wilson hall all the machinery for the textile industry was set in motion for the benefit of the audience. The various processes could be followed and in the lower rooms many stages of the work were shown, from the spinning of the cotton to the weaving of the cloth, and the various processes of finishing the fabric.

The school is a splendid example of the modern textile industry and is a most interesting and instructive place for all who are interested in the textile industry. NO. CHELMSFORD NEWS VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE

One question that has got the townspeople of North Chelmsford all agog is the petition of the Whitman & Pratt Rebuilding Co. to erect a suitable building to carry on the same kind of work they were engaged in before the big fire. The opinions of the different citizens are somewhat divided on the matter of the petition, and a lively discussion is looked for at the next town meeting, which will probably be held on Monday evening next. The Rebuilding Works have been a bone of contention ever since they were established in the town. Residents living in close proximity have always objected to the odors which emanated from the old plant, especially in the night-time. But Rebuilding Works have to be and they are a great help to the community in which they exist in safeguarding the health of its inhabitants. The following statement regarding this all important question was made to a Sun reporter by one of North Chelmsford's most prominent citizens:

There is no doubt that every man has the right under the constitution of the United States of entering upon a business career that will not be detrimental to his neighbors. There is no company that does as much good towards safeguarding the health of its inhabitants as that which looks after the bodies of dead animals. What would become of the bodies of the horses who die in harness on our streets every day? What would become of the carcasses of cows, sheep, pigs, and other animals that during epidemics die in large numbers? We know without consulting any scientists on the matter what would be the result. The carcasses would be thrown here and there on the outskirts of towns and cities, and which sooner or later would cause a worldwide pestilence.

For the last two years Whitman & Pratt spent much time and a great amount of money to carry on their business with as little odor as possible. Now and then accidents will happen, owing to the fact that employees become careless, but nobody regrets this more than the firm of Whitman & Pratt. We want every company that will do so to settle down within our borders, and we could ill afford to lose a firm that pays us in wages thousands of dollars yearly.

Another View

While all this is admitted very generally, the majority of people in the town feel that the plant should be located away from the residential district where its odors would not contaminate the air and thus become a menace to health.

Fire Department

The fire department under the able leadership of James Dunnehan, the man who put North Chelmsford on the map, was called out about 10:30 Monday night, but after traveling all around the town they found that it was a false alarm. Mr. Dunnehan would be glad to learn the person's name who rang in the alarm.

Boy Scouts

The Boy Scouts are awaiting with anticipation their coming gala day which will be held on the lawn of Mr. Mark Ingraham's residence, June 27. They will put on a musical show in Highland hall on Friday night, the thirteenth, in aid of the Lowell troop of scouts, and they do say that they will spring many surprises. A communication has been received by scouts from the Fitchburg troop asking them to send one of their number to help establishing a summer camp.

Clarence Bacon is the one who will be delegated to the task. It is thought John Buchanan has been favored with a signal honor in being appointed an eagle scout, the highest honor that can be awarded a member of the troop. The date of their encampment will be set at the next meeting.

"A Nautical Knot"

The operetta, "A Nautical Knot," which had been presented with much success at Grantville was given in the town hall last evening for the benefit of St. John's church with the same popular reception that was attributed to the piece in Grantville. Joe Wall, the man who owns Grantville, was the stage director, and James A. Murphy, director of St. Michael's church choir of Lowell, had charge of the difficult musical numbers. The performance, like the music, was excellent.

Improve Residences

Street Department

The street department has finished oiling the roads and they are now on a par with the other towns in the state. The state department has men busily engaged in oiling the Princeton boulevard, and another gang are filling in the cradle holes. When finished the boulevard bids fair to resemble a ball room floor. There is a petition before the legislature to make Groton road a state highway.

Crystal Lake Dances

The first of a series of Thursday evening dances was held last night at Crystal Lake under the auspices of the Crescent orchestra. The pavilion which has been completely renovated, was fitted up with beautiful electrical effects. Streamers of colored bunting, which were draped over the centre chandelier, were caught up on the edge of the pavilion. A large crowd was in attendance and an enjoyable evening was spent. The latest in terpsichorean art was allowed but nothing took place that could offend even the most fastidious. George Marinel is the leader of the Crescent orchestra.

Silesia Woollen Mills

Conditions at the Silesia Woollen Co. are the same as they have always been since their establishment in North Chelmsford. All departments are running with full complements of help, and some departments are kept running nights.

Moore's Mills

The George C. Moore mills are running full blast and indications seem to point to a most prosperous season. A few of the departments have started running on night work. The North Chelmsford Machine and Supply Co. and the Lowell Textile Co. are working steadily and future prospects are said to be quite encouraging.

Streams of Boiling Lava and Storm of Stones and Ashes Fall Over Dutch Island of Sanguir

MANILA, June 5.—A violent eruption of several volcanoes occurred today on the Dutch island of Sanguir, only about 140 miles directly south of Mindanao in the Philippines.

Streams of boiling lava poured down the sides of the mountains, overwhelming woods and cocoa plantations. At the same time a heavy rain of stones and ashes from various craters fell over the whole island.

Official reports do not mention loss of life but register the destruction of one hundred houses.

Sanguir is the largest of the group known as the Talauste islands in the Celebes sea, about 500 miles to the east of British North Borneo. Destructive outbreaks of Gunong Abu, the principal volcano on the island, occurred in 1711, 1812, 1883 and 1892.

AMONG THE TOILERS

International Car Workers

The International Association of Car Workers held its regular meeting last night in Odd Fellows building in Middlesex street and it was largely attended. Last night was a banner night for initiations, 15 being admitted. Twelve applications for membership were also received. President Ernest Griffin was the speaker of the evening and his talk on car workers was highly interesting. Several members spoke interestingly on the good and welfare.

Car Shop Machinists

The car shop machinists, who come from Concord, Derry, Keene, Hitchburg and Worcester, held their regular meeting last night in Odd Fellows building. Last night seemed to be the big night in all societies for initiations, and this union ranked up with the leaders, having admitted 20 new members. Considerable important business was transacted, and several of the members spoke on the good of the union.

Painters' Union Met

The Painters' union held their regular Thursday night meeting in Carpenters' hall with President Dana in the chair. Four new members were admitted and several applications for membership were received. The business agent reported business as good at the present time but that there is a big shortage in men in the painting trade. The examining board, which was established only a short time ago, is a great success. Every applicant for membership is examined as to his knowledge of the business before he is admitted. This helps to keep the union up to the highest standard, and also insures the employer who hires union men that he is getting something for his money. There are several of the members of the union working out of town, in the White mountains and at the beaches at the present time.

Machinists' Union

The machinists' rooms were crowded to their capacity at the regular meeting held last night. President Phelps called the meeting to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Routine business for the most part was transacted. Seven new members were admitted and four applications for membership were turned over to the investigating committee. They will be reported on at the next regular meeting. Several of the members addressed the body on topics relative to the betterment of labor conditions.

Trades and Labor Council

The Trades and Labor Council held its regular session in Trades and Labor hall in Middle street last evening and it was largely attended. President Timothy Rourke occupied the chair, and called the meeting to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Reports were received from various organizations showing that their organizations are growing rapidly. Several communications were received and were referred to the proper authorities. The action taken by the municipal council in placing the city employees under civil service was discussed at length, and it was unanimously voted to enter a protest against the same. The secretary was instructed to notify the municipal council of the action taken. Considerable routine business was transacted and the council adjourned to meet June 15.

stated that Michaelles did not have varicose veins until after the accident, and that they came as the result of the accident which was described as having taken place in the packing room and that a big packing box fell on Michaelles' leg.

The committee on arbitration was made up as follows: David T. Dickinson, chairman; John J. Devine for the employee; and Benjamin J. Maloney for the insurer. The attorneys in the case were Fisher H. Pearson for the employee and George Kenney for the insurer.

Messrs. Dickinson and Maloney came to the conclusion that the employee had the disease before the accident, and while Mr. Devine dissented, the majority rules. The employee, however, is entitled to a review of the evidence before the accident board within seven days after the filing of the report by the committee on arbitration.

Buzz Car Licenses

Twenty-six applicants for chauffeurs' licenses took the weekly examination at city hall this forenoon. This is a very large class and the applicants came from Haverhill, Lawrence, Andover, the Elleries and Chelmsford and all around. These examinations are given every Friday by the Massachusetts highway commission and are held in the old councilmanic chamber at city hall. The examiners today were Messrs. Lathrop, Karmuh and Bouzagan.

This act shall take effect upon its passage.

The foregoing was laid before the governor on the 15th day of May, 1914, and after five days it had "the force of a law," as prescribed by the constitution, as it was not returned by him with his objections thereto within that time.)

MEDIATORS OPTIMISTIC

Confident Carranza Will Decide to Take Part in Proceedings—Note in Four Days

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Carranza's statement that he would not reply to the last note of the South American envoys until he reached Saltillo from Durango, confirmed the belief of administration officials today that the constitutionalists' final attitude toward entering the Niagara conference would not be known for three or four days. Optimism expressed at Niagara Falls that Carranza would decide to take part in the proceedings was reflected here. The statement of Rafael Zubaran, the constitutionalist chief representative in Washington attracted widespread attention.

"Affairs are bettering," he said, when asked as to the likelihood of Carranza's participation in the conference. He did not expect, however, to receive an answer from his chief before late Saturday or Sunday.

Meanwhile officials of the administration continued their conference with Carranza's agents urging them to recommend that a favorable reply be sent to the mediators.

Officials of the state and navy departments were occupied with plans for meeting any situation that might arise at Tampico through efforts of Huerta to establish a blockade to halt shipments of arms for Carranza. American war vessels off Alvarado and Puerto Mexico reported that Huerta's ships had made no move to leave. The will continue under the surveillance of the American men-of-war.

Shipments of arms for Carranza that left Galveston and New York were likely to reach their destination unmolested, it was believed here today. While orders had been issued to prevent the clearance of vessels carrying arms for any Mexican port, yet two steamers sailed with war cargoes through the failure of the state department's instructions to reach proper officials in time.

Whether the American government might stop those shipments at Tampico was a question upon which no definite official light had been thrown today.

MEDIATORS DISCUSS THE LATEST DEVELOPMENTS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 5.—The general attitude here in regard to the expected reply from Gen. Carranza, chief of the constitutionalist cause in Mexico to the note the South American mediators sent him last Tuesday, set business for a number of years.

through his representatives in Washington is a mixture of doubt and hope. In some quarters it was believed Carranza's response would be negative, but it was hoped it would leave open the door for continued correspondence. Semi-official statements in regard to the attitude of Carranza towards the mediation proceedings indicate that he is not ready to accept unreservedly the offer of good offices practically renewed by the mediators.

While no meetings between the mediators and either the American or the Mexican delegates were scheduled for the day, the mediators themselves planned to get together to discuss the latest phases of the situation.

VICTIMS OF EXPLOSION

TWO MEN INJURED MONDAY DIED TODAY—DEATH LIST NUMBERS SIX

BOSTON, June 5.—The number of deaths resulting from an explosion of sewer gas at the East Boston pumping station of the metropolitan sewage system was increased to six today, when Elmer C. FORTY-NINERS ALL DEAD

WILLIAM T. DENNIS, LAST OF NUMBER TO SAIL AROUND THE HORN, DIED LAST NIGHT

NEWPORT, R. I., June 5.—William T. Dennis, the last known survivor of Newport's forty-niners, who sailed around the Horn to search for gold in California, died last night. Seventy-five men sailed from Newport on the ship Audley Clark on a voyage which lasted 184 days. Most of them in time drifted back here to become more successful in business than they had been in finding gold. Several have been prominent in Newport's history. Four members of the Dennis family went. The last survivor returned because of partial blindness, and was in the mercantile business for a number of years.

YOUNG GIRL INJURED

ing the Lowell Hospital This Morning

After being released from the Lowell hospital this forenoon after having a sore hand treated, George Kimprokas, a young girl residing at 2 Adams street, was taken to the same institution again this afternoon as a result of being thrown from a fruit wagon when the horse attached to it became frightened and ran away. The cut on the girl's hand, which had not completely healed, was reopened and she sustained abrasions about the face and body.

According to witnesses of the accident, the young girl was sitting on the seat of the wagon while her brother was delivering fruit in a house on Mt. Grove street. The horse became frightened and started to run at a gallop. As the team neared the corner of Mt. Grove street and Fourth avenue, George was thrown from her seat and in putting out her hand to protect herself, she injured it and also was cut about the face. The ambulance was called and she was removed to the hospital.

It is said that the wagon was also slightly damaged and some of the fruit was spilt over the street.

ON MORAL EDUCATION

In moral education don't moralize. This is the advice of Prof. F. G. Gould, an English educator of note, who has been touring the United States as a demonstrator for the moral education league of London. Prof. Gould's carefully worked out plan for moral education in the elementary grades impresses bureau of education officials as one of the most valuable of the present efforts to make education tell in fine character.

Story-telling forms the basis for "what the instruction in Professor Gould's plan, once a week, or oftener, is assumed, the teacher or principal gives a systematic lesson on the conduct of life. The various virtues are taught, not as abstractions, but by concrete examples and by interesting stories. The teacher is not to say: "This ought to be done," she is rather to say: "This thing has been done." Hearing constantly about right actions, the pupils learn to appreciate right conduct. The spirit behind the instruction is the spirit of service; but this and other technical moral terms are to be rarely, if ever, mentioned. "It is possible," Prof. Gould points out, "to give many lessons on civic duty and scarcely ever use the word patriotism, and yet the temper of consecration to one's duty and country may permeate the teaching and inspire the pupils."

Prof. Gould disclaims anything novel or faddish about his work. It is by no means new, he says. "I have over and over again affirmed that my teaching was in the strict sense of the term, antiquated; that is to say, it consisted of equipment of the concrete and dramatic manner which has been illustrated by ancient poets as well as modern, by the narratives and parables of the Bible or the 'fable' of the ballad, and by allegories such as 'Cameos' and 'John Bunyan'."

"What perhaps may claim is that I have reminded ourselves of simple, fundamental principles, which, in the general unattractive rush of over-crowded school programs, we are all apt to forget; and along with that effort to get back to more direct action in moral teaching, I have, it may be, combined a certain enthusiasm and freshness; at least I hope so."

pus and park fronting the school are substantial and constant reminders of the generosity and foresight of one of Lowell's most loyal sons, Frederick Fanning Ayer. The building on the northern side of the group is evidence of the belief of Miss Charlotte P. Kilton, Mrs. Emma Stott and the Kilton Machine Co. in the stability of this school. In the manufacturers of textile machinery, we find a similar belief and a proof in the extensive equipment they have provided to assist in the instruction of those who may prepare to enter the textile industry. This old commonwealth, through its representatives each year, has added as much as the others to assist in erecting the remaining buildings of the quadrangle and the power house at the rear, besides contributing the cost of maintenance and equipment. The city of Lowell appreciates the value that the school is to its mills and the progress of its people that operate them, adds each year such an amount that her people, both young and old, may attend the evening school with free tuition.

But with all of these buildings, this equipment and this support the work of the school could not be considered successful without the efficient work of the instructing staff. The ever-widening reputation of the school, through the young men and young women it sends out each year, is evidence of the high character of the instruction given. It has been through the efforts of the heads of the various departments and the co-operation given them by their assistants that the work of the school has grown higher and wider. In this work we all appreciate the encouragement, guidance and support given us by the trustees in our endeavor to place the school upon the highest plain. Perhaps the greatest stimulus has come from the graduates who, each year, frequently with their problems, with their desire for further knowledge and with their advice and suggestions. It is with much pride that the school can number in its alumni young men who are making successful manufacturers in many parts of the state and country. Almost every class that enters numbers among its members brothers of past students or graduates. The class that leaves us today is no exception, for an alumnus of the class of '99 extends his hand to congratulate his brother in the class of 1914.

Feeling the effects of the support of the trustees, the ambition of the instructing staff and the encouragement of the alumni to build better and climb higher, the curriculum has steadily been raised, entrance requirements advanced and new subjects added to broaden and strengthen the training given. Such policies can have no other result than to keep, for a few years, the registration from increasing materially. It is believed, however, that the ultimate result will mean an enviable reputation for the school, satisfaction to the graduates and real profit to the textile industry of this country. We trust that you will judge the work of this school by these standards, not by the number of its students or number of graduates. The young men who today receive their diplomas and degrees realize that these papers represent work, study and thought. They know that their record in all of the subjects must be clear and that the standard in each subject has been reached. There are no certificates awarded for partial courses.

The diploma is awarded for a complete three-year course and the degree for a full four-year course. The school of the present class would be somewhat larger had not some students elected the degree course, thus waiving the right to the diploma this year. These, we trust, will receive their degree next year. It has been the constant purpose to make the diploma or degree from the Lowell Textile school signify that the holder knows how to work and to think, and that he is not afraid of either.

If we judge correctly from the requests of employers for graduates from this school, we believe the industry is looking for the best. Every year the inquiries are for more highly and broadly trained men, men for positions of responsibility and men who have not only the ambition but the ability to rise. It is evident that those in the industry who are studying industry, and that those in the country who are studying the textile industry, are looking for the best. The school awarded to a number of young men the certificate of the evening school. These young men, too, are ambitious to improve their present condition, and judging by the records that many graduates from the evening school have made, they are fulfilling the same mission as those who finish the day course. The young men of Lowell and vicinity appreciate the opportunity they have to attend this school, and the people of Lowell, through their representatives at city hall, have given their cooperation that the youth of Lowell may have the privilege. Lowell, as well as the state of Massachusetts, must ultimately reap the benefit emanating from this school, if the manufacturers continue to take their employees from those who have come under its influence. We are all pleased that we have with us this afternoon one who not only officially represents this city, but who also represents, because of his age and mind, the young and thinking men of Lowell.

Mayor Murphy introduced by Principal Eames, spoke in part as follows: "It is a great pleasure for me to be here to assist in these graduation exercises, not only as mayor, but as a citizen who is interested in the Lowell Textile school."

The institution you represent here today is an institution that the people of Lowell take great pride in, and this institution depends upon the young men who go out from it. It doesn't make any difference how many graduates go out of this school as long as they acquit themselves when they go out in the world in a manner that will reflect credit upon the school and upon the city of Lowell. You are to be the men who will improve the textile industry of the country, and you are to be congratulated for having the opportunity to graduate from the Lowell Textile school in the world. Success be with you!

Menacing Fire in Boston
Was Quickly Checked
by Firemen

BOSTON, June 5.—Chief Peter McDonough and his men made a fortunate stop on a menacing fire at 7 o'clock this morning, on the second floor of the four-story brick and marble front building at the corner of High and Pearl streets. The building is occupied by the Decatur & Hopkins Co. dealers in hardware, cutlery, paints and cut glass. The damage was estimated at $5000.

The fire was held where it started in the rear of the second floor of the middle building, numbered 101, 103 and 105 Pearl street. There are party walls separating this middle building from the ones on either side of it, and as the fire doors between the buildings were closed, the flames were most easily held within the walls of the middle building.

Patrolman Curran of the Court square station discovered the fire, and running to the corner of Pearl and Congress streets, he sent in an alarm from box 75. First Deputy Chief Taber and Engine 25's crew and ladder companies 8 and 14 soon had lines laid and were at work on the fire. Chief McDonough and Engine 25's crew and Engines 7 and 4 followed right after them.

Ladder 14 men raised a ladder at the fifth street side of the building and firemen soon ran to the roof and began work at that point by opening up skylights and ventilating the fire. Firemen who climbed to the fire escapes on the second floor at the rear of being building had narrow escapes from being blown to the streets, for when they opened the fire shutters the flames spread out of the windows with great fury and drove them to the street.

These men bravely worked their way back again, carrying their lines before them, and playing streams into the windows, gradually driving the flames back, while firemen who went into the building on the Pearl street side worked and their way into the rear, driving the flames backward. In this manner the fire was confined and smothered in the rear of the second floor. The building was heavily stocked with costly goods, but the protective men did excellent work, covering the stock and in this way saved much of the goods from damage. It was one of the best exhibitions of efficient fire-fighting seen in this city in a long time.

SHAMROCK FOUR IS FAST
LONDON, June 5.—The yachting reporter of the Evening Standard today estimates that Shamrock IV, Sir Thomas Lipton's new challenger for the America's cup will have to allow about four minutes to the biggest of the American defenders. He credits an unnamed American yachtsman who witnessed yesterday's sail stretching and who has seen all three defenders as saying Shamrock IV will prove to be faster than any of them. In this case much will depend upon the question of time allowance.

MINIMIZE PERILS OF DASH TO MEXICO CITY

By JOHN J. BREEN.

SEVERAL elements of cavalry, an aviation squadron and other units of the signal corps, wireless telegraphically and by other means, were being sent to the army posts from Vera Cruz to Mexico City. Although it has been claimed that there would be a great loss of life in this dash, the military authorities believe that in the scheme of advancing the loss of life would not be very great.

It is claimed that when the first of the dash, which took the form of a dash, would cross the Rio Grande, the United States troops, it was their business to do the preliminary reconnaissance work, and for this purpose each unit carried a small but efficient outfit for sending information by wireless telegraph.

While American forces in Vera Cruz, there was a great deal of activity in the city, and it was believed that the United States troops would be able to advance without much difficulty. The United States troops, it was their business to do the preliminary reconnaissance work, and for this purpose each unit carried a small but efficient outfit for sending information by wireless telegraph.

Many cups of all our volunteer troops. "Among the volunteers" said a military officer, "some considerable experience exists as a result of maneuvers and the Spanish war, many veterans of that war being in the militia. The proportion of the troops, however, was not so high as in the case of the regular army. There will be a great deal of experience in the field, and a considerable force of green men to be brought into the situation, as well as a great deal of military instruction. Fortunately most of the officers of the volunteer troops will be men who are experienced in the value of sanitation in the field. They will be able to instruct the new men in habits essential to health in camp."

There exists, then, a great deal of experience in the field, and a considerable force of green men to be brought into the situation, as well as a great deal of military instruction. Fortunately most of the officers of the volunteer troops will be men who are experienced in the value of sanitation in the field. They will be able to instruct the new men in habits essential to health in camp."

999 men lived for a year with a sick rate lower than that at the average post."

Cavalry to Make Advance.

Officers who worked on the cavalry plan of advance against Mexico City claimed to have perfected a plan by which they could force the Mexican troops under General Maas to abandon their defenses along the Mexican and international railways and retire upon their capital. The successful accomplishment of this plan would be followed in the event of the Mexicans making a stand at Mexico City by the use of artillery in laying siege to the Mexican capital.

In 1846 the United States began the Mexican war in expectation that a determined military demonstration in northern Mexico would be sufficient. That theory was shortly abandoned because of the vigorous resistance offered, and then, as now, Vera Cruz was selected as the basic point of attack. The estimation in which Mexican troops were then held is shown by the fact that the United States soldiers always fought superior numbers, and, although they conquered, the fighting was desperate, as a rule, and losses heavy.

General Scott began the invasion of southern Mexico from Vera Cruz in the spring of 1847, with 12,000 men, the whole regular army of the United States. The city was surrendered after several days' bombardment, and Scott on the way to Mexico City, at Cerro Gordo, encountered Santa Anna, who had 20,000 men, with the advantage of position and artillery with the Mexicans, but in a two days' fight the great Mexican leader had to taste defeat.

Scott could have marched into the city the next day, but he offered an armistice, which the Mexicans eagerly accepted and proceeded to use as a truce, as they had other arrangements of the kind earlier in the war. They killed one soldier and wounded another in a street fight, and Santa Anna exerted every effort to prepare for further resistance while pretending to be conciliatory plans for peace. When Scott protested he sent an insulting reply, and the United States army resumed operations by attacking Mexico del Rey, which fortifications included the Casa Mata, or "house of death," as the arsenal was called, and the castle of Chapultepec.

Weight lost eleven of fourteen officers in his command in the charge and the majority of his men. Colonel Graham was mortally wounded, shouting "Charge!" as he died. McIntosh was shot at the head of his men. Martin Scott took command and fell lifeless as he ordered the regiment forward. Major White replaced him and fell almost as quickly. The soldiers fell in those. Lieutenant Burnett and many others, wounded, were murdered by Mexicans on the ground.

Hand to Hand Fight.
Four thousand Mexican cavalry poured into the field, but Duncan tore them to fragments with his battery. The United States troops finally forced their way through portholes of the forts and took the works in a terrible hand-to-hand struggle. The Mexicans rallied and charged twice in trying to recover their position. Worth lost 800 men, fifty-eight of whom were officers, out of a command of 3,500.

A few days later, by a series of the same brilliant advances and desperate attacks, the troops took the castle of Chapultepec. That ended the war, and Scott's little army marched into the conquered Mexican capital, now 6,500 men, thousands of miles from home, with a record of four battles won, against double trouble and quadruple their own number, but not one retreat. Mexico City was occupied Sept. 14, 1847.

As now planned the cavalry movement seems to consist of a series of dashes from the railroad by the cavalry in its movement westward from Vera Cruz, but always with the view of closing in upon Mexico City after forcing the retirement of the Mexican federalists along the two lines of railway. It was believed by army officers that, despite what General Maas has done, the Mexican troops could be forced back on Mexico City with the loss of comparatively few men by the Americans.

The plan under consideration and tentatively worked out entails the reconstruction of the railroad by the American army as it forces ahead, with the aid of the cavalry's dash movements, so as to have the most favorable conditions for use in battle.

REFUGEES GIVING UNCLE SAM CONCERN

ONE of the main themes that added to the perplexities of the United States government in the Mexican situation was the provision for the safety of refugees from the troubled southern republic.

Some of the refugees, who were in the oil fields, Gulf Coast, from Tuxtepec and Tampico, said that they were being held by the United States government and taken away from the Mexican coast, where they did not want to come. Most of brought from Mexico against their will.

There were others, however, who were mighty glad to get away from the scene of trouble. In Tampico, following the news of the landing of United States marines in Vera Cruz, 300 Americans, men, women and children, were barely saved from mob violence. A crowd of infuriated Mexicans surrounded the Southern hotel in Tampico, hurled cobblestones through the windows and shouted "Kill the gringos!" The mob increased, and, goaded by the fiery speeches of its leaders, the Mexicans demanded the lives of the men, women and children harried in the hotel.

The news of the capture of Vera Cruz spread through the town as it carried upon the breeze. A small crowd of people marched up and down the streets. Mass meetings were held in the plaza, at which the speakers urged the crowd to take immediate vengeance on all Americans. Alarmed at the threats, the Americans barricaded themselves in the hotel.

A. M. Brown, president of the Mexican Drilling and Exploration company, who had left the Southern hotel and gone to the Imperial for his dinner, remembered that two of his drivers were in the threatened building. Mr. Brown went to the hotel, but his employees refused to venture out, as the mob was again surging back toward the plaza. Mr. Brown decided, however, that safety lay at the Imperial, and as the mob was returning, he hurried to the roof and peered down on the angry paraders. He tells what he saw from the roof:

"I thought it was going to be a second Alamo. Stones were smashing against the Southern on all sides. Shots were fired, and not a window on the first floor was left. Word of trouble must have reached the foreign ships in the river, for as I was looking down I saw four sailors headed by an officer. At first I thought they were our men, but as they came under a light I saw that they were from the Dutch cruiser that was in the Dancoo river. The officer was looking at a lot of paper he carried and then at the shore along the street. There was only one Irishman in the town, and he kept a jewelry store opposite the Imperial.

"The soldiers stopped, knelt at the jeweler's door and took him, his family and trunkload of jewelry aboard the ship.

"A few minutes later there was a commotion in the mob, and I heard some one speaking. Then the crowd began to disperse, and I learned that officers from the German ship Dresden had informed Zaragoza, the military governor of Tampico, that they would give him fifteen minutes in which to disperse the mob. They told him if he didn't comply they'd land marines and eight machine guns and do it themselves.

VERA CRUZ PRISON RELIC OF DARK AGES

MOST famous of all Mexican prisons, noted for the untold thousands tortured within its walls, the castle prison of San Juan de Ulua, stands today on a little island overlooking Vera Cruz pretty much as it stood in the centuries of its existence. On April 28 the flag of Mexico fluttered down from its flagstaff. The stars and stripes rose in its place as Captain Paul Chamberlain and a company of marines from the North Dakota took possession.

In his dispatch to the navy department reporting the taking over of the fortress Rear Admiral Fletcher said:

"The prison has been taken over under mutual agreement made between myself and Colonel Vigil, in charge, which agreement was signed and approved by Admiral Duncan. There are in the prison 42 prisoners who have been sentenced for crime, 75 who have been accused of crime but have not been brought to trial and also 325 who have not been accused of any misdemeanor whatsoever. These 325 were arrested mostly within the last two months in order to be forced into the federal army and for no other reason. The above data was obtained from the officer in charge. The conditions in the prison under which the 325 men are living is described as frightful."

Secretary Daniels directed the release of these 325 men, ordering that the seventy-five awaiting trial should be held pending investigation by the American authorities into the charges against them.

"No state manager putting on 'The Count of Monte Cristo' could imagine anything more creepy than the sight which met the eyes of the American officers when the keys were turned in the rusty locks and they entered the ancient vaults," wrote an American newspaper man describing his visit to the prison.

In the grim, forbidding, gloomy pile of San Juan de Ulua the Spanish found a building suited to and one which appealed to their torture-loving tastes. Only a fifteenth century Spaniard could have designed such a castle.

Leslie Hulbert, found crazed in the fortress prison under the sea, will be sent back to the United States. Relatives live in Rochester, N. Y.

Madeira's interference on Dr. C. S. Harker's behalf resulted from an investigation into conditions in the prison. The physician's health had been so much wrecked before he was transferred again to Chihuahua.

Hulbert was a lawyer in Rochester in 1901, when Mitchell's sister, Helen, was employed in his office. He married the beautiful young girl and soon thereafter was isolated, with William Mitchell, for fraudulent practices in the securities of divorce and for obtaining money under false pretenses.

The three left Rochester a month later "Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Richardson" (identified eventually as Hulbert and his wife) appeared in Chihuahua, where Dr. Harker was already established as medical examiner for an insurance company. "Richardson" became an agent for this company.

Taken to Chihuahua for trial for alleged insurance swindles, nearly four years elapsed before the men actually faced a judge. Their friends had in the meantime become insistent in their behalf, and repeated appeals for interference were made to the state department. Their own attorneys appearing responsible for these and other acts, as action was taken by Washington, and in 1905 the men were convicted and sentenced to be shot.

Harker's wife had in the meantime divorced him. His mother, Mrs. Anna L. Harker of Abilene, Tex., however, never let up in her efforts to save her son and four days before the time set for the execution Jose Maria Sanchez, acting governor of Chihuahua, commuted the sentence. He acted at the direction of Ambassador Croel, the acting governor of the state.

Mrs. Harker was wealthy, and her expenditures in behalf of the physicians were great. Hulbert is said to have been rich himself, and it is known that he spent long years.

LAWRENCE, June 5.—Edward J.
Ward, aged 37, of 24 Methuen street, an ex-councilman, was killed, and William H. Bell, owner of a local saloon, who employed Ward as a bar-o'clock, when an automobile owned and driven by Carl J. Wurtzbacher, a master plumber, skidded and overturned half way between Lawrence

Hawke's Brook.

The three men and James Mitchell,

Haverhill to a restaurant. The road was very slippery from the rain and when the car skidded Wurtzbacher was unable to keep it in the road, with the result that it overturned and crashed into a fence bordering the street car tracks.

Ward was pinned under the machine and his skull crushed. Bell had two legs broken and his legs bruised.
Wurtzbacher and Mitchell were shaken up. The injured men were rushed to the Lawrence General hospital in a private auto, but Ward was dead when taken in. He leaves a wife, Katie,

50 YEARS OF TEACHING

WARD EVERETT SCHOOL, DIST.
OF DORCHESTER, TO RETIRE

BOSTON, June 5.—Henry B. Miner, master of the Edward Everett school, district of Dorchester, who this month completes 50 years of teaching, 45 of which were spent in Boston schools, will retire from active service at the end of the present school term.

Mr. Miner's career both as a teacher and a citizen has been a most brilliant one. Born in Dorchester on Sept. 17, 1843, he was graduated from Brown university, the valedictorian of his class, in 1864, with the degree of A. B. and A. M. He began his half century of teaching in Providence, R. I., in the fall of 1864. The next year he went to Canton, where he was principal of the high school until 1869.
That year he obtained a position as master of the Tileston school, where he remained until 1875, when he was made master of the Edward Everett school.

Throughout his long career he has been actively associated with the various national and local educational organizations. For many years he served as trustee of the Hyde Park public library, and since the incorporation of that town with Boston he has been made a member of the larger Boston library board.

Although 70 years old, Mr. Miner retires still active and alert with his powers unimpaired, and he looks forward to having many years of happiness.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Since the publication in this column, one week ago, of the story of The Sun's libel suit with General Butler as counsel for Mr. Harrington, I have received several requests for the story of the case. On this occasion, I shall reprint an editorial that appeared in The Sun of 25 years ago as follows:

"The generous side of General Butler's character was never more fully exposed than it was the other day when the New York police discovered in the pocket of a man arrested for vagrancy a note from the general stating that he had sent the vagrant $15 without knowing anything about him, and would expect the fellow to show that he was worthy of his help by trying to help himself in the future. Men who are as busy as General Butler and whose time is as valuable, are not in the habit of writing letters of advice to vagrants."

So It Is Today

In its baseball column of a quarter of a century ago The Sun said: "Lowell needs a general on the team."—Lowell Times. General Debitility seems to have full control of the team.

And that's just what Lowell needs at this late day—a general on the team. An old head who can direct the promising but green players. Take a tip from days gone by, Jimmie, and hook onto an experienced head to guide the champs.

In the same column was the following: "Mr. Charles H. Cosgrove, cousin of Frank McWade, just out from Lowell, Mass., is a ball player of a high order. He rather astonishes the boys with his curves and catches."—Waseca (Minn.) Radical.

Ex-Ald. Charlie Cosgrove and his brother, John, both now removed from the city, were first class ball players in their younger days and they also were exceedingly handy with the padded mittens, as many a rising young boxer has learned to his sorrow. A few years ago were given a try-out in Cosgrove's barn, off Merrimack street, and those who got by were fit to do battle with most anyone of their weight.

Had a Coffin Fit

The Sun of a quarter of a century ago had the following: "Joseph Welch, an ex-constable, is now a grocer at the corner of Chelmsford and Pine streets. Sunday morning a coffin was discovered on the steps of his store. The coffin bore an inscription which told the open-mouthed passers that the remains of Welch would be found in the sewer bright and early Monday morning. Welch was as mad as a hatter and he offered to put the coffin-maker in jail if he would only come forward and claim his property. There are some vague rumors that some of Welch's neighbors are sore on him. A short time ago Welch erased the words

'Joseph Welch' from the sign over the door and had 'A. Kimball' painted in as a substitute, although it had not been shown that there had been any change in the ownership." It is evident the editor had formed his own opinion as to why Joseph shifted names, but the change now would indicate that Welch was looking into the future, and crying in the wilderness of word eight he prepared the way for the coming of the Kimball system, which is one of the signs of the present times. It is also evident that the joker who placed the coffin had been reading the daily papers which at that time were filled with the mystery surrounding the murder of Dr. Cronin, the Chicago Irish leader, whose body was found in a catch-basin. But nothing as terrible happened to Mr. Welch-Kimball, for outside of a severe jolt to his feelings he sustained no serious injuries from the jokers.

The Willow Dale Road

The Sun of just a quarter of a century ago was waxing enthusiastic over the progress being made on the railroad tracks which when completed would open Willow Dale and Long Pond to the common people. In a later article I shall describe the grand opening of the popular summer resorts. At the present time I shall simply reprint The Sun's editorial of 25 years ago, as follows:

"Willow Dale and Long Pond, with their wealth of scenery and invigorating breezes, are coming nearer to the common people. Our enterprising street railway men are rushing the tracks for the electric railway and it is very probable that hundreds who have seen the Dale only in dream will be able to do a part of their Fourth of July celebrating on the banks of the lake at Willow Dale. The railway men have ordered 15 cars for the new branch and say they will be able to accommodate 1500 people every hour. It will take about 20 minutes to make the outward trip, including stops at Collinsville and Long Pond. It is a great enterprise, this Willow Dale road, and the common people will derive the greatest benefit."

Thus it was a great enterprise and the common people coughed up a quarter for the round trip without a murmur. Today the round trip is down to a dime, 1500 people can be accommodated in 15 minutes or less, and none sees anything great about it.

Great Day of Sports

At the games of the U. S. Running Cricket club, at South Lowell, on Memorial day, one frequently heard the enthusiastic expression: "This looks like the old days when track and field athletics drew great crowds," and the hope was frequently expressed that the Buntings would follow up the event with others of a similar nature. The old Sun informs us that just 25 years ago the boys of St. Patrick's school on the occasion of their field and athletic events at the Riverside park drew a crowd of 3500. Look over the names and see who were some of the promising athletes of a quarter of a century ago. The old Sun in its story of the event first describes the parade of the St. Patrick's Cadets, the ball players and the athletes and then proceeds to the account of the sports as follows: "The sports opened shortly after 2 o'clock. Brother Angelus and the other brothers were everywhere looking after the little boys. Michael J. Dowd was master of ceremonies, James J. Courtney starter, and the following gentlemen were judges: Messrs. Joseph Dunn, Michael Donohue, Michael Ward, John J. Loneragan, John Condon, Thomas Kane and Martin J. Courtney. There were 15 sports, including a game of ball. The following pupils were entered in the sports, not including the ball game: James O'Connor, James Halloran, J. McCluskey, W. Finnich, F. Delaney, R. McCluskey, J. Meehan, J. Brogan, J. Dunfee, E. Saunders, T. Johnson, F. Looney, W. Tighe, J. Collins, J. McKelha, T. Pendergast, R. Taylor, E. Mullin, J. Costello, J. Lyons, J. O'Hearn, F. Riley, J. O'Sullivan, M. Corcoran, J. Mahoney, C. Mitchell and Smith Adams."

All the sports were well contested and the winners had to work their best points to win. The running high jump was one of the best features of the day, the height being 4 feet 2 inches. The following list tells the winners:

Hundred yards dash, Frank Looney, 1st; J. McCluskey, 2nd; Richard McCluskey, 3rd.

Putting 20 pound weight, Joseph Brogan, 1st; James McCluskey, 2nd; Smith Adams, 3rd.

Hop, step and jump, W. Tighe, 1st; Frank Looney, 2nd; Halloran, 3rd.

Running high jump, Frank Looney, 1st; J. Halloran, 2nd; W. Tighe, 3rd; 4 feet, 2 inches.

Obstacle race, J. Halloran, 1st; F. Looney, 2nd; J. Brogan, 3rd.

Three legged race, Looney and Halloran, 1st; O'Connor and Pendergast, 2nd; R. McCluskey and Meehan, 3rd.

Wheelbarrow race, F. Looney, 1st; J. Halloran, 2nd; J. McCluskey, 3rd.

Boys' race, John Ford, 1st; Edward Baker, 2nd.

Points, Looney, 60; J. Halloran, 30; J. Brogan, 15; J. McCluskey, 13; W. Tighe, 12; R. McCluskey, 11; O'Connor, 10; T. Pendergast, 9; Smith Adams, 8; J. Meehan, 7.

The ball game was between the famous old Columbians and the St. Mary's of Lawrence and was won by the St. Mary's by a score of 5 to 4. The lineup of the teams was as follows:

Columbians: Donohue, 2B; Flynn, c; W. Rourke, 1B; Heeland, rf; Mack, 1B; Corcoran, 3B; Harrahan, cf; J. Rourke, ss; Shea, p.

St. Mary's: Riley, c; Carter, p; O'Connell, ss; White, 1B; Halley, 2B; McDonald, 3B; Ford, 1B; Bateman, cf; Sullivan, rf.

How They Ran Afterward

Those boy athletes of a quarter of a century ago proved to be the making of some fine athletes, in different fields. In later years, Frank Looney and Billy Tighe stuck to the athletic game and Looney was subsequently crowned the amateur champion athlete of the state while Billy Tighe could make the best of them go. John Meehan, Smith Adams and Jack Mulaney proved themselves to be good runners in the political games of more recent years and Mulhany, like Niagara, is running yet. Dick McCluskey afterward was a Holy Cross crack athlete, but now he is content to run an auto. Jim Dunfee runs down from Pawtucketville every morning in order to get into city hall before Mayor Murphy. Joe Brogan shortly afterward went down to St. Mary's college, in Maryland and entered the annual barbeque games, at the College. He didn't lose anything, for the honors came to Lowell nevertheless. The late Frank Sullivan of Suffolk street, a brother of Martin Sullivan, the once famous ball player, was the all-round champion of St. Mary's in those days. A year later John Dyer, of this city, who lived on Summer street showed his heels to a big field of starters at the Mountain in the one hundred yards dash, while the late John Teague, of this city, son of the late Patrick Teague was another of St. Mary's athletes. Some years later the late Danilo Murphy, son of J. J. Murphy held up Lowell's reputation for athletes at the same college.

The late James McCluskey was a brother of Dr. Richard McCluskey, and was a most promising athlete, and

Looney in World's Record

Frank Looney, the former athlete who won the day on the occasion mentioned above has the distinction of having participated in an event in which a world's record was recorded, although he didn't make the record himself, while the old Lowell Fair grounds had the distinction of being the scene of one world's record event. Benjie

Wefers had shortly before established a new world's record for 100 yards, 9.4-5 seconds and was the king-pin of short distance runners. A track and field event was held at the Fair grounds under the auspices of either St. Patrick's church or the Burke Temperance Institute, and Wefers was present as the star attraction. At that time Frank Looney was the fastest runner in Lowell and there were few elsewhere who could beat him. Some of Wefers' friends on this day made the statement that Wefers could give Looney ten yards in 100 and Looney's friends took up the proposition without consulting Frank, knowing his gameness. Looney was willing to take the chance, but when the proposition was put up to Wefers he balked on the ten-in-a-hundred handicap, but did say he would give Looney ten in 110, so that Looney would have to run 110 yards instead of 90, while he would go 110 instead of 100. Looney took him up again and lost the race by a very close margin, Wefers making the distance in 11 seconds flat and establishing a world's record for 110 yards. The event was held under the sanction of the A. A. U.

and the A. A. U. timers recorded the record as official. It was sent all over the country and Frank received a national reputation if he didn't have one before. This record stood until Sept. 6, 1910, when the Irish runner, R. Cloughen, clipped one-fifth of a second off Wefers' mark, at Celtic park, New York, establishing a record of 10.4-5 seconds for 110 yards, which stands today.

Business Booming at the Big Store

The month of May just closed was a record breaker from start to finish—every week, almost every day, business showed a gain over May of last year, and the last day, "Friday," beat out the "Saturday" of last year by several hundred dollars.

What we did in May we propose to do in June--

Here's a starter for the first week

MACHINE GUN CO.

Held First Reunion at Armory—Inspected by U. S. Officer

The first reunion of the new machine gun company, connected with the Sixth regiment, M. V. M. of this city, took place last night at the state armory in Westford street, the occasion being an inspection by Major John W. Harvey of the U. S. army.

The new company consists of 45 men and its equipment among other accessories will consist of 25 mules for hauling purposes. The company is in charge of Capt. Lewis G. Hanten and Lieut. Wilfred C. MacBrayne. Present at the inspection was also Col. Cyrus Cook of the Sixth regiment.

The men appeared on the floor carrying their tents and blankets over their shoulders and fully dressed in khaki uniforms with the regulation slouch hat. Each had his knapsack and canteen. At the conclusion of the inspection Major Harvey addressed the men and explained to them the uses of the machine gun which fires with great rapidity 30 rounds being loaded at a time. The major spoke at length on the work of the new company on the battlefield and his remarks were listened to with great interest.

WRECK OPERATOR TALKS

SAYS ONLY 5 MINUTES WERE ALLOWED TO CALL ASSISTANCE—FOUR VICTIMS BURIED

QUEBEC June 5—Only eight minutes were allowed Donald Ferguson, the Emperor of Ireland's wireless operator, within which to call for assistance before the dynamo failed, according to his story yesterday.

Ferguson went down with the ship, but came up and after swimming around for three-quarters of an hour was picked up.

The application of the owners of the collier Stord, which rammed and sank the Emperor, to be permitted to file a bond in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway company's claim for $2,000,000 and to be allowed to leave the port of Montreal, was yesterday postponed until next Monday by agreement of counsel.

Among the identities established of bodies of the Emperor's dead yesterday were those of Albert Anderson, John Kuvaleky and John Tepawec. They were buried in the Jewish cemetery.

The body of Sir Henry Selton-Karr, the noted big game hunter, was quietly buried yesterday with only a handful of mourners in attendance.

Doherty, leader of the opposition in the provincial legislature, against Sir John A. Macdonald and members of his government opened today. An Absolute Fact

I don't know how to express myself properly, to tell the people of Lowell how I feel over their magnificent vote of confidence on Friday of last week and Monday and Tuesday of this week.

The end of the month with rent bills due, with a double holiday, Saturday and Sunday, with the mills shut down from Friday night to Monday morning, with a broken week and a broken pay envelope, you flocked into my store last Friday and again Monday from all Lowell.

I knew I had the magnet in the form of phenomenal bargains---but what's that, a concern can have all the bargains in the land but if the people don't believe it, they won't come in to see the bargains. I never worry about selling a man, if he calls to investigate. I have the goods at the price, all the time to sell the average person---but when I take the notion to break prices, why I can sell the tightest pocketbook that the high cost of living ever produced.

Many of you need custom clothing---money must be an object with you if quality is convincingly present. You saw me advertise this special shipment of Worsteds in last week's Sun for $15.00, Suit to order. You see me advertising it today for $12.50 Suit to Order.

You broke all expectations last Friday and Monday, the way you came in and then bought. Break all records again this week. You deserve the bargains, the merchandise at the price deserves your trade and I deserve your business for daring to mark such quality within the reach of all.

HOUSE DAMAGED $500

DWELLING OF MRS. SPRAGUE ON CHAPEL STREET SCENE OF LIVERLY BLAZE

Fire which threatened to destroy the two-story house at 74-76 Chapel street broke out in the rear part of the building shortly before 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon as reported in our late edition and before the blaze had been placed under control the dwelling, and contents had been damaged to the extent of $500. Part of the building, which is owned by Mrs. Eliza F. Sprague, was badly gutted and the loss is estimated at over $500, while considerable damage was done to Mrs. Sprague's furniture and that of Stephen Laughton, the other occupant of the house.

The origin of the fire is not known, although it is believed that it started from a gas stove which was used at noon. Shortly after 4 o'clock, neighbors heard a sort of an explosion in the rear of the Laughton tenement and a few seconds later smoke was seen pouring from the doors and windows of the house. In a few minutes the flames burst forth from all the windows and it appeared hopeless to save the property. However, an alarm was rung in from box 225, at the corner of Central and Mill streets, and in a remarkably short time the fire apparatus was on the scene with District Chief Sullivan in charge, and faced a difficult task.

The fire made rapid headway for in the very short time after the alarm was sounded the flames had worked through the partitions into the second floor and threatened to enter a third attic, but their progress was soon checked upon the arrival of the firemen and the damage was confined to two rooms in the rear of the Laughton tenement, although volumes of smoke had poured through other parts of the house and destroyed furniture.

No one was in the house at the time the fire started, but one of the occupants was home at noon and used the gas stove which was in the part of the house where the fire originated. The Laughton family returned from work shortly after 6 o'clock and stated that their furniture was not insured. Mrs. Sprague carried insurance through Fred C. Church.

40 YEARS A PRIEST

REV. JAMES N. SUPPLE, CHARLES-OWN PASTOR, PRESENTED $5540 AS HONOR OF OCCASION

BOSTON, June 5.—Rev. James N. Supple, pastor of St. Francis de Sales church, Charlestown, was last night presented a check for $5540 at the celebration held at the armory on Bunker Hill street in honor of the 40th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Father Supple was so overcome with emotion that it was some time before he could respond and as he arose to talk he was greeted with tremendous applause by the 3000 persons present. Governor Walsh was present and adressed the gathering, as did District Attorney Pelletier and ex-Mayor Fitzgerald. A poem was read by Dr. John T. Gallagher and the presentation of the check was made by Luke D. Sullivan.

Father Supple in responding to the gift said that he could scarcely find words to express his thanks to his people, all of whom were near and dear to him.

Father Supple has been in Charlestown for 25 years, succeeding his brother, the late Rev. Michael J. Supple. He was ordained May 20, 1874, and was first assigned to South Boston, then to St. Stephen's, North End, from there he went to Charlestown.

HOW TO CARE FOR LAWN

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—Lawn should be cut "long" so that the roots will be protected and the grass will grow more luxuriantly. This means, says the department of agriculture's landscape gardener, that the lawn mower should be set just as high as it will go.

Lawns should be cut frequently and in ordinary cases where the cuttings are normal they should be left where they fall, notwithstanding the common opinion of the energetic person who follows up his cuttings by raking with an iron rake. Lawns should never be raked with an iron rake, except to prepare them for the sowing of grass seed, for such raking turns up the soil. Neither should they be swept.

If the diligent caretaker of a lawn must follow up the cutting by some other operation, only a wooden rake should be used, and this should be employed carefully so as not to disturb such of the grass as clippings as have settled down around the roots. These grass clippings that settle around the roots afford them a very important protection and will do much to keep the lawn in fine condition when there is lack of rain later in the season, for they will hold the moisture and act as a shield from the sun. In fact, the grass cuttings are generally needed about the roots, and should not be removed from the lawn, for they soon rot, dry up and work their way down, so that they are no longer noticed. Grasses are naturally self-cleaning plants and are liable to be harmed by the hot sun about the roots.

THREE MILLION GALS. VALUED AT $4,000,000 IN SIX MONTHS UNDER NEW TARIFF

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Imports of edible olive oil into the United States during the first six months under the new tariff aggregated 3,000,000 gallons valued at $4,000,000, or equal to the value of any year's imports down to and including 1905. During the decade 1894-1913, the aggregate imports of this article, as shown by the official figures of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, amounted to 23,000,000 gallons, valued at $42,000,000, an annual average of only slightly in excess of the record made by the last six months. These figures are exclusive of olive oil fit only for manufacturing or mechanical purposes, denatured by the addition of nitrobenzine or oil of rosemary. Of this oil, obtained chiefly from Italy and Greece, the imports range from one million to nearly two million gallons annually.

The high food value of olive oil is a subject to which attention has frequently been directed in consular reports and in bulletins of the department of agriculture, and the cultivation of the olive in California has already assumed important proportions.

The domestic production of olive oil has not, however, been sufficient to meet the demand in this country, and a large proportion of the consumption is supplied by the imported article. Italy is the chief source of supply, imports from that country ranging from two million gallons in 1903 to three and one-half millions in 1913. Of French olive oil the imports have ruled slightly under one million gallons, compared with 300,000 gallons from Spain, 225,000 from Greece, and 125,000 from about 15 other countries, including Turkey, England, Scotland, Canada, Cuba, Austria-Hungary, Germany, The Netherlands, Portugal and Tripoli.

HOG CHOLERA CURES

GOVERNMENT HAS NOT APPROVED ANY TREATMENT EXCEPT THE PROTECTIVE SERUM

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Evidence of what appears to be a well organized campaign to delude farmers throughout the country into buying an alleged cure for hog cholera, under the impression that this has been investigated and approved by the United States government, has reached the department of agriculture. Articles praising this medicine, Benetol by name, are being sent out widespread to newspapers. These articles are so worded that it appears as if the department of agriculture had received reports from the state of Minnesota showing that the medicine had proved most beneficial. As a matter of fact the one report received by the department was an unofficial and unsolicited statement sent presumably from the promoters themselves. The department attaches no importance whatsoever to this statement. It has no reason to believe in the efficiency of any proprietary cure for hog cholera, and does not recommend any. Under certain conditions it urges farmers to protect their stock with anti-hog cholera serum, but that is all.

In connection with this attempt it may be said that the medicine, which is now put forward as good for hogs, was advertised some time ago as a means of killing tuberculosis, typhoid and cancer germs, according to an article published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. At that time it was asserted that the army was interested in it. As a matter of fact the army was no more interested than the department of agriculture. In view of the evidence that the attempt to create this false impression is persistent and widespread, all hog owners are warned to communicate with the United States authorities before accepting as true any statement that the government recommends any treatment other than the serum already mentioned.

INVESTIGATE DISASTER FISH REFUSE TO BITE

LORD MERSEY OF TONTETH TO AID IN INQUIRY OF EMPRESS OF IRELAND LOSS

sey of Tonteth a member of the court of inquiry into the disaster which caused the loss of the steamship Empress of Ireland and more than 1000 lives. Lord Mersey was president of the British commission which investigated the Titanic tragedy. He will sail for Canada in a few days.

MILE IN 4 MIN., 18-5 SEC. BOSTON, June 5.—James A. Power, the Boston Athletic association runner, holder of the Pacific coast and Australian records for the one mile run, will enter Georgetown university next fall, he announced last night. Power's fastest mile was 4 minutes, 18-5 seconds.

BOSTON, June 5.—Fifty thousand fish, supposed to be inhabiting the waters of the Charles River basin, have evidently gone on a hunger strike. Several hundred patient Bostonians have learned during the last few days that the fish in the basin are refusing food as persistently and as bravely as the most ardent British suffragette, and not to be outdone by mere fish, the anglers are threatening to go on a "hunger strike."

The hunger strike theory is disputed, however, by many members of the metropolitan police force who are stationed at the Charles river dam. Notwithstanding the fact that the fish and game commission placed 50,000 fish in the waters of the basin, the policemen believe very few fish are there now.

If there is a hunger strike among the fish at least 50 have shown themselves to be weaklings, and have nibbled at the bait offered by the anglers. Since the fishing started Monday there has been a steady increase in the numbers caught. The first day there were only nine catches, and each day since then there has been an improvement.

The metropolitan police declare that an average of from 50 to 75 fishermen have tried their luck since the law gave them permission to do so last Monday. Many of them are apparently men who are in poor circumstances and who are trying to combat the high cost of living by finding their own food.

Dr. George W. Field, chairman of the state fish and game commission, is at a loss to understand why the fish do not bite. It is possible, he says, that they may be overfed, and are consequently not hungry. The fact that few fish are declared to be no indication that no fish are there.

It is hoped that many more thousands of fish will be placed in the dam within the next few months. At present, however, there is a lack of funds, the commission having at its disposal but $500 to supply fish for 875 lakes and streams throughout the state.

A survey is being made of streams at this time with a view to studying how the fish yield may be developed. An effort will be made, Dr. Fields says, to make the waters of the commonwealth as productive as the land, and thus in some part reduce the present high living cost.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Get the cunning of "The Master Mind" at the B. F. Keith theatre today and tomorrow. It is interpreted by the greatest living exponent of middle-aged character, Edmund Breese, who was the original "John Burket" in "The Lion and the Mouse." Breese, in his conception of the man who was kidnapped by crooks when a boy and who developed into the surest-thinking, coolest, most imperturbable villain of his time, has given something which will rank with Gillette's "Sherlock Holmes" and Bellows' "Raffles." The play is shown in five reels, with 212 separate scenes, and every scene carries the play on a step, and develops a stronger punch than the one delivered previously. The maze of story leaves an audience wholly unsatisfied, and asking for more, right to the very end. The final scene, in which love conquers over intense hatred, is full of pathos. The supporting company of Mr. Breese is up to the highest standard. It is a photodrama which gets one, and gets him hard. Do not fail to see it. There are other features to the show, and all for ten cents.

LABOR WAR PREDICTED

BOSTON, June 5.—The possibility of war admits the possibility of war with ourselves," said Major Benjamin A. Poore, U. S. A., a member of the general staff of the war college at Washington, in an address before the officers and men of the First Corps Cadets in their armory last night.

The major had been talking of the unrest among the working classes and of the spread of radical doctrines among the 20,000,000 aliens who have come into the country of late years. Avoiding mention of any specific labor trouble, he pointed out that the best way to maintain peace is to be prepared for war.

"We are on the verge, if not at the beginning of a great conflict now," he added.

Maj. Poore was introduced by Acting Adjutant-General Cole, who is a major in the corps.

Maj. Poore said the nation was built on force inasmuch as most of the land was taken from the Indians, or from foreign nations, either by a show of force or by actually using it. The insular possessions were acquired in this way, he said. They were taken by force and are held by force.

He then pointed out that some of these possessions would not long remain under this government. If this government did not have the strength to hold them, the problem of war and the problem of preventing war is the same, he added, and scoffed at the idea of world peace.

"For a successful war a country must have money, and this country's credit is good for any amount," he said. "For a war with a first-class power we would have to raise 1,000,000 men, and the militia and regular army could furnish barely 200,000. The remaining 800,000 men would have to be raised from the wage earning class, of which there are 6,000,000 in this country."

"The enlistment of the wage-earners would mean a loss of production, 11 per cent. of them were killed every year, and that is a small number for a big war, that would be 100,000 less producers. The war college has figured out that a two-year war would cost the nation $5,000,000. This does not include the pensions during the 50 years after."

"The regular army ought to be increased to a mobile force of 150,000 men. Military men are looking forward to the time when congress shall give us an adequate army. The army and navy are not anxious for war. I believe that every sensible man believes in arbitration."

"There are some things, however, for which we must stand firmly. We are bound by treaty obligations and also bound to observe neutrality between other nations at war."

"When war comes, let us be strong enough to afford to arbitrate and not weak enough to require it."

SUSPECT IN PEASLEE MURDER CASE ATTEMPTS AN ALIBI—MAKES FIRST STATEMENT

CONCORD, N. H., June 5.—Eugene Wood, the farm hand held in the jail here, charged with the murder at Henniker of Howard W. Peaslee, toy maker, made his first complete statement yesterday of his doings the night of the murder on May 22.

Complete denial of any part in the affair is made by Wood, who says he was not in that part of the town in which the Peaslees live at any time that night. He says:

"On the night Peaslee was slain I had supper at 6 o'clock. I sat on the porch for a while at Mattie Annis', where I boarded. I talked with the other lodgers for a while and then I walked down the street with McDonald, one of the boarders."

"My stomach troubled me and I had cramps. I went to a doctor to get some brandy. He gave me a prescription, but when I went down to the drug store to get the prescription filled they would not give me the liquor."

"For a while I sat on the porch in front of the Riverside hotel, talking with Bishop and Bailey. I had such a pain in my stomach that I thought I would take a walk and see if that would not ease it off."

"It was about 8:30 when I crossed the stone bridge and I walked slowly along Bridge street and up Depot hill. Then I returned, walking at my usual gait. I next met Bailey at the porch in front of the Riverside hotel again a few minutes before 9 o'clock. We talked a few minutes and I started for home."

"I heard the 9 o'clock whistle blow and saw the lights go out in Whitney's drug store at the corner. I saw Armstrong, the blacksmith, and two other men talking in front of the store. I walked to my boarding house and went to bed. I was in bed at 9:30."

"I did not go over to the other part of the town. I was nowhere near Peaslee's place; I had nothing to do with the murder and I was sorry when I heard of it."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Court Wamesit, F. of A., met in its rooms in the Odd Fellows building last evening. The meeting was largely attended. Routine business for the most part was transacted. The question of amalgamation with other courts came up and was approved. The body appointed a committee on amalgamation, which is as follows: William A. Kelley, James White, F. E. Garvey and John Maguire. James Farley was appointed chairman of the outing committee. The outing will take place at Gannon's farm, Belle Grove, in August. William A. Kelley, regent, gave an instructive talk on the good of the order. On the evening of June 15 there will be a meeting of special interest to all the members.

Lowell S. Council, Royal Arcanum

Lowell S. Council, Royal Arcanum held a largely attended meeting in Odd Fellows hall, in Middlesex street, last night. Considerable important business was transacted and four new members were initiated. John J. Hogan, supreme trustee, who spoke at the meeting of industry council Wednesday evening, was the principal speaker. He dwelt on the many changes in laws made at the convention held at the Hotel Marlborough, New York City. He stated that these changes would be of much benefit to the members, especially the older ones. After Mr. Hogan's address a "smoker" was enjoyed and an enjoyable musical program gone through with. Regent E. E. I. White gave an interesting talk on the good of the order. The bowling tournament which has kept the members in friendly rivalry since March will be brought to a close the latter part of this month. A monster banquet has been arranged for many speakers will be presented the winning team on that night. The leading team is now captained by J. Perron, but he is closely followed by team 1, captained by Horace Paradis.

Order of Owls Held Meeting

Order of Owls held its regular business meeting at its quarters in new Ellis hall last evening. There was the usual large attendance with President J. E. MacCallum in the chair. Both membership committees presented a large number of names of candidates for membership and the two teams are about even again.

The banquet which will be given by the membership team during July promises to be a social event of much importance in the history of the Lowell Nest. Several out-of-town owls are to be invited, and many speeches will be heard. Invitations will be given the supreme officers of the order, and it is hoped that some of these will be accepted.

The "young" Owls of the Nest have leased a cottage at Crystal Lake for the season. The place will be known as the "Owl's Rest" and will be equipped with every convenience for summer camp-life.

Besides the regular routine of lodge work a large class was initiated and at the close of the meeting the newly initiated members were accorded an enthusiastic reception.

But five cases of sickness were reported by the sick-visiting committee. Bro. James Herdman who has been confined to the Lowell hospital for several weeks with a broken leg, is getting along nicely and will be able to leave for home in a few days.

A rising vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Merrill for courtesies and kindnesses recently shown the Lowell Nest. Mrs. Merrill is the widow of the late Frank Merrill who instituted the Lowell Nest in 1909.

EDUCATED IN FACTORY

IMMIGRANT GIRLS ALLOWED TO STUDY WHILE PAY WENT ON IN NEW YORK PLANT

NEW YORK, June 5.—Forty young immigrant girls employed in a muslin garment factory, who a year ago were unable to express their thoughts in English or write their names legibly, were last night awarded certificates of literacy at the first graduation exercises ever held in this city in an industrial plant as an extension of the public school system.

The exercises were conducted by the board of education in the recreation room of the factory.

The girls ranged in years from 15 to 25. Their schooling was not compulsory. For three hours every day they were taught in the factory and while they studied their pay went on. The firm acknowledges that it has benefited in efficiency.

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Middlesex County Investigation Bill Killed — Teachers' Tenure Bill Advanced

BOSTON, June 5.—Gov. Walsh's veto of the bill providing for the reinstatement of Reuben J. Phillips as a member of the Metropolitan park police was sustained yesterday by the Massachusetts house of representatives, 168 to 14. This is the measure which the governor characterized in his veto message as "indefensible legislation."

In the 14 who sought to pass the bill over the governor's veto were several democrats, including Lomasney of Ward 5, Niland and Doyle of East Boston and John J. Cummings of Dorchester.

There was little debate. Mr. Favenport and Mr. Barnes advocating passage of the bill over the veto and Messrs. Cox and Butfield urging that the governor be supported.

When the resolve to provide that in connection with the decennial census the names of all residents of the state over 21 years of age be recorded came up for debate Mr. Merrill, the socialist member, offered an amendment that the names of those between 18 and 60 be taken. Mr. Carr introduced an amendment limiting it to 25 years. The purpose of the bill is to learn the number of dependents over 65 years of age. The Merrill and Carr amendments were rejected and the resolve was passed to be engrossed.

Teachers' Tenure Bill

The so-called teachers' tenure act, which provides that public school teachers and superintendents may not be discharged without a sufficient notice and without cause, was passed to a third reading on a rollcall, 137 to 19.

This action was not taken until the question was debated at length and these proposed amendments rejected: (By Mr. Cobb) exempting Boston from the provisions of the act; (by Mr. Greenwood) removing the reference in the bill to superintendents; (by Mr. Harrington of Fall River) changing the bill to make it possible for a majority instead of two-thirds of the school board to dismiss a teacher.

The bill was opposed by Mr. Cross, who said that it made it difficult for a school committee to get rid of an undesirable teacher. Mr. Mulvey favored the bill, saying that it gave the teachers protection that they are entitled to and saved them from the mental unrest to which they are now subjected.

Mr. Napoleon opposed the bill to allow street railway companies to issue evidences of indebtedness for funding the cost of replacement or reconstruction to an amount up to 120 per cent of their capital stock. Messrs. Washburn, Robinson of Chelsea, Burdick and Hills favored the bill.

There was a rollcall and the bill was ordered to engrossment, 98 to 87. Mr. Cox, who was then acting as speaker, casting the deciding vote.

Middlesex Co. Investigation

The house rejected the bill to provide for a commission to investigate the government and financial condition of Middlesex county by a tie vote, 103 to 103.

The amendment to the bill establishing a state forestry commission, which amendment provided for the pinching of the work in the hands of the state forester, was rejected and the original bill was passed to be engrossed.

In the Senate

The Massachusetts senate held a brief session yesterday afternoon, at the close of which the members proceeded to Nantasket, where a dinner was tendered to Pres. Calvin Coolidge.

The senate rejected the bill which provided that no one be allowed to carry firearms without a permit or license from the local authorities. The vote was 12 to 7. This measure had already passed the lower branch, where it was the source of much animated discussion.

Senator Morgan had taken from the table the adverse report on the petition for a constitutional convention, and the matter was postponed until today. The same senator secured reconsideration of the vote of Wednesday whereby the senate accepted on special report of the committee on social welfare on the bill providing for the inclusion of draftsmen and their assistants in the Laborers' retirement act. Further action was postponed to Wednesday.

Senator Gordon had taken from the table the motion to instruct the committee on rules to report forthwith on the provisions of the act, Feb. 17, for an opinion of the supreme court on the powers of the general court to call a constitutional convention. As the committee reported yesterday, the motion, which has been on the table since March 4, was rejected.

These committee reports were received: Banks and Banking—No legislation necessary, on the recommendations of the bank commissioner on the matter of cooperative banks.

Ways and Means—Ought not to pass on the bill to make the salary of the judge of the central district court of Worcester $1500; ought to pass, amended bill to increase the salaries of porters of the state house to $850 from the passage of the act; ought to pass, resolve to authorize the mayor of Boston to pay an annuity of $150 to Pan-ma S. Butler, descendant of the Wampanoag tribe of Indians, for the remainder of her life, but beginning on the passage of the act.

Rules—Ought to be adopted, the order for an opinion of the supreme court on the powers of the general

A Few Words to Near-Boston Men

THERE are several good long stories back of what Boston men find at the end of a half-minute journey up the Filene escalator to their own clothes shop. Much the same sort of story as might be told about

Why Uncle Sam built the Panama canal after France failed—

Why certain steamship lines take you across seas in less time and in more comfort than others—

Why certain manufacturers turn out more and better automobiles, year after year, than others—

Why certain banks get and deserve the public's confidence and the public's money.

Long stories, these—too long to be told in a half-minute ad-talk. As for these Filene men's clothes shops, there is nothing accidental about the fact that they are able to provide such exceptional togs, made-ready or made-to-measure, at such surprisingly reasonable prices.

This is accomplished for reasons just as deep and broad and solid as the reasons back of the canal, the steamships, the automobiles, the banks.

FOREST FACTS

Striking facts regarding our forest resources, their value and their waste, are condensed in an eight-page illustrated circular of the American forestry association just issued. The lumber industry is said to employ 725,000 people, to whom are paid annually $367,000,000 in wages, the worth of products being $1,250,000,000. The forests of the country cover 550,000,000 acres.

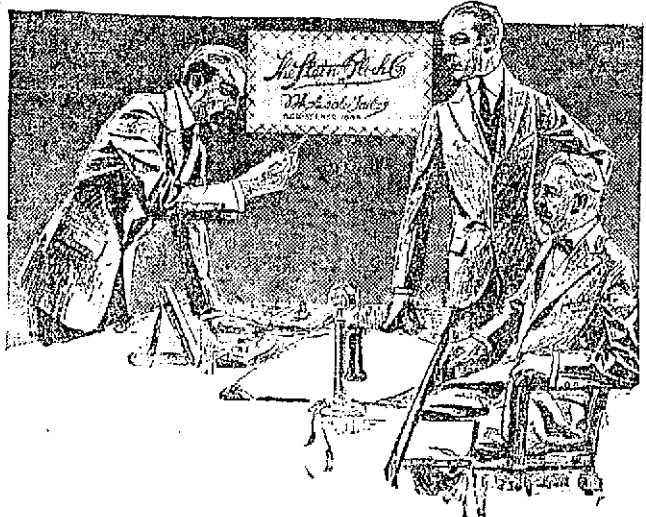

An average of 70 human lives are sacrificed annually in forest fires, says the circular, and a loss occurs of $25,000,000. Damage from insects and tree diseases, which follow fire, costs each year $50,000,000. The cost of destruction resulting from floods is not estimated, but is given as "countless millions."

But the circular expresses hope more than pessimism. As well as the colored pictures showing the forest fire, the effects of the fire, and the damage caused by floods, it shows also forests planted and grown under intensive management, and the nation's forest ranger scouting for fires on the mountain lookout station. The effective patrol here referred to has reduced "forest fire losses to as low as one-tenth of one cent an acre."

ABDUL MOHAMED SAVED

BOSTON, June 5.—Abdul Mohamed, a lascor fireman on the Bucknall liner Katuna, which came in yesterday from the Far East, jumped overboard while the freighter was crossing the Gulf of Aden, and started to swim to Mecca, 300 miles away. Capt. Jackson thought it was an attempt at suicide.

The steamer was turned about, a lifeboat was lowered away and in five minutes Abdul was back on board. He is said to be champion swimmer of Colombo and declared he could swim to Mecca without the least trouble. The Katuna officers thought otherwise, and besides if Abdul left it would have been a clear case of desertion. So he remained on board.

The Katuna picked up a million-dollar cargo of tea, gunnies, hides and general merchandise at Rangoon, Calcutta, Ceylon and Colombo, calling at Oran for coal. The passage from Gibraltar was negotiated in 11 days and 12 hours, which is believed to be a record for a freighter.

About half the cargo will be unloaded here and the steamer will leave tomorrow evening for New York to discharge the balance. Bubonic plague was prevalent at Colombo, and the week ending the day the steamer left there were eight deaths from the disease.

CONG. JONES IS ACTIVE

ONE OF THE STRONGEST ADVOCATES FOR FREEDOM FOR THE PHILIPPINES

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Limited self government of a territorial character for the Philippines, with a view to complete independence of the islands in the indefinite future, when the natives have demonstrated their capacity, is proposed in a bill drawn up by Rep. William A. Jones of Virginia, chairman of the insular affairs committee. The bill is in strict accordance with the democratic platform. Several bills in the past have recommended the adoption of a definite date—the most popular being July 4, 1920—for granting independence. Mr. Jones leaves this to the natives themselves, stipulating that this government should turn affairs over to them as soon as they have proved their ability to run a government.

FORCES WAY TO KING

Militant in Court at Palace Cries "For God's Sake, Your Majesty, Do Not Use Force"

LONDON, June 4.—The most astounding incident in the history of the militant suffragettes of Great Britain occurred last night when, in spite of the most extraordinary precautions, a militant succeeded in reaching the presence of the king at the court held at Buckingham Palace.

Throwing herself on her knees before the king and queen, she shouted: "Your Majesty, for God's sake, do not use force!"

The woman was attired in court dress, and her action caused profound astonishment. She continued to address the king, but her words were inaudible, as the conductor of the band in the gallery, quick to observe the incident, signalled to the band to play louder, and the woman's voice was drowned.

She was immediately removed from the room and handed over to the police. The name of the woman is not known, and close inquiries are being made as to how she obtained a card of admission.

The scene, which gave a shock to those in the immediate vicinity of the royal circle, was very brief, and the assemblage had scarcely any knowledge of what was going on.

Whether the woman was one of the invited guests who sympathized with the suffrage movement or an intruder who gained admission to the court by force, and is still unknown.

It is difficult, however, to imagine how any person could have gained access to the court on a forged invitation as the police had knowledge of a conspiracy to approach the royal presence, and every guest and every carriage arriving at Buckingham Palace last night had been subjected to a close inspection by a host of detectives—a unique precaution and one that caused considerable delay and not a little indignation or irritation in court circles.

Last night's incident is calculated to produce a feeling of still greater exasperation in the public mind and renewed demands for strong measures to suppress the suffragette agitation.

Among those presented to the king and queen were Miss Esther Cleveland of Princeton, daughter of the late Governor Cleveland; Ralph Page, son of the American ambassador, and Mrs. Ralph Page; Mrs. Edward Bell, wife of the second secretary of the American embassy; Mrs. Randolph Moreland and Miss Margaret Pennington, both of Baltimore; Miss Dorothy Doubleday of New York and Miss Mary Sanger of Sangerfield, N. Y.

Late editions of the London morning papers publish different versions of the court incident. The Daily Mail says: "Just before 11 o'clock the court was started by a well-modulated voice crying: 'Your Majesty, for God's sake, do not use force!'"

Immediately two gentlemen of the court stepped forward, and it was seen that a handsome young woman, attired in black, was on her knees, with hands stretched toward the king. The officials raised her and without censure on her part escorted her out. Neither the king nor any member of the royal circle paid the slightest interest to the incident.

According to the Daily Chronicle the demonstration was made by two titled ladies, sympathizers with the suffragette movement, both of whom had been previously presented at court and were entitled to cards for all court functions. When in the royal presence, they raised their voices in a demand that the vote be conceded to women.

Court officials intervened and escorted them to an anteroom to await their automobiles and they were then conducted beyond the palace precincts.

KING'S SON GUARDED
LONDON, June 5.—Militant suffragettes have forced King George to supply a body guard of Scotland Yard detectives for his third son, Prince Henry, 14 years old.

Information that the boy was in danger of being kidnapped caused the royal father to send to Eton, where the young prince is studying, special men who know all of the principal militants.

Prince Henry, like all students at Eton, has a room for his exclusive use. This room now is guarded continually. He has a giant tutor, Farnell, by name. The boy is a "dry bob," which is the term for Etonites who take their exercises on land instead of the water. The prince was advised to keep out of water sports to avoid danger being abducted in a suffrage motor boat.

On account of suffrage activities King George has been compelled to abandon his daily horseback ride in Rotten Row. It is stated the patience of the government has been exhausted and that the law officers of the crown are considering what action shall be taken against subscribers to the funds of the Women's Social and Political Union, a complete list of whom was discovered in the recent raid on the London headquarters.

Mrs. Pankhurst has taken a house in Grosvenor Place from which she is able to overlook the grounds of Buckingham Palace. This arouses considerable anxiety to the police.

MY TIRED FEET
ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let your sore, swollen, sweaty feet spread out in a bath of "TIZ."

Just couldn't wait to take my bat off!

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-cramped, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "TIZ" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "TIZ" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "TIZ." Its grand-its glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "TIZ." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25 cent box of "TIZ" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.

EDUCATION IN ARMY

"NO COUNTRY HAS AS COMPLETE A SYSTEM FOR OFFICERS AS UNITED STATES," SAYS REPORT

How Uncle Sam keeps the officers and men in his army up to the top notch of efficiency is told in a special report on "Educational Systems in the American Army" in the annual report of the commissioner of education, just issued. The statement was prepared by Capt. Douglas MacArthur and approved by Gen. Leonard Wood.

"No country in the world has as complete a system of professional, scholastic training for its officers as the United States," declares Captain MacArthur. "This is due to the inherent difference between the military establishments of foreign nations and that of our own. Their armies are at all times kept upon a war footing as a result of which they have ample opportunity for the perfect training of the personnel in the practical duties of the military profession."

"In such an army the main object is to train every man for the efficient performance of his duties in the grade which he holds when war comes. A lieutenant does not dream of becoming a captain merely as the result of war."

except as a vacancy is made for him in the casualties of battle. Only in the same way does a captain expect to become a colonel; nor would the idea be tolerated that great numbers of trained line officers are to be suddenly transferred to various staff positions.

"Their organizations are founded upon the theory that there is nothing more serious in the art of war, that technical and scientific training is needed by only a small portion of military officers; that certain things which a Napoleon must know, every officer must know, and can as readily acquire as he; while those things which differentiate a Napoleon from other generals can not be acquired in any school, not even in that of war."

"Such a system would be thoroughly unsound if transplanted to the American army, the organization of which is quite different from continental armies. In fact, the most striking feature in our service is the absence of what constitutes the very essence of the foreign establishments; that is, a great standing army serving in corps, divisions and brigades, in which the average officer of any grade learns the details of his profession by practical work and with the minimum of theory."

"Our system of military education must therefore differ from that of the other great nations of the world. It must be such as to educate our officers in that they will be able at a moment's notice, when the war expansion comes, to perform the duties of far advanced grades and to render service in branches of the army, both line and staff, in which they are not commissioned in time of peace. For this reason we have established a progressive system of schools designed to teach officers and men, limited only by their individual capacities for their assimilation, the duty of the man-in-arms in all grades from lowest to highest."

"The military educational system of the United States comprises: The Military academy at West Point for the education of cadets; post schools for the instruction of enlisted men; garrison schools for the instruction of officers in subjects pertaining to the performance of their ordinary duties; the army service schools at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., including the army school of the line, the army staff college, the army signal school, the army field engineering school, the army field service and correspondence school for medical officers; the special service schools, consisting of the engineer school, Washington Barracks, D. C.; the coast artillery school, Fort Monroe, Va.; the mounted service school, Fort Riley, Kan.; the army medical school, Washington, D. C.; the school of the field artillery, Fort Sill, Okla.; the school of musketry, Fort Sill, Okla.; the signal corps aviation school, San Diego, Cal.; the schools for bakers and cooks, Washington Barracks, D. C.; the president of San Francisco, Cal.; the training school for saddlers and for battery mechanics of field artillery, Rock Island arsenal, Ill.; the school of instruction for enlisted men of the regular army selected for detail for duty with the organized militia; the engineer trade schools; the army war college, Washington, D. C.; the schools of instruction for college students, and the military departments of civil institutions at which officers of the army are detailed under the provisions of law."

Boston Woman Says Friend Stole Her Husband's Love

BOSTON, June 5.—Roland H. Blood, undertaker, a prominent Pepperell citizen, is being sued for $25,000 by Mrs. Helen W. Crawford of West Cambridge.

The plaintiff further intends to bring suit against her own husband, William P. Crawford, for separate support. He is a salesman and earns from $30 to $50 per week, according to the wife. Of this amount, she stated last night, he gives her $2 each week for food and clothing.

They were married in Boston on Dec. 26, 1912. He was loving and attentive until December of last year, according to Mrs. Crawford, when he suddenly became very cold toward her and no longer showed any affection. She blames Mr. Blood for this change and declares that he is exerting an unusual influence over her husband.

Attorney H. H. Patton, who is counsel for Mrs. Crawford, exhibited a dozen letters to a reporter last night, purporting to come from Blood to Mr. Crawford. He told of his investigations in Pepperell and declared that he has been amazed at the result.

Blood is considered very influential in the town affairs of Pepperell, and is well thought of in church circles.

CHARTER BILL

Senate Passes Measure After Bitter Fight—Goes to Governor

BOSTON, June 5.—After a bitter fight in both branches the bill amending the charter of Boston by enlarging the membership of the city council was passed by the senate by a vote of 19 to 13 today. The measure which had previously passed the house provides that the council shall consist of 12 members elected by districts and five at large instead of the nine now elected at large. If signed by the governor it will be voted upon at the next state election.

WILSON AT ANNAPOLIS

PRESIDENT WELCOMED BY SALUTES FROM BATTLESHIPS—ATTENDS GRADUATION

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 5.—Welcomed by salutes from the battleships Idaho, Missouri and Illinois and the station ship Itasca Mercedes, President Wilson arrived here today on the Mayflower from Washington to take part in the Naval academy graduation exercises. Capt. W. E. Fullam, superintendent of the academy; Capt. W. G. Logan, commandant, and Lieut. Com. Chauncey Shackford went out to the Mayflower, a launch and brought the president and Secretary of the Navy ashore and took them directly to the academy armory, where the exercises were held. As the presidential party landed on the bank of the Severn another salute boomed from a shore battery.

A bad wind and rain storm made the going difficult for the Mayflower throughout the night.

SUDDEN DEATH

Steve Laughton Found Dying in His Barber Shop This Morning

One of Lowell's oldest and best known barbers, Stephen A. Laughton of 74 Chapel street, was found dying in his shop at 861 Central street, shortly before 8:30 o'clock this morning, and passed away in the ambulance on the way to St. John's hospital a few minutes later.

It is said that Mr. Laughton had been ill for some time and it is believed by his intimate friends that the fire which wrecked his home on Chapel street late yesterday afternoon probably hastened his death as he was very nervous last evening.

Mr. Laughton together with his wife left their home shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, the former stopping at his barber shop while Mrs. Laughton continued on her way to one of the local factories where she is employed. The next son of the deceased was about 8:30 o'clock when Patrolman Burke, who watches in upper Central street late nights, looked into the window and saw him sitting in a barber's chair with his head hanging down. The officer forced his way into the shop and upon finding him unconscious summoned the ambulance to bring him to St. John's hospital for treatment but death intervened. Undertaker McDermott was sent for to care for the body.

Mr. Laughton was about 55 years of age and had been a barber in Lowell for over thirty years, working in down-town shops for over 25 years and then opening the Opera House barber shop at 361 Central street, where he was in business up to the time of his death. His wife was grief-stricken when informed of his death as she stated that although he was probably affected by the fire, he was in fairly good spirits when she left him at the shop about 6:15 o'clock.

Dr. Meigs examined the body of Mr. Laughton at noon and stated that although he had not decided what caused the man's death he found nothing suspicious and believed that it was due to natural causes.

DUMP FIRE TODAY
A fire near the Allen street dump kept the members of hose 12 busy for some time this afternoon although no serious damage was done. The firemen were summoned by a telephone call about 1 o'clock and were kept on the scene until into the afternoon.

partments open to the public on commencement day and on other formal occasions, and those who availed of the privileges today were amply repaid, for aside from the splendid collection of the most modern machinery used in the textile industry many of the departments had exhibitions of their finished product. Text spoke volumes for the efficient instruction given. Above the main office was arranged a splendid exhibit of the work of the woolen and cotton finishing department, under Mr. Stewart, consisting of beautiful woollen goods, worsteds in various shades, some open, some being splendid examples in stripes and checks. Some fine broadcloths were also in evidence and many different patterns of high grade serge. As a practical application of the training given, some baseball suits in gray woolens were on exhibition, for all the athletic suits used by the students are made in the school. Some of the students who graduated today wore suits made from material that was finished from the raw product, in the school. In the exhibit of the wool and cotton finishing department were also many examples of sweaters, stockings, and finished cotton products of various colors.

In the large Kitten hall all the machinery for efficient weaving was set in readiness for the benefit of the operative. The various processes could be followed, and on the looms were many finished samples of woven carpet, tapestry, plush, cotton, toweling, percales, muslins and fine cottons. Principal Eames and the various department heads explained the many processes of the large and interested crowd that went through the many sections of the great school.

The wool and worsted yarn department was especially interesting as the various processes of converting the raw wool into yarn were explained. Here the wool is secured, combed, sorted and carded and spun into yarn. The Bradford and the French systems of production are followed, and in the French section is some splendid imported machinery from Alsace. In this department the strength of the yarn is also tested. The dyeing and finishing department proved of intense interest to those unfamiliar with this branch of the textile industry.

The design department had many exquisite and artistic examples of textile design suitable for all materials from the silk to tapestries, and there were examples of purely artistic design showing taste and originality.

Steamer Northland Bound From New York to Portland, Maine Grounded on Ledge

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 5.—Word was received here today that the Eastern Steamship Co.'s steamer Northland grounded on a ledge near Bartlett's reef late last night and that the passengers had to be taken from the vessel and transported to shore by the tug Tascos of the Scott Wrecking company. The Northland was bound from New York to Portland, Me. The seventy-five passengers taken off were forwarded to their destination by train this morning.

The Northland is reported to be resting on an even keel, with her hold filled with water. Members of the crew are still on board. Captain Johnson of the steamer reports that his vessel is in no immediate danger. It is likely she will be floated at high tide.

When the Northland struck she jammed well onto the reef and the pounding on the rocks soon punctured holes in her bows, through which the water reached the forward compartment. Divers were preparing today to go below the bows to determine the extent of the damage and to make temporary repairs.

Two Cases Given to the Juries
fore Judge Sanderson

There was very little going on in the court house on Gerham street today as two panels of jurors were locked up deliberating over their respective cases and one divorce occupied the time of Judge Sanderson in the jury-waived session. The case of Kallie vs. Jaynes Drug Co. was given to the jury shortly after the civil session of court opened as Judge Fox made his charge. Last yesterday afternoon within an hour after the jury was sworn Judge Fox ordered court adjourned until Monday afternoon at 10 o'clock, at which time a motion would again be returned.

The shortest trial of the present sitting took place after the above case was given to the jury when the suit of David L. Chase of Westford vs. Boston Condensed Milk Co. was opened. Qua, Howard and Rogers represented the defendant company.

The case was called by Clerk Hurd thirty after 10 o'clock and the evidence was completed at 12:49 minutes. As neither attorney had any argument to make the charge was very short and the case was almost immediately given to the jurors who will return a sealed verdict to be read Monday.

FUNERAL NOTICE

MURPHY--The funeral of Mrs. Mary

In this case the plaintiff, who is a Westford farmer, alleges that he sold milk valued at $204.00 to the Boston Condensed Milk Co., the contract being signed by Mr. Gregg and the president of the defendant company, one William A. Greenstein. The plaintiff has never received pay for the milk and brought suit for the suit but the attorney for the defense claimed that his opponent was not proved that Mr. Greenstein was president of the company when the contract was signed.

Jury-Waited Session

In the jury-waited session, in the court room on the second floor of the building with Judge Stephenson presiding, the divorce suit of Mrs. Edith E. Dickson of Lowell vs. Charles E. Dickson was on trial this morning and practically all of the day. The plaintiff was represented by WILLIAM Wilson while James Stuart Murphy acted for the respondent.

Mrs. Dickson seeks a divorce on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment and intoxication and in her plea alleges that in July, 1933, she is treated with considerable abuse at least one occasion. The petition was on the witness stand through

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—Owing to the gradually decreasing number of wild fur bearing animals, mole skins have found a ready market and are valuable commercially according to Farmers Bulletin 583, department of agriculture. It is significant to the lack of attention to small business matters, however, that American moleskins are not quoted or offered on the markets. All the skins used by American furriers are imported from Europe.

Auction lists of fur dealers in London show that more than 3,000,000 muskies were sold in 1911, 1912 and 1913. A small lot of American muskies secured by the biological survey, U. S. department of agriculture, was prepared and made up by an expert furrier who pronounced them in every respect equal or superior to European skins. It seems likely, therefore, that a new industry amounting to many thousands of dollars annually might be developed in this country.

In this country there are five recognized groups of true moles. Two of which are confined to the Pacific coast and the other three are distributed over the section east of the one hundredth meridian extending from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. In the United States the larger part of Pennsylvania, New York and New England the common mole occurs with the star-nosed mole and Brewer's mole. The mole is so seldom seen, even by those who are familiar with its work, that it is often confused with other animals, particularly the shrew. The mole or meadow mouse and the pocket gopher. However, it is readily distinguished by its stout, short front limbs ending in broad, rounded hands with palms turned outward. It has a rather elongated body, close shagreened fur, a pointed snout and a short tail. The insectivorous ears are an evidence. It is a creature of strictly subterranean habits.

It is believed commonly that the mole works only at regular periods, each day, but direct observation taken in late summer and fall fail to substantiate the theory. The moles are active, and seldom eaten by domestic cats and dogs which have learned to catch them. Hawks and owls take small toll from the mole, as an examination of the stomach contents of over 2000 of these birds disclosed the remains of but 13 moles. The birds which had been eaten by the red-tailed hawk (four), great short-eared hawk, (one), great horned hawk, and one each by the barred hawk, the barred owl, the great gray owl, and the screech owl. From an examination of the stomach contents of 200 moles taken in all parts of the year it was found that earthworms, beetles, and their grubs constitute the bulk of the food. Beetles and their larvae, spiders, centipedes, crabs, and puparia also form a part of a diet. Seed coats of corn, wheat, and nuts have been seen seldom and in stomachs of the moles.

complaints of damage or depredations by moles are frequent and insistent. However, in very many cases a thorough investigation would show that the smaller rodents which follow the mole's runways are responsible for the damage to corn and other cultivated seed products that grow underground.

When it is desirable to destroy the trap will be found to be the most efficient means. So far all experiments undertaken with the object of adding an acceptable poison bait have given negative results, as the very nature of the animal's food makes it difficult to secure a satisfactory substitute of live worms, grubs, and insects. However, the little animals seem to shrewd and quick to sense the dangerous vocabulary.

On poisonous substances. There are a number of excellent traps on the market, most of which will give good results if properly set. There are the carpenter, the scissor-jaw, and the choker. The scissor-jaw traps are designed to insure the mole in the ground by springing even spikes. The scissor-jaw traps are intended to set attitude the runway and grasp the mole freely when he attempts to pass in either direction, and the choker trap has a set of wire loops to encircle the burrow when the trap is sprung. The types are designed to be sprung by the action of a mechanism, a trigger protruding on a depressed portion of the mole ridge in a way as to be tripped when the mole passes beneath.

Miss Blomfield, Daughter of Lady Blomfield, Was Woman Who Interrupted Royal Function

LONDON, June 5.—Miss Mary Blomfield, daughter of Lady Sarah Leveson-Blomfield, widow of Sir Arthur Blomfield, was the woman who created the sensational scene at Buckingham palace last night, throwing herself on her knees before King George and Queen Mary, exclaiming "Your majesties, for God's sake, do not use force!"

Miss Blomfield alone was concerned in the incident.

Her sister, who also attended the court, was requested to leave the palace after the occurrence, despite the fact that she took no part in the demonstration.

She left without making any protest.

Officials of the palace today were on the verge of nervous prostration as the result of last night's scene and the lord chamberlain's department has taken every precaution to circumvent a repetition of the affair tonight when another function takes place at Buckingham palace.

Eye witnesses who were in the immediate vicinity at the time declare that the whole scene lasted less than ten seconds and that the woman had only time to ejaculate, "Your majesties, for God's sake," when she was seized and hustled out of the throne room, finishing the sentence as she went.

King George was the coolest man in the company and the presence of the king proceeded after the incident with clock work regularity.

ground for further action against Miss Bloomfield, except that she will be banned from future court functions.

The sisters obtained admission to the court in the ordinary way through application to the lord chamberlain's department.

Intimate friends of Miss Mary Bloomfield knew that she had strong militant suffragette tendencies but none of them had dreamed she would go to the extreme of interrupting such a customarily dignified function as a royal drawing room.

CERCLE QUI VIVE MET
The members of Cercle Qui Vive held their last reunion of the season last night, the affair being held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dion in Ludlum street. Vlau, while the booby prizes went to Joseph Delorme and Mrs. Telephone Faubert. In the course of the evening it was decided that the members of the circle take a day off on July 9 and journey to the lake in automobiles, where they will be spending the water.

Those present at last night's reunion were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Foley, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Delorme, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Vlau, Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Roussel and Mr. and Mrs. Telephone Faubert.

MILITANTS WRECK CHURCH

The Ancient Historic Church at Breadsall Was Destroyed by Explosions and Fire

DERBY, Eng., June 5.—The ancient and historic church at Breadsall, dating back to Norman times and containing many priceless relics, was destroyed by fire during the night. While no direct evidence was obtained that the fire was started by suffragettes they are suspected by the authorities, as explosions similar to those caused by the bombs usually employed by the "arsenal squad" were heard before the fire was discovered. It is also pointed out that some weeks ago a suffragette meeting in the village of Breadsall was broken up by boys and it is generally believed that the women burned the church for revenge.

BACK FROM SPRINGFIELD

Commissioners Carmichael, Brown, Donnelly and Morse, Fire Chief Saunders, City Solicitor Hennessy, Purchasing Agent Foye and City Messenger Monahan arrived home last night from Springfield, where they went, ostensibly to look over the different municipal departments and, incidentally, to visit the Knox automobile plant. They are loud in their praise of Springfield, her officials, buildings, streets, etc. They lay particular stress upon the beautiful auditorium which cost about $2,000,000, and is said to be one of the very best in the country. The charge for the hall for an evening is $100; $125 an hour after midnight and $250 for a whole day.

Commissioner Carmichael was at his office long before 9 o'clock this morning, though the party did not arrive home until 10 o'clock last night. Asked as to the trip, Mr. Carmichael said: "We had a very pleasant time and I think that we all learned a little that will be helpful in our work."

"There was no mistake made when Springfield was called the City of Homes, for there are many beautiful homes there, and the city, as a whole, is cleanliness personified. I spent considerable time in the fire houses, and I must say that the houses are splendidly equipped. They have more motor apparatus than we have in Lowell and everything is strictly up to date. They have four big machines, costing $10,000 each, and they are run by electricity. The electricity is in the wheels and the firemen with whom we talked said that the machines with the electric wheels were especially good in deep snow. The electricity for the individual machine, it was stated, does not cost more than $10 a year."

"One of the interesting features of the fire department there is the fire drill and I watched these drills with great interest. It is a very thorough drill, including all the fire movements even to hydrant hitches. In the building where the drill is held there is a dummy hydrant for quick hitch practice. Springfield also has a fire school and the firemen take occasional drills there."

SPILLANE IS ARRAIGNED

Held in Sum of $500 for Vicious Assault on John Maloney—Milkman Fined $50

Michael Spillane pleaded not guilty in police court this forenoon to assaulting John Maloney and asked for a continuance as he was not ready for trial. Supt. Welch stated that Mr. Maloney is at present confined to St. John's hospital and the defendant was held in the sum of $500 for his appearance in court next Friday morning. It is understood that he does not know that he stabbed anybody.

Milk Case
For having in his possession milk which had water added to it, Manuel J. Avila was ordered to pay a fine of $50, but he appealed and bail was fixed at $200. Members of the state board of health testified that they found the milk in the defendant's cart and that it was below the standard. J. Joseph O'Connor appeared for the defendant.

For Non-Support
Wladyslaw Syzas was charged with drunkenness and non-support of his wife and although he pleaded not guilty to the latter charge the testimony of the complainant and a police officer was sufficient to satisfy his Honor that Wladyslaw had been neglecting his wife of into and he was sentenced to the house of correction at Cambridge for four months.

Sent to Reformatory
Ethel M. Parker of Concord, N. H., the 19-year-old girl who was arrested when the police raided a house at 135 Cross street Tuesday evening, was arraigned on continuance today and was ordered committed to the reformatory at Sherborn. EXIT AND ENTRANCE IN WAR GAME PLAYED BY MEXICAN REBELS AND FEDERALS AT MONTEREY

REBELS ENTERING MONTEREY--2: FEDERALS ESCAPING ON HAND CAR--

The Mexican revolution, as you know, is a great game of hide and seek, of exits and entrances, with General Villa "it." One of these pictures show the rebels triumphantly entering Monterey, near Saltillo, after the federals were driven out. The federals later evacuated Saltillo, and Villa occupied that city as a base of supplies for his farther march southward. The other picture shows how some of the federals made their escape from Monterey when the pace became too hot for them. Traveling on such "palace" cars proved slow, but effective.

CLOSE CHURCHES EXPORTS AND IMPORTS VANITIE AND RESOLUTE

As Result of Outrages by Women—John E. Redmond Besieged

LONDON, June 5.—John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish nationalists, today declined a request by Irish women suffragettes that he receive a deputation on the subject of the inclusion of women as electors for the Irish parliament. Mr. Redmond pointed out that previous deputations of this nature had caused only unpleasantness and reiterated the view that Ireland under home rule must decide for herself whether she wants women voters.

In consequence of militant suffrage attacks churches in many parts of the country are being closed except for the usual Sunday services. A sample of the notices posted by the rectors is as follows:

"Owing to distasteful outrages by frenzied criminals who have no regard for God or man, this church will be closed except during the hours of divine service."

THE PARKER WILL CASE

ATTEMPT TO BREAK $500,000 WILL OF WINTHROP RECLUSE—PINNED BADGES ON NIGHT SHIRT

BOSTON, June 5.—The late Benjamin W. Parker of Winthrop, molasses broker and recluse, to pin badges on his night shirt, Atty. Fletcher Ranney declared he would show by testimony at the trial yesterday of Prof. Frederick P. Gay's contest of the $500,000 will, and Dr. Leslie H. Spooner, when asked if Parker was of sound mind when he made his will, testified, "I don't know." Dr. Spooner was a witness to the will.

The contest of the will is being heard before Judge King and a Suffolk jury. The contestant was a nephew of Parker and received $500 by the will, while the testator's brother, Clark Parker of Winthrop, received in trust all but $400 of the estate. Dr. Gay is professor of pathology at the University of California.

Dr. Spooner testified Parker, who died Dec. 12, 1910, suffered from heart ening of the arteries and toward the end of his life "was cranky, stubborn, childish, and hard to influence." He said he had never heard Benjamin mention the name of his brother Clark. He said Benjamin spoke frequently of Dr. Gay, his nephew. He said Benjamin was glad when Dr. Gay received his appointment in the pathological department of the University of California, and never heard Benjamin criticize Dr. Gay adversely.

Speaking generally, the witness said the testator was "a powerful, well-nourished man, but that though he was over 70 he was old for his years."

The state then rested its formal proof of the will.

Atty. Ranney, counsel for the contestant, said he would show that following an accident Parker lost weight and had dizzy spells so persons had to seize him; that persons described him as "a tremulous old man," and that his memory became bad. Atty. Ranney said, in his opening:

"You would tell him a thing and in a few minutes he had forgotten about it. He showed outbursts of childish emotion. He would pin badges on his nightshirt. He would accuse persons of not attending to him."

Referring to the life of Clark Parker, brother of the testator, Mr. Ranney said he would show that a short time before Clark went to California, Benjamin said he could no longer stand the career of his brother, so a little while after that Clark settled in California under the name of C. H. Davis, that once Benjamin, in 1903, went west and visited Clark. Mr. Ranney also told Dr. Gay that he would not make a will, as no Parker made one.

Three letters, addressed to Benjamin, purporting to have been written by Clark and his wife, each commencing with the salutation, "My dear, dear Benjamin," were read to the jury by Ranney. The letters were signed "Phoebe and Bucky." The letters were in part as follows:

"We were very much pleased with your letter, especially where Fred tried to get the keys of vault as he must have been sure that possession was not given to him. Oh, oh, oh, oh, it is nine points of the law. Oh, oh, oh, oh, it would have done it if he had only gotten his claws on the contents of that box. I really do not think it would have made any difference to him if two-thirds belonged to you and one-third to Louisa. I really think the Parkers do know a thing or two. Oh, but the gall he had to claim Aunt Jennie's things. They must be a set of ravenous wolves that Fred has connected up with to set him agoing in this way, for he would never have nerve enough himself to propose to ask for things that he is no more entitled to than any stranger."

"I must say you gave us much pleasure when you said you turned Fred's stocks and securities over to his keeping and took a receipt for same. Now when it comes to him to have the nerve to claim my mother's property I will not stand it, and I know that you do not think for one moment of tolerating such a gall as he is trying to impose upon us. For the love of Moses, what will he try next?"

Dr. Horace G. Rixley, assistant of the Taunton state asylum, read the hospital records relating to the mental condition of Mary C. Parker, deceased sister of the testator, who was an inmate of that institution.

John A. Riley, assistant clerk of probate, read from probate court papers relative to the guardianship of Clark Parker as an insane person. He stated that Benjamin W. Parker and Louisa M. Gay were the petitioners. The petition was filed Jan. 26, 1887, and was allowed by the court March 14, 1887. On Oct. 24, 1910, Dr. Rixley certified Clark Parker as sane and the guardianship was removed.

FLORENCE, Italy, June 5.—The plea of extenuating circumstances was accepted in behalf of Vincenzo Perugia, who stole Da Vinci's masterpiece, "Mona Lisa," from the Louvre in Paris and the judge sentenced him today to one year and 15 days imprisonment.

As Perugia has been in prison awaiting trial since December, he will not have to serve more than six months. The theft was carried out on Aug. 22, 1912, and the picture was not found until December, 1913, when Perugia offered it for sale to a Florentine antiquary.

A few moments later the fragments of the aeroplane to which the aviators were strapped fell among the trees and the bodies of the men were found horribly burned and mutilated.

Streams of Boiling Lava and Storm of Stones and Ashes Fall Over Dutch Island of Sanguir

MANILA, June 5.—A violent eruption of several volcanoes occurred today on the Dutch island of Sanguir, only about 140 miles directly south of Mindanao in the Philippines.

Streams of boiling lava poured down the sides of the mountains, overwhelming woods and cocoa plantations. At the same time a heavy rain of stones and ashes from various craters fell over the whole island.

Official reports do not mention loss of life but register the destruction of one hundred houses.

Sanguir is the largest of the group known as the Talauste islands in the Celebes sea, about 500 miles to the east of British North Borneo. Destructive outbreaks of Gunong Abu, the principal volcano on the island, occurred in 1711, 1812, 1883 and 1892.

AMONG THE TOILERS

International Car Workers

The International Association of Car Workers held its regular meeting last night in Odd Fellows building in Middlesex street and it was largely attended. Last night was a banner night for initiations, 15 being admitted. Twelve applications for membership were also received. President Ernest Griffin was the speaker of the evening and his talk on car workers was highly interesting. Several members spoke interestingly on the good and welfare.

Car Shop Machinists

The car shop machinists, who come from Concord, Merrimack, Fitchburg and Worcester, held their regular meeting last night in Odd Fellows building. Last night seemed to be the big night in all societies for initiations, and this union ranked up with the leaders, having admitted 20 new members. Considerable important business was transacted, and several of the members spoke on the good of the union.

Painters' Union Met

The Painters' union held their regular Thursday night meeting in Carpenters' hall with President Dana in the chair. Four new members were admitted and several applications for membership were received. The business agent reported business as good at the present time but that there is a big shortage in men in the painting trade. The examining board, which was established only a short time ago, is a great success. Every applicant for membership is examined as to his knowledge of the business before he is admitted. This helps to keep the union up to the highest standard, and also insures the employer who hires union men that he is getting something for his money. There are several of the members of the union working out of town, in the White mountains and at the beaches at the present time.

Machinists' Union

The machinists' rooms were crowded to their capacity at the regular meeting held last night. President Phelps called the meeting to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Routine business for the most part was transacted. Seven new members were admitted and four applications for membership were turned over to the investigating committee. They will be reported on at the next regular meeting. Several of the members addressed the body on topics relative to the betterment of labor conditions.

Trades and Labor Council

The Trades and Labor Council held its regular session in Trades and Labor hall in Middle street last evening and it was largely attended. President Timothy Bourke occupied the chair, and called the meeting to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Reports were received from various organizations showing that their organizations are growing rapidly. Several communications were received and were referred to the proper authorities. The action taken by the municipal council in placing the city employees under civil service was discussed at length, and it was unanimously voted to enter a protest against the same. The secretary was instructed to notify the municipal council of the action taken. Considerable routine business was transacted and the council adjourned to meet June 18.

stated that Michaelis did not have varicose veins until after the accident and that they came as the result of the accident which was described as having taken place in the packing room and that a big macking box fell on Michaelis' leg.

The committee on arbitration was made up as follows: David T. Dickinson, chairman; John J. Devine for the employee, and Benjamin J. Maloney for the insurer. The attorneys in the case were Fisher H. Pearson for the employee and George Kenney for the insurer.

Messrs. Dickinson and Maloney came to the conclusion that the employee had the disease before the accident, and while Mr. Devine dissented, the majority ruled. The employee, however, is entitled to a review of the evidence before the accident board within six days after the filing of the report by the committee on arbitration.

Buzz Car Licenses

Twenty-six applicants for chauffeurs' licenses took the weekly examination at city hall this forenoon. This is a very large class and the applicants came from Haverhill, Lawrence, Andover, the Billerica and Chelmsford and all around. These examinations are given every Friday by the Massachusetts highway commission and are held in the old councilmanic chamber at city hall. The examiners today were Messrs. Lathrop, Karmub and Bouzant.

approved from time to time by the board of education, so as to read as follows: Section 2.—Every city and every town containing, according to the latest census, state or national, 500 families or householders, shall, unless specifically exempted by the board of education and under conditions to be defined by it, and any other town may maintain a high school, adequately equipped, which shall be kept by a principal and such assistants as may be needed, of competent ability and good morals, who shall give instruction in such subjects designated in the preceding section as the school committee consider expedient to be taught in the high school. Any high school maintained by a town required to be a superintendency union shall be maintained in accordance with standards of organization, equipment and instruction approved from time to time by the board of education. One or more courses of study, at least four years in length, shall be maintained in each such high school and it shall be kept open for the benefit of all the inhabitants of the city or town for at least 40 weeks, exclusive of vacations. In each year, a town may cause inspection to be given in a portion only of the foregoing requirements if it makes adequate provision for instruction in others in the high school of another city or town.

(Approved May 22, 1914.)

Employment Certificates

An Act Relative to the Issuance of Employment Certificates to Children. Section 1. The third paragraph of section 53 of chapter 514 of the acts of the year 1903, as amended by section 17 of chapter 779 of the acts of the year 1913 is hereby further amended by adding at the end of said paragraph the words, and provided, further, that the superintendent of schools shall have authority to suspend this requirement in any case when, in his opinion, the interests of the child will best be served by such suspension.

Section 2. No school record shall be issued or accepted unless the child has regularly attended the public schools for not less than 150 days after becoming 15 years of age; provided, however, that the school record may be accepted in the case of a person who has been an attendant at a public day school or other lawfully approved school for a period of not less than seven years, if in the opinion of said superintendent such person is mentally incapable of acquiring the educational qualifications herein prescribed; and, provided, further, that the superintendent of schools shall have authority to suspend this requirement in any case when, in his opinion, the interests of the child will best be served by such suspension.

Section 3. This act shall take effect upon its passage. (The foregoing was laid before the governor on the 18th day of May, 1914, and after five days it had the force of a law) as prescribed by the constitution, as it was not returned by him with his objections thereto within that time.)

MEDIATORS DISCUSS THE LATEST DEVELOPMENTS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 5.—The general attitude here in regard to the expected reply from Gen. Carranza, chief of the constitutional cause in Mexico to the note the South American mediators sent him last Tuesday, through his representatives in Washington is a mixture of doubt and hope. In some quarters it was believed Carranza's response would be negative, but it was hoped it would leave open the door for continued correspondence. Semi-official statements in regard to the attitude of Carranza towards the mediation proceedings indicate that he is not ready to accept unreservedly the offer of good offices practically renewed by the mediators.

While no meetings between the mediators and either the American or the Mexican delegates were scheduled for the day, the mediators themselves planned to get together to discuss the latest phases of the situation.

"Affairs are bettering," he said, when asked as to the likelihood of Carranza's participation in the conference. He did not expect, however, to receive an answer from his chief before last Saturday or Sunday.

Meanwhile officials of the administration continued their conferences with Carranza's agents urging them to recommend that a favorable reply be sent to the mediators. Officials of the state and navy departments were occupied with plans for meeting any situation that might arise at Tampico through efforts of Huerta to establish a blockade to halt shipments of arms for Carranza. American war vessels off Alvarado and Puerto Mexico reported that Huertista ships had made no move to leave. They will continue under the surveillance of the American men-of-war.

Shipment of arms for Carranza that left Galveston and New York were likely to reach their destination unmolested, it was believed here today. While orders had been issued to prevent the clearance of vessels carrying arms for any Mexican port, yet two steamers sailed with war cargoes through the failure of the state department's instructions to reach proper officials in time.

MEDIATORS OPTIMISTIC

Confident Carranza Will Decide to Take Part in Proceedings—Note in Four Days

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Carranza's statement that he would not reply to the last note of the South American envoys until he reached Saltillo from Durango, confirmed the belief of administration officials today that the constitutionalists' final attitude toward entering the Niagara conference would not be known for three or four days. Optimism expressed at Niagara Falls that Carranza would decide to take part in the proceedings was reflected here. The statement of Rafael Zubaran, the constitutionalist chief representative in Washington attracted widespread attention.

"Affairs are bettering," he said, when asked as to the likelihood of Carranza's participation in the conference. He did not expect, however, to receive an answer from his chief before last Saturday or Sunday.

While no meetings between the mediators and either the American or the Mexican delegates were scheduled for the day, the mediators themselves planned to get together to discuss the latest phases of the situation.

"Affairs are bettering," he said, when asked as to the likelihood of Carranza's participation in the conference. He did not expect, however, to receive an answer from his chief before last Saturday or Sunday.

Meanwhile officials of the administration continued their conferences with Carranza's agents urging them to recommend that a favorable reply be sent to the mediators. Officials of the state and navy departments were occupied with plans for meeting any situation that might arise at Tampico through efforts of Huerta to establish a blockade to halt shipments of arms for Carranza. American war vessels off Alvarado and Puerto Mexico reported that Huertista ships had made no move to leave. They will continue under the surveillance of the American men-of-war.

Shipment of arms for Carranza that left Galveston and New York were likely to reach their destination unmolested, it was believed here today.

While orders had been issued to prevent the clearance of vessels carrying arms for any Mexican port, yet two steamers sailed with war cargoes through the failure of the state department's instructions to reach proper officials in time.

Whether the American government might stop those shipments at Tampico was a question upon which no definite official light had been thrown today.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 5.—The general attitude here in regard to the expected reply from Gen. Carranza, chief of the constitutional cause in Mexico to the note the South American mediators sent him last Tuesday, through his representatives in Washington is a mixture of doubt and hope. In some quarters it was believed Carranza's response would be negative, but it was hoped it would leave open the door for continued correspondence. Semi-official statements in regard to the attitude of Carranza towards the mediation proceedings indicate that he is not ready to accept unreservedly the offer of good offices practically renewed by the mediators.

YOUNG GIRL INJURED

ing the Lowell Hospital This Morning

After being released from the Lowell hospital this forenoon after having a sore hand treated, Georgie Kinnor, a young girl residing at 2 Adams street, was the same instant injured again this afternoon as a result of being thrown from a fruit wagon when the horse attached to it became frightened and ran away. The cut on the girl's hand, which had not completely healed, was reopened and the sustained abrasions about the face and body.

According to witnesses of the accident, the young girl was sitting on the seat of the wagon while her brother was delivering fruit in a house on Mt. Grove street. The horse became frightened and started to run at a rapid gait. As the team neared the corner of Mt. Grove street and Fourth avenue, Georgie was thrown from her seat and in putting out her hand to protect herself, she injured it and also was cut about the face. The ambulance was called and she was removed to the hospital.

It is said that the wagon was also slightly damaged and some of the fruit was strewn over the street.

ON MORAL EDUCATION

In moral education don't moralize. This is the advice of Prof. F. G. Gould, an English educator of note, who has been touring the United States as a demonstrator for the moral education league of London. Prof. Gould's carefully worked out program for moral instruction in the elementary grades impresses bureau of education officials as one of the most valuable of the present efforts to make education tell in new character.

Story-telling forms the basis for most of the instruction in Professor Gould's plan. Once a week, or oftener, it is assumed, the teacher or principal gives a systematic lesson on the conduct of life. The various virtues are taught, not as abstract notions, but by concrete examples and by interesting stories. The teacher is not to say: "This ought to be done," she is rather to say: "This thing has been done." Hearing constantly about right actions, the pupils learn to appreciate right conduct. The spirit behind the instruction is the spirit of service, but this and other technical moral terms are to be rarely, if ever, mentioned. "It is possible," Prof. Gould points out, "to give many lessons on civic duty and scarcely ever use the word patriotism, and yet the temper of consecration to one's duty and country may permeate the teaching and inspire the pupils."

Prof. Gould disclaims anything novel or faddish about his work. It is by no means new, he says. "I have over and over again affirmed that my teaching was in the strict sense of the term, antiquated; that it is to say, it consists of employment of the concrete and dramatic manner which is illustrated by ancient poets as well as modern, by the narratives and parables of the bible or the Talmud, by ballads, legends and story-tellers of the middle ages and by allegorists such as Comenius and John Bunyan."

"What perhaps I may claim is that I have reminded educators of simple, fundamental principles, which, in the somewhat unnatural rush of overcrowded school programs, we are all apt to forget; and along with that effort to get back to more direct action in moral teaching, I have combined a certain enthusiasm and freshness; at least I hope so."

pus and park fronting the school are substantial and constant reminders of the generosity and foresight of one of Lowell's most loyal sons, Frederick Fanning Ayer. The building on the northern side of the group is evidence of the belief of Miss Charlotte P. Kisson, Mrs. Emma Stott and the Kisson Machine Co. in the stability of this school. In the manufacturers of textile machinery, we find a similar belief and a proof in the extensive equipment they have provided to assist in the instruction of those who may prepare to enter the textile industry. This old commonwealth, through its generosity, each year has added as much as the others to assist in erecting the remaining buildings of the quadrangle and the power house at the rear, besides contributing the cost of maintenance and equipment. The city of Lowell appreciating the value that the school is to its mills and the progress of its people that operate them, adds each year such an amount that her people, both young and old, may attend the evening school with free tuition.

But with all of these buildings, this equipment and this support the work of the school could not be considered successful without the efficient work of the instructing staff. The ever-widening reputation of the school, through the young men and young women it sends out each year, is evidence of the high character of the instruction given. It has been through the efforts of the heads of the various departments and the co-operation given them by their assistants that the work of the school has grown higher and wider. In this work we all appreciate the encouragement, guidance and support given us by the trustees in our endeavor to place the school upon the highest plain. Perhaps the greatest stimulus has come from the graduates who come back frequently with their problems, with their desire for further knowledge and with their advice and suggestions. It is with much pride that the school can number in its alumni young men who are making successful manufacturers in many parts of the state and country. Almost every class that enters numbers among its members brothers of past students or graduates. The class that leaves us today is no exception, for an alumnus of the class of '29 extends his hand to congratulate his brother in the class of 1914.

Feeling the effects of the support of the trustees, the ambition of the instructing staff and the encouragement of the alumni to build better and climb higher, the curriculum has steadily been raised, entrance requirements advanced and subjects added to broaden and strengthen the training given. Such policies can have no other result than to keep, for a few years, the registration from increasing materially. It is believed, however, that the ultimate result will mean an enviable reputation for the school, satisfaction to the graduate and a real profit to the textile industry of this country. We trust that you will judge the work of this school by these standards and not by the number of the students or number of graduates. The young men who today receive their diplomas and degrees realize that these papers represent work, study and thought. They know that their record in all of the subjects must be clear and that the standard in each subject has been reached. There are no certificates awarded for partial courses. The diploma is awarded for the complete three year course and the degree for a full four year course. The size of the present class would be somewhat larger had not some students elected the degree course, thus waiting the right to the diploma this year. These, we trust, will receive their degree next year. It has been the constant purpose to make the diploma or degree from the Lowell Textile school signify that the holder knows how to work and to think, and that he is not afraid of either.

If we judge correctly from the requests of employers for graduates from this school, we believe the industry is looking for the best. Every year the inquiries are for more highly and broadly trained men, men for positions of responsibility and men who have to rise. It is evident that those in the industry who are studying industrial conditions in this country today for the purpose of meeting foreign competition believe they will do it by more brains than cheaper labor. One evidence of this is that wherever a graduate from this school has been successful the owners have come back for others who have developed their minds and acquired skill.

While this afternoon we are particularly interested in those who have completed the day courses, we must not forget that only a few weeks ago the school awarded to a number of young men the certificate of the evening school. These young men, too, are ambitious to improve their present condition, and judging by the records that many graduates from the evening school have made, they are fulfilling the same mission as those who finish the day course. The young men of Lowell and vicinity appreciate the opportunity they have to attend this school, and the people of Lowell, through their representatives at city hall, have given their cooperation that the youth of Lowell may have the privileges. Lowell, as well as the state of Massachusetts, must ultimately reap the benefit emanating from this school. If the manufacturers continue to take into their employ those who have come under its influence, we are all pleased that we have with us this afternoon one who not only officially represents this city, but who also represents, because of his age and mind, the young and thinking men of Lowell.

Mayor Murphy
Mayor Murphy introduced by Principal Eames, spoke in part as follows: "It is a great pleasure for me to be here to assist in these graduation exercises, not only as mayor, but as a citizen who is interested in the Lowell Textile school."

"The institution you represent here today is an institution that the people of Lowell take great pride in, and this institution depends upon the young men who go out from it. It doesn't make any difference how many graduates go out of this school so long as they acquire themselves when they go out in the world in a manner that will reflect credit upon the school and upon the city of Lowell. Now are to be the men who will improve the textile industry of the country and you are to be congratulated for having the opportunity to graduate from the best textile school in the world. Success be with you!"

It is the custom of the Lowell Textile school to throw its various doors.

Was Quickly Checked
by Firemen

BOSTON, June 5.—Chief Peter McDonough and his men made a fortunate stop of a menacing fire at 7 o'clock this morning, on the second floor of the four-story brick and marble front building at the corner of High and Pearl streets. The building is occupied by the Decatur & Hopkins Co. dealers in hardware, cutlery, paints and cut glass. The damage was estimated at $5000.

The fire was held where it started in the rear of the second floor of the middle building, numbered 101, 103 and 105 Pearl street. There are party walls separating this middle building from the ones on either side of it, and as the fire doors between the buildings were closed, the flames were most easily held within the walls of the middle building.

Patrolman Curran of the Court square station discovered the fire, and running to the corner of Pearl and Congress streets, he sent in an alarm from box 75. Fire Deputy Chief Taber and Engine 21's crew and ladder companies 3 and 14 soon had ladders laid and were at work on the fire. Chief McDonough and Engine 26's crew and Engines 7 and 4 followed right after them.

Ladder 14 men raised a ladder at the high street side of the building, and firemen soon ran to the roof and began work at that point by opening up skylights and ventilating the fire. Firemen who climbed to the fire escapes on the second floor at the rear of being building had narrow escapes from being blown to the streets, for when they opened the fire shutters the flames spread out of the windows with great fury and drove them to the street.

These men bravely worked their way back again, carrying their lines before them, and playing streams into the windows, gradually driving the flames back, while firemen who went into the building on the Pearl street side worked their way into the rear, driving the flames backward. In this manner the fire was confined and smothered in the rear of the second floor. The building was heavily stocked with costly goods, but the protective men did excellent work, covering the stock, and in this way saved much of the goods from damage. It was one of the best exhibitions of efficient firefighting seen in this city in a long time.

SHAMROCK FOUR IS FAST
LONDON, June 5.—The sporting reporter of the Evening Standard today estimates that Shamrock IV, Sir Thomas Lipton's new challenger for the America's cup will have to allow about four minutes to the biggest of the American defenders. He credits an unnamed American yachtsman who witnessed yesterday's sail stretching spins and who has seen all three defenders as saying Shamrock IV will prove to be faster than any of them. In this case much will depend upon the question of time allowance.

MINIMIZE PERILS OF DASH TO MEXICO CITY

By JOHN J. BREEN.

SEVERAL regiments of cavalry, an aviation squadron and contingents of the signal corps with wireless telegraphy field outfits were mainly considered in the army plans for the march of United States forces from Vera Cruz to Mexico City. Although it has been claimed that there would be a great loss of life in this 265 mile march through mountainous territory, heads of the army maintain that in the scheme of invasion planned the loss of life would not be considerable.

It was planned that when the time of invasion came a whole flock of flying machines would cross the Rio Grande in advance of the first regiments of United States troops. It was their business to do the preliminary reconnaissance work, and for this purpose each aeroplane carried a small but efficient outfit for sending information by wireless telegraphy.

While American forces occupied Vera Cruz there was begun a campaign against mosquitoes, stagnant pools and all other yellow and typhoid fever and malarial breeding conditions, and the inhabitants found themselves under strict rules of sanitary conduct. Yellow fever, fortunately, has not been prevalent in Vera Cruz in recent years.

While medical officers experienced in sanitation were early on the ground, future steps contemplated comprehended the possibility of a protracted occupation of the city. The surgeon general's department also completed plans for conserving the health of the troops in the event that there might be a general invasion of Mexico. Promise is given that there will be no repetition of the experiences in the war with Spain, when the army was handicapped by lack of training and experience in camp sanitation and knowledge of how to deal with tropical diseases. These plans included preparations for the sanitary care of all our volunteer troops. "Among the volunteers," said a medical officer, "some considerable experience exists as a result of maneuver camps and the Spanish war, many veterans of that war being in the militia. The proportions of the troops, however, will be from 50 to 75 per cent of the total strength, as far as experience in the field is concerned. There will be, therefore, a considerable force of green men to be taught camp sanitation, as well as given military instruction. Fortunately most of the officers of the volunteers will be men who are impressed with the value of sanitation in the field. They and the regular officers and older soldiers will quickly instruct the new men in habits essential to health in camp."

"There exists, then, a yeast to leaven the whole bread that was absent in 1898. Since that eventful year the officers of the medical department of the army have been studying and practicing military hygiene and sanitation with brilliant results, as demonstrated in the last camps in Texas. Here 10,000 men lived for a year with a sick rate lower than that at the average post."

Cavalry to Make Advance.

Officers who worked on the cavalry plan of advance against Mexico City claimed to have perfected a plan by which they could force the Mexican troops under General Maas to abandon their defenses along the Mexican and international railways and retire upon their capital. The successful accomplishment of this plan would be followed in the event of the Mexicans making a stand at Mexico City by the use of artillery in laying siege to the Mexican capital.

In 1846 the United States began the Mexican war in expectation that a determined military demonstration in northern Mexico would be sufficient. That theory was shortly abandoned because of the vigorous resistance offered, and then, as now, Vera Cruz was selected as the basic point of attack. The estimation in which Mexican troops were then held is shown by the fact that the United States soldiers always fought superior numbers, and, although they conquered, the fighting was desperate, as a rule, and losses heavy.

General Scott began the invasion of southern Mexico from Vera Cruz in the spring of 1847 with 12,000 men, the whole regular army of the United States. The city was surrendered after several days' bombardment, and Scott on the way to Mexico City, at Cerro Gordo, encountered Santa Anna of recent disastrous experience with General Taylor. Santa Anna had 12,000 men against 3,000 here, with the advantage of position and artillery with the Mexicans, but in a two days' fight the great Mexican leader had to taste defeat.

Scott could have marched into the city the next day, but he offered an armistice, which the Mexicans eagerly accepted, and proceeded to use as treacherously as they had earlier arrangements of the kind earlier in the war. They killed one soldier and wounded another in a street fight, and Santa Anna exerted every effort to prepare for further resistance while pretending to be considering plans for peace. When Scott protested he sent an insulting reply, and the United States army resumed operations by attacking Molino del Rey, which fortifications included the Casa Mata, or "house of death," as the arsenal was called, and the castle of Chapultepec.

Wright lost eleven of fourteen officers in his command in the charge and the majority of his men. Colonel Graham was mortally wounded, shouting "Charge!" as he died. McIntosh was shot at the head of his men. Martin Scott took command and fell lifeless as he ordered the regiment forward. Major Walte replaced him and fell almost as quickly. The soldiers fell in files. Lieutenant Burrell and many others, wounded, were murdered by Mexicans on the ground.

Hand to Hand Fight.
Four thousand Mexican cavalry pour-

ed into the field, but Duncan tore them to fragments with his battery. The United States troops finally forced their way through portholes of the forts and took the works in a terrible hand to hand struggle. The Mexicans rallied and charged twice in trying to recover their position. Worth lost 800 men, fifty-eight of whom were officers, out of a command of 3,500.

A few days later, by a series of the same brilliant advances and desperate attacks, the troops took the castle of Chapultepec. That ended the war, and Scott's little army marched into the conquered Mexican capital, now 6,000 men, thousands of miles from home, with a record of four battles won against double, treble and quadruple their own number, but not one reverse. Mexico City was occupied Sept. 14, 1847.

As now planned the cavalry movement scheme comprised a series of detours from the railroad by the cavalry in its movement westward from Vera Cruz, but always with the view of closing in upon Mexico City after forcing the retirement of the Mexican federals along the two lines of railway. It was believed by army officers that, despite what General Maas has done, the Mexican troops could be forced back on Mexico City with the loss of comparatively few men by the Americans.

The plan under consideration and tentatively worked out entailed the reconstruction of the railroad by the American army as it forces ahead, with the aid of the cavalry flanking movements, so as to have the railroad available for use in handling heavy artillery.

REFUGEES GIVING UNCLE SAM CONCERN

ONE of the many things that added to the perplexities of the United States government in the Mexican situation was providing for the safety of refugees from the troubled southern republic.

Some of the refugees who arrived at Galveston from Tuxpan and Tampico say that they were shanghaied by the United States government and taken away from the Mexican coast when they did not want to come. Most of brought from Mexico against their will.

There were others, however, who were mighty glad to get away from the scene of trouble. In Tampico, following the news of the landing of United States marines in Vera Cruz, 300 Americans, men, women and children, were barely saved from mob violence. A crowd of infuriated Mexicans surrounded the Southern hotel in Tampico, hurled cobblestones through the windows and shouted, "Kill the gringos!" The mob increased, and, goaded by the fiery speeches of its leaders, the Mexicans demanded the lives of the men, women and children barricaded in the hotel.

The news of the capture of Vera Cruz spread through the town as if carried upon the breeze. A small crowd of peons marched up and down the streets. Mass meetings were held in the plaza, at which the speakers urged the crowd to take immediate vengeance on all Americans. Alarmed at the threats, the Americans barricaded themselves in the hotel.

A. M. Brown, president of the Mexican Drilling and Exploration company, who had left the Southern hotel and gone to the Imperial for his dinner, remembered that two of his drillers were in the threatened building. Mr. Brown went to the hotel, but his employees refused to venture out, as the mob was again surging back toward the plaza. Mr. Brown decided, however, that safety lay at the Imperial, and, as the mob was returning, he hurried to the roof and peered down on the angry paraders. He tells what he saw from the roof:

"I thought it was going to be a second Alamo. Stones were smashing against the Southern on all sides. Shots were fired, and not a window on the first floor was left. Word of trouble must have reached the foreign ships in the river, for as I was looking down I saw four sailors headed by an officer. At first I thought they were our men, but as they came under a light I saw that they were from the Dutch cruiser that was in the Panuco river. The officer was looking at a bit of paper he carried and then at the stores along the street. There was only one Dutchman in the town, and he kept a jewelry store opposite the Imperial.

"The soldiers stopped, knocked at the jeweler's door and took him, his family and trunkful of jewelry aboard the ship."

"A few minutes later there was a commotion in the mob, and I heard some one speaking. Then the crowd began to disperse, and I learned that officers from the German ship Boenden had informed Zaragoza, the military governor of Tamaulipas, that they would give him fifteen minutes in which to disperse the mob. They told him if he didn't comply they'd land marines and eight machine guns and do it themselves."

VERA CRUZ PRISON RELIC OF DARK AGES

MOST famous of all Mexico's prisons, noted for the untold thousands tortured within its walls, the castle prison of San Juan de Ulua, stands today on a little island overlooking Vera Cruz pretty much as it stood in the centuries of its existence. On April 28 the flag of Mexico fluttered down from its flagstaff. The stars and stripes rose in its place as Captain Paul Chamberlain and a company of marines from the North Dakota took possession.

In his dispatch to the navy department reporting the taking over of the fortress Rear Admiral Fletcher said:

"The prison has been taken over under mutual agreement made between myself and Colonel Villal, in charge, which agreement was signed and approved by Admiral Badger. There are in the prison 43 prisoners who have been sentenced for crime, 75 who have been accused of crime but have not been brought to trial and also 325 who have not been accused of any misdemeanor whatever. These 325 were arrested mostly within the last two months in order to be forced into the federal army and for no other reason. The above data was obtained from the officer in charge. The conditions in the prison under which the 325 men are living is described as frightful."

Secretary Daniels directed the release of these 325 men, ordering that the seventy-five awaiting trial should be held pending investigation by the American authorities into the charges against them.

"No stage manager putting on 'The Count of Monte Cristo' could imagine anything more creepy than the sight which met the eyes of the American officers when the keys were turned in the rusty locks and they entered the ancient vaults," wrote an American newspaper man describing his visit to the prison.

In the grim, forbidding, gloomy pile of San Juan de Ulua the Spanish found a building suited to purposes and one which appealed to their torture loving tastes. Only a fifteenth century Spaniard could have designed such a castle.

Leslie Hulbert, found crazed in the fortress prison under the sea, will be sent back to the United States. Relatives live in Rochester, N. Y.

Madero's interference on Dr. C. S. Harle's behalf resulted from an investigation into conditions in the prison. The physician's health had been well nigh wrecked before he was transferred again to Chihuahua.

Hulbert was a lawyer in Rochester in 1901, when Mitchell's sister, Helen, was employed in his office. He married the beautiful young girl and soon thereafter was indicted, with William Mitchell, for fraudulent practices in the securing of divorces and for obtaining money under false pretenses.

The three left Rochester and a month later "Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Richardson" (identified eventually as Hulbert and his wife) appeared in Chihuahua, where Dr. Harle was already established as medical examiner for an insurance company. "Richardson" became an agent for this company.

Taken to Chihuahua for trial for alleged insurance swindles, nearly four years elapsed before the men actually faced a judge. Their friends had in the meantime become insistent in their behalf, and repeated appeals for interference were made to the state department. Their own attorneys appearing responsible for these adjournments, no action was taken by Washington, and in 1905 the men were convicted and sentenced to be shot.

Harle's wife had in the meantime divorced him. His mother, Mrs. Annie L. Harle of Abilene, Tex., however, never let up in her efforts to save her son, and four days before the time set for the execution of Chihuahua, acting governor Jose Maria Sanchez, commuted the sentences. He acted at the direction of Ambassador Creel, the actual governor of the state.

Mrs. Harle was wealthy, and her expenditures in behalf of the physician were great. Hulbert is said to have been rich himself, and it is known that he spent large sums.
